SnowSlam All-nighter 2013 Headlines Fireflight in Concert

Submitted by Pastor Greg Ledgerwood

The annual SnowSlam All-nighter is set for December 29, 2013. The night is full of activity and is open to all 6th thru 12th graders at a cost of $30. Several area churches have information regarding this event. If your church does not or you do not have a church please contact Sidney Assembly of God at 406-433-2550 or stop by and pick up the permission form and make payment at 414 E Main.

A drastic change for this year is that there will be an extra $5 charged for purchasing tickets at the door on the day of the event. "We want to make sure we have enough room for our students. There are only so many seats available," says Pastor Greg Ledgerwood of Sidney Assembly of God. The concert portion of the night is open to the general public at a cost of $25. Tickets can be reserved in the same manner by contacting Sidney Assembly of God.

Through the years the event has grown to over 300 students. Each year a different guest is featured from a concert with the Tim Bach Band to a motorcycle stunt man in Brad Bennett. This year will feature the Grammy nominated band Fireflight. It is not often a band of this caliber comes to the Sidney area. To get a sneak peak at the band check their website out at www.fireflightrock.com

As usual the allnighter will involve ice skating, bowling, basketball tournament, volleyball tournament, dodgeball and video games. Pizza will be served along with some early morning snacks. A half court shot contest will happen somewhere in the wee hours of the morning for an unspecified amount of cash.

Four years ago the success of the event demanded action. Now, there is a sister allnighter that takes place in Glasgow, MT. The Glasgow all-nighter is December 30th. For information on that night call Tom Fauth at 406-228-2694. The two nights share the featured guest for their nights, but each night has taken on its own life bringing a beacon of light to Eastern Montana. For more information please do not hesitate to contact Associate Pastor Greg Ledgerwood at Sidney Assembly of God, 433-2550.

Ford Donates $77,500 to Feed Boys and Girls As Holidays Approach

As part of its commitment that no child should go hungry, especially as the holidays approach, Ford Motor Company Fund is donating $77,500 to the Boys and Girls Clubs of Washington, Oregon, northern Idaho, Montana and Alaska.

Sixty-four clubs across the five-state region are receiving Ford Fund grants ranging from $1,000 to $2,500 as part of the Ford Focus on Hunger campaign. This donation will expand the previously launched Ford Focus on Child Hunger campaign and increase the number of children who benefit from this hunger initiative.

The Boys & Girls Club of Richland County is receiving $1,000.

"As many families prepare for holiday celebrations, others are struggling simply to keep food on the table," said Jim Vella, president, Ford Motor Company Fund. "Today's donation is one more step to support families and children who face food

Kountry Catering Open at Sidney Elks Lodge

By Dianne Swanson

Kountry Catering is open at the Elks Lodge in Sidney. Owner Vicki Fowler is excited about putting her lifetime of culinary experience into catering to the needs of the community.

Originally from Glendive, Fowler started her career as a freshman in her mom's café in Terry. She then became food and beverage manager at the 4 Aces in Deadwood, SD before tackling the job as kitchen supervisor at the Holiday Inn in Spearfish, SD, where they did a lot of catering. She has spent the past 8 years in Texas, busy raising grandchildren. Fowler's husband Thomas is the compliance officer for KC Sand & Gravel. After their youngest child graduated from high school in Texas, Vicki and 2 of her grandchildren moved to Sidney to be with Thomas.

With 25 years experience, Fowler is ready to cater meals for all sizes of gatherings including business meetings, safety meetings, luncheons, birthdays, anniversaries, weddings and more. Catering can be at the Elks Lodge, or any suitable location.

Everything Fowler serves is homemade, including pie crust. "I love to bake and I love to cook," she said.

A Sunday buffet will be served up each week from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. beginning Dec. 22. Enjoy a wide variety of home cooked foods for only $13.50 for adults, $6.00 for kids 4 to 9. Kids 3 and under eat free and there is a 10% senior discount for those 62 and older.

Fowler is also planning Steak Nights around the Elks activities. Those will be advertised. She also plans to launch "to-go" foods very soon.

Fowler is now taking orders for homemade breads, rolls, pies, cookies, cakes, cinnamon and caramel rolls. "I don't decorate cakes," she said, laughing. Call 1-817-403-6487 or visit Kountry Catering on Facebook to order for pickup the following week.

The Kountry Catering Facebook page is updated daily, so watch for specials, steak nights and other activities.

Fowler invites everyone to stop by and get acquainted.

Sidney Second Best Place in MT to Start a Family

A study of the best towns to raise a family in Montana was taken by NerdWallet. While many couples are ready to start a family, these future parents must consider several factors when choosing the right place to settle down.

NerdWallet, a consumer advocacy website, has analyzed national and statewide data to determine the best places in Montana for raising a family. Sidney ranked number 2 and high on their list that evaluated five factors:

1. Public school rating
2. Median home value
3. Ongoing cost of homeownership
4. Median income
5. Economic growth

The Best Towns for Young Families

1. Columbus
2. Sidney

Sidney is the seat of Richland County, near the state's eastern border. The city is a major retail center in the region, drawing people from eastern Montana and western North Dakota. Recreational opportunities are great here, too, with an 18-hole golf course, an Olympic-size swimming pool and the only indoor hockey arena in the eastern half of the state.

3. Bozeman
4. Dillon
5. Bigfork
6. Lockwood
7. Shelby
8. Lolo
9. Livingston
10. Kalispell

Letter to the Editor: New Program Helps Communities Prepare for Drought

In 2012, two-thirds of the continental United States was affected by drought.

The losses were staggering: $30 billion to agriculture alone and far more when you add the damages to water supplies, tourism, transportation, and near-shore fisheries. Fighting drought-related wildfires tacked on another $1 billion.

"Last year, the worst drought in generations devastated farms and ranches across the nation," USDA Secretary Tom Vilsack said earlier this fall. "But our work isn't done and we can always better prepare for the future."

Drought will likely be an issue for the foreseeable future. A recent article in Scientific American magazine, for example, pointed out the similarities between conditions in the American Southwest and those in Australia before that country's devastating 10-year Millennial Drought.

In response to requests from communities, businesses, and farmers and ranchers around the country, the federal government a few weeks ago announced the National Drought Resilience Partnership. It's an effort to streamline access to federal agency drought recovery resources and provide information about conditions, among other tasks.

But there is much that local governments, non-profits, and community water-based organizations can do to prepare for, mitigate, and recover from the effects of drought.

With that in mind the National Center for Appropriate Technology is developing the Drought Relief Corps, a program designed to apply the energy of the nation's youth to the issue. Similar to the AmeriCorps programs FoodCorps and EnergyCorps that NCAT has developed and managed for years, DRC will match well-qualified members with host organizations.

Together, the host organizations and DRC members will design and carry out drought plans tailored for the area, with support and training from NCAT.

You can help your community prepare. For more information about DRC and becoming a partnering organization, go online at <http://drought.ncat.org/> or call Carl Little at 406-494-4572.

Montana Department of Justice Announces National Missing Children's Day Poster Contest

The Montana Department of Justice and the Office of Public Instruction are working together to give Montana students the opportunity to participate in state and national poster contests which focus on the theme: "Bring Our Missing Children Home."

"This program will allow Montana fifth-graders to compete in state and national poster contests while giving schools the opportunity to teach students about personal safety," said Jennifer Viets, Montana's Missing Persons Clearinghouse Manager. "We know Montana has very talented fifth-graders and we hope one of them wins a free trip to Washington, D.C." The national poster contest winner, along with his/her parents and teacher, will be awarded a trip to Washington, D.C. to participate in the National Missing Children's Day ceremony in May 2014.

Posters must be original, handcrafted artwork; 8 1/2 x 14 inches in size, with the words "Bring Our Missing Children Home" appearing on the poster. Posters with digitally produced images, collages, cut-outs, and stamping will not be accepted. Poster artwork will be judged on originality, creativity, use of color and materials, and reflection of contest theme. A written poster contest student application form must be submitted along with each poster and the application will be judged on the level of understanding of the subject, clarity, and grammar appropriate for the fifth grade. The poster contest student application form is available on the Montana Department of Justice website at <http://doj.mt.gov/missing-persons>. The winning student will attend an award ceremony with Attorney General Tim Fox in Helena and receive a $100 cash prize.

The winning Montana poster will then be submitted to the national contest. This is the sixth time Montana has participated in the annual national "Bring Our Missing Children Home" poster contest. The 2013 state contest winner was Emma Kuoppola from Ramsay Elementary School. To view her winning poster, visit the Montana Department of Justice Missing Persons website at <http://doj.mt.gov/missing-persons>.

This website also allows the public to view a list of the persons currently missing in Montana and to get more information on Montana's AMBER Alert and Missing Persons programs. The Montana Missing Persons Clearinghouse and the Montana AMBER Alert Program are programs operated by the Division of Criminal Investigation at the Montana Department of Justice.

To compete in the state contest, the poster and student application form must be received by February 14, 2014. Send posters to: Montana Department of Justice Missing Persons Clearinghouse, 302 N Roberts, Room 470A, PO Box 201406, Helena MT 59620.

Montana Red Cross Urges Caution as Frigid Temperatures Persist Across the Region

With frigid temperatures finally upon us, Montana Red Cross urges Montanans to take adequate precautions as they head outdoors. Although most Montana residents assume they know how to protect themselves, the fact is that every year people fail to heed winter weather warnings and end up injured or worse.

"As with any severe weather event, preparation can be the difference between life and death," says Rod Kopp, CEO of Montana Red Cross. "When very cold temperatures predominate, everyone should be prepared for the worst, especially when they head outdoors".

Before A Winter Storm

Montana Red Cross recommends having the following items on hand all winter long:

At least a 3-day supply of water (one gallon per person per day) and non-perishable food;

A flashlight, battery-powered NOAA Weather Radio and extra batteries;

A well-stocked first aid kit; A 7-day supply of medications and medical items; and Supplies for babies and pets.

People can learn also what to do in an emergency in case advanced medical help is delayed by taking a First Aid and CPR/AED course and by downloading the free American Red Cross First Aid App.

During A Winter Storm

Listen and watch for critical information from the National Weather Service.

Bring pets inside. Move other animals and livestock to sheltered areas.

Stay inside. If people must go out, wear warm, loose-fitting, lightweight clothing in layers.

Minimize travel. If travel is necessary, keep emergency supplies in vehicles.

If possible, the Red Cross also asks that everyone check in on their neighbors, especially those requiring special assistance and those living alone.

Additional information on what supplies to have and what to do before, during and after a winter storm is located at redcross.org/wintersafety.

Protect Yourself From Frostbite And Hypothermia

Frostbite and hypothermia are cold-related emergencies that may quickly become life or limb threatening. Preventing cold-related emergencies includes not starting an activity in, on, or around cold water unless you know you can get help quickly in an emergency. Be aware of the wind chill. Dress appropriately and avoid staying in the cold too long. Wear a hat and gloves when appropriate with layers of clothing. Drink plenty of warm fluids or warm water but avoid caffeine and alcohol. Stay active to maintain body heat. Take frequent breaks from the cold. Avoid unnecessary exposure of any part of the body to the cold. Get out of the cold immediately if the signals of hypothermia or frostbite appear.

Frostbite is the freezing of a specific body part such as fingers, toes, the nose or earlobes. Signals of frostbite include lack of feeling in the affected area; skin that appears waxy, is cold to the touch, or is discolored (flushed, white or gray, yellow or blue).

What to do for frostbite:

1. Move the person to a warm place.
2. Handle the area gently; never rub the affected area.
3. Warm gently by soaking the affected area in warm water (100-105 degrees F) until it appears red and feels warm.
4. Loosely bandage the area with dry, sterile dressings.
5. If the person's fingers or toes are frostbitten, place dry, sterile gauze between them to keep them separated.
6. Avoid breaking any blisters.
7. Do not allow the affected area to refreeze.
8. Seek professional medical care as soon as possible.

Hypothermia is another cold-related emergency. Hypothermia is life-threatening. Hypothermia is caused by the cooling of the body caused by the failure of the body's warming. The goals of first aid are to restore normal body temperature and to care for any conditions while waiting for EMS personnel. Signals of hypothermia include shivering, numbness, glassy stare; apathy, weakness, impaired judgment; loss of consciousness.

What to do for hypothermia:

1. CALL 9-1-1 or the local emergency number.
2. Gently move the person to a warm place.
3. Monitor breathing and circulation.
4. Give rescue breathing and CPR if needed.
5. Remove any wet clothing and dry the person.
6. Warm the person slowly by wrapping in blankets or by putting dry clothing on the person. Hot water bottles and chemical hot packs may be used when first wrapped in a towel or blanket before applying. Do not warm the person too quickly, such as by immersing him or her in warm water. Rapid warming may cause dangerous heart arrhythmias. Warm the core first (trunk, abdomen), not the extremities (hands, feet). This is important to mention because most people will try to warm hands and feet first and that can cause shock.

You can help people affected by disasters like severe winter storms, as well as countless other crises at home and around the world, by making a donation to support American Red Cross Disaster Relief. Your gift enables the Red Cross to prepare for and provide shelter, food, emotional support and other assistance in response to disasters. Visit www.redcross.org/montana, call 1-800-ARC-MONT (1-800-272-6668), or mail a check to American Red Cross of Montana, 1300 28th Street South, Great Falls, MT 59405.

About the American Red Cross:

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission. Let Safety Shine This Season!

As you light up your holiday with shining stars & shimmering snowmen, be sure to decorate safely.

BRIGHTEN THE INDOORS

Before decorating, read and follow the manufacturers' instructions concerning installation and maintenance of all decorative electrical products.

As you unpack your electrical decorations, carefully inspect them. Anything with cracked sockets, frayed wires or loose connections should be discarded.

If you buy new lights or other electrical decorations, be sure they're approved by a national laboratory such as the Underwriters Laboratory (UL) and that they're appropriate for the use you intend: indoors or outdoors.

Always unplug electrical decorations before replacing light bulbs or fuses.

Always turn off all electrical lights and decorations before leaving home or going to bed.

Do not allow children or pets to play with electrical decorations.

Never overload outlets or extension cords.

Do not coil power cords or extension cords while in use. Do not tuck them under rugs or carpets.

Never connect more than three strands of decorative lights together.

Never nail or staple light strings or extension cords. Never use electric lights on a metallic tree. The tree can become charged with electricity from faulty lights, and a person touching a branch can be electrocuted.

Have a safe and happy holiday!
