Finding Inspiration in Unassuming Places

By Jaimee Green

With sparkling hazel eyes magnified by thick spectacles, and brilliant front teeth, eight-and-a-half year old Teddy Wells pours over another copy of his recently published book. Carefully putting pen to paper he continues signing his name in small circular motions, sporadically giving his large glasses a push upward to keep them from sliding down his nose. Slouching in his chair while swinging one leg back and forth he leans close to the pages, concentrating. Piles of his recently published book "How Snake Learned to Smile" are stacked neatly in rows on a table inside the North English, Iowa community center. Though the town has a population of fewer than 1,000, Teddy proudly wears the snake shaped nametag cut out by his grandmother. A large homemade poster featuring the cover of his book sits upright behind him reading, "Meet the Author."

At such a young age it is, to be expected, his first book signing. While excited, he perhaps doesn't grasp the true sensationalism of this experience. At a tender age he is realizing his dream while overcoming the physical obstacles of a speech impediment and vision problems. So, today is his shining moment. Most likely, one of many. A kind of, 'from this day forward' type of experience that will remain just below the surface of his belly often resurfacing as butterflies just long enough to remind him of his strengths, creativity and beauty. In fact, Teddy personifies the character of Snake in his book. But, we'll get to that later.

As an aspiring author he is telling a great story about acceptance, inner beauty and the value of kindness. Today, the small and curious crowd that has descended on the community center is patiently waiting for autographed copies.

To understand the true sentiment of this story, you have to back up a bit to the beginning. Last January, to be exact.

"I was experiencing a sleepless trip to San Diego to see my art piece on display at the Natural History Museum Gallery opening and all I wanted to do was get some rest when a fellow passenger kept trying to visit with me. I finally gave up on the idea of getting some sleep and indulged her and I am so glad I did because she turned out to be an amazing person. Now, I have this inspiring experience to share," said Kitty Kolden, an artist and employee at Northeast Montana Health Services.

It turns out that the talkative lady, Grace Wells, was the grandmother of young Teddy.

In conversation at some 32,000 feet, they shared information about each other including Kolden's photography, Grace's love of sketching and their mutual love for the natural world. Exchanging email addresses, they parted.

After Kolden returned home the flood of emails between the two began to flow. The most inspiring of them was the one stating Teddy had been motivated after viewing Kolden's photography online. In particular, her series of snake pictures helped inspire his children's short story and her bull snake photographs would create the final touches for his story.

Typing as if they had known each other for years, the correspondence Kolden gets choked up when she reads a few other emails from Grace. "Her ease with words is wonderful. Her sentences are delicious and create vivid images and feelings," Kolden said.

The final consensus was that Kolden would help them to publish Well's book through a website called ArtsCow. A total of 80 copies were made of the 20 page book and more are available to print in a moment's notice. Professing to be something of a doodler, Grace created a sketch of a snake wearing glasses that is reading Teddy's book with the caption, "It all sounds great, but how will I sign autographs?" It is featured on the last page of the book.

Many locals know Kolden creates the Kolden Report where she documents family gatherings and outdoor scenery to share via email with friends and family. What started out as a way to keep connected with family has caught the interest of many and is now sent to people in seven different countries. It also helps people view her latest photography and travels. Recently, she featured her photography of bull snakes in it and some of the photos were just what were needed to complete Teddy's story.

The storyline is one of kindness for others and more than just acceptance for those who are different, but also admiration of those differences. The story begins with a snake that hides under rocks and retreats whenever people come around. After repeatedly hearing that he is ugly, he starts to believe it. In the end, the kindness expressed by one person changes the minds of many and provides the snake a chance at happiness. "What I take away from the story is that everybody should be given a chance and that everybody is beautiful, you just have to look," Kolden said.

"This smiling snake has topped off my Montana summer with whipped cream and a cherry on top," said Grace Wells. Much like the snake character in his book, Teddy is different in the sense that he faces challenges. "Teddy has long been the boy that nobody notices. This book has created so much joy for him," said Grace Wells.

If you've had the chance to meet Kolden, you probably already know she is full of positive energy. It seemingly radiates from within, gently slapping at those she comes into contact with. She has a willingness to truly experience life and takes advantage of its seemingly inopportune opportunity's.

While inspiration most often resonates through an emotional song, a vibrant sunset or fluid ballet, Kolden was able to find inspiration in the most unassuming of places; a cramped seat aboard a Boeing 747 airplane. With open eyes and a catch-all heart, she is able to see the extraordinary in what many might view as ordinary; just as she creates her extraordinary photographs one click at a time.

"This story about Teddy is amazing. That kid is going to bloom," Kolden said. She is donating some of the books to local elementary schools to share the lessons behind the story. "The message is very powerful," she said.

To date, Teddy has even received an email from a Bengali translator and author from India named Subhamay Ray who read the book and wanted to offer congratulations and encouragement to the young author.

This year the HS Girls Volleyball team has "teamed-up" with the "Pack the Place in Pink" organization out of Billings to help raise money for Breast Cancer.

Pack the Place in Pink was originally established when Vicki Carlyle, the Head Volleyball Coach at Billings Skyview was diagnosed with Breast Cancer. Skyview HS held a fundraiser for Vicki when she was first diagnosed, and from there it has snowballed throughout Billings and Montana towns. Vicki is now a two-time breast cancer survivor. Last year Pack the Place in Pink raised over $60,000 for Montana Women!

The mission of Pack the Place in Pink is to promote regular mammogram screenings and to help breast cancer patients. A portion of our aid goes to Susan G. Komen for breast cancer research. However, PPP's main objective is to help local, Montana breast cancer patients. We are a Montana project working to support breast cancer patients in Montana, providing them with financial assistance in all of our local communities.

The Girls are very excited about raising money for breast cancer and doing what they can for breast cancer awareness. One of the ways the Pack the Place in Pink raises money is through Sponsorships. To date, the girls have successfully raised $7,700 in local sponsorship. How this works is if an individual or business will sponsor $500 or more, their name or business logo will be printed on the back of the Pack the Place in Pink Tshirt.

The girls are pre-selling these pink Tshirts for $6.00. We would love each of you to purchase a pink Tshirt and wear it proudly on October 9, 2012 and to attend our game!

Here are some of the ways the girls are raising money. Saturday, August 25, 2012 the volleyball girls held a traveling bake sale. The Girls made $853.00 from the bake sale to donate to Pack the Place in Pink. We plan to hold another one on Monday, September 24, 2012 when we have our PIR day.

Sidney Health Center has graciously sponsored purchasing pink game jerseys for the Varsity girls to wear the night of the Pack the Place in Pink! The program received new game jerseys this year and Coach DiFonzo was able to get a pink jersey to match the set of maroon and white jerseys. The Volleyball program will maintain ownership of these jerseys so each year the jerseys can be worn on the night the Pack the Place in Pink is held! Thanks to SHC!

Both of our local grocery stores have agreed to let us sell pink ribbons at the check-out counter, similar to the MDA/March of Dimes. Please consider purchasing a pink breast cancer ribbon when you buy your groceries for $1.00 each! All of the ribbons will be collected the day of the event to be displayed in the HS gym. Breast Cancer ribbons will be available, Tuesday, September 4, 2012.

The boys football team has agreed to help out the girls with selling our Breast Cancer Ribbons! Each football player will sell 10 Breast Cancer Ribbons and this money will all be donated to our local Sidney Breast Cancer Coalition as we feel it is important to support not only Montana Breast Cancer, but to help out our local organization as well. Thanks guys!

Jars are also being placed for free will donations at SuperPumper, Cenex, Millers' Corner and Loaf'n Jug.

Each home game, Lexi Prevost and Whitney Leuenberger will be showcasing their baking talents. Whitney will make a specialty cake and Lexi will make a homemade cheesecake to raffle. The raffle will be set up in the main hallway after school. The table where the raffle will be held will also sell Breast Cancer Ribbons for $1.00.

The night of the event on October 9, 2012 a silent auction will be held in the main hallway. Businesses or individuals willing to donate an item or items for a basket of their choice will be greatly appreciated.

We encourage all of you to come out and support our girls on October 9, 2012 at 7:00 PM. There will be a short program to thank our community for their support, and importantly to honor our Breast Cancer Survivors. We would like to see as many Breast Cancer Survivors and their families there as possible! We hope to make this an annual event and I think we are off to a great start!

Hunting Season Update

Montana's general rifle season to hunt black bear, big-horn sheep, mountain goat and moose begins Sept. 15. The general hunting season for antelope begins Oct. 6, followed by the general season for wolf Oct. 15 and then deer and elk on Oct. 20. Pheasant season opens Oct. 6.

Griz Honor Sidney Alum With Community Service Award

The town of Sidney is situated all the way on the eastern edge of the state, but despite the distance, Phil Johnson's heart is always close to The University of Montana.

The Distinguished Community Service Award, presented to Phil at Saturday's game, recognizes support of and service to UM and its athletic programs, as well as service to hometown communities. It is presented by the University and coordinated by the Office of Alumni Relations, Grizzly Athletics and the Grizzly Scholarship Association.

Phil graduated from UM in 1990 with a degree in journalism. During his time as a student, he was an active member of the Gamma Phi chapter of the Sigma Nu fraternity. When he wasn't volunteering his time for various Greek events and community outreach activities, he kept himself busy following campus happenings as a reporter for UM's student newspaper, the Montana Kaimin.

He spent six years working as a reporter and editor for newspapers in Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota before returning home to Sidney to run the family hardware and furniture business. Johnson Hardware and Furniture celebrates its 97th anniversary in Sidney this year. The store received the Montana Family Business of the Year award from the Montana State University College of Business in 2002.

For Phil, the 621-mile trek from Sidney to Washington-Grizzly Stadium isn't a burden it's an opportunity to show that loyal Griz fans and UM supporters come from all parts of the state. Phil took his affinity for his alma mater a step further when he joined the unofficial Sidney chapter of the GSA 10 years ago. He later helped the group become an official GSA chapter, and he currently serves as the chapter's secretary and treasurer. The Sidney GSA chapter hosts a golf tour-namment, banquet and auction every year during the GSA Spring Tour.

Phil Johnson

In addition to his GSA service, Phil volunteers his time to several community organizations in Sidney. He is a member of the Sidney Chamber of Commerce, a member and past master of Lower Yellowstone Lodge No. 90 Masonic Lodge, a member and past president of the Sidney Jaycees, and a member and board director of the Sidney Kiwanis Club.

Phil and his wife, Joy, have four children: Lance, 23; Levi, 22; Leith, 19; and Blake, 6.

N.A.N. Play Sept. 18

The Northeastern Arts Network proudly presents the first performance of the season on Tuesday, September 18th with Montana Repertory Theatre's production of "An Unladylike Battle for Survival in the Sunnyside Library." Be prepared to experience an "out-of-the book experience" with Jane Eyre and her shelf mates in this play by Jack Kettering.

In this tribute to strong literary heroines, Jane Eyre enlists the help of Charlotte the Spider, Alice in Wonderland, The Grass Dancer's Red Dress and others to help her battle the evil librarian in town, Kerosene Kevin, whose novel idea is that books are for burning. Fortunately you'll see that some of those living on the shelves of Sunnyside have decided to fight back. After a narrow escape from the clutches of Kevin (and only first-degree burns), Jane Eyre has appealed to the Shelf People, but she's only been able to recruit a small rag-tag army. Among her troops are Esperanza Cordero, a young girl from the Latino section of Chicago; a spirited and beautiful Sioux warrior called Red Dress; and a literate spider named Charlotte. Together, they devise a plan to put a damper on Kevin's burning desire. A life and death struggle has begun. Will the stories of these literary heroines continue to be told, or will they be snuffed out in flames? Stay tuned!

Parade of Homes Sept. 30

Brenda Larson of Creative Solutions, with the gracious cooperation of six local homeowners, has organized a Parade of Homes to take place on Sunday, September 30 from 10 a.m. to 6p.m. MDT. The project is a fundraiser for the Boys and Girls Club of Richland County to help them find a much needed permanent home. Dura Supreme has generously agreed to sponsor the event, allowing ALL ticket sales to go directly to the Club.

Featured homes are Tom & Teresa Benson, 2801 Red River Drive; Rebecca Benson, 1316 16th St. SW; David & Julie Hill, 12869 CR 338; Gail & Rhonda Peterson, 35052 CR 123; Rick & Denise Sandau, 34744 CR 120; and Darryn

& Jodi Welnel, 805 14th St. SW all of Sidney. Each home is unique, with great ideas for anyone planning to build or remodel, or just to enjoy. The homeowners are busy getting all the details finished in time for the tour. "Boy, are the 'honey do' lists getting done around town," Larson chuckled. "I really appreciate all the homeowners and want to thank them for all their hard work and the tremendous effort they are making to make this all possible. We stress about a family gathering – they are getting ready to have several hundred people come through their home!" Participants may start at any home on the tour. The main contractors of each home plan to be available to answer questions, plus representatives from Dura Supreme, Life Span Closets, Fabricators, and more will be spread out among the six homes. Larson is planning to make this an annual event, since the need never lessens. "This is the 1st annual Parade of Homes. Hopefully more contractors will jump on board with Creative Solutions to make this a continued success for the Boys and Girls Club," she said.

Purchase your tickets now at Creative Solutions, 109 3rd Ave. NE, Sidney, 406-488-1461; The Sidney Herald, 310 2nd Ave. NE, Sidney, 406-433-2403; Boys and Girls Club of Richland County, 200 3rd Ave SE, Sidney, 406-433-6763. Tickets are only $15 in advance. They may be purchased for $20 at Creative Solutions the day of the event.

Plan now to spend a fun day enjoying the talents of local craftsmen and helping the children of Richland County.

A Little Bit Country Early Fall Soil Testing Suggested

Warren Froelich
NDSU Extension Agent
Williams County

It has been a practice to delay the collection of soil samples for nitrogen tests until mid to late September. The reason for waiting is the fear additional nitrogen will be made available through mineralization and not show in the test results. Dr. Dave Franzen, NDSU Soil Specialist, tells us soil nitrate levels change very little and sampling can take place immediately after harvest with no sampling date adjustment necessary.

Franzen sites several advantages for sampling right after small grain harvest. Probably the biggest advantage is growers are more likely to use the test results to direct a fall nitrogen application if the soil test results are in their hands soon enough to consider before fall fieldwork begins.

Franzen also indicates soil testing prior to fall tillage will result in more consistent 0-6 inch sample core which provides the best sample for testing phosphorus, potassium, percent of organic matter, and zinc. Additionally, regrowth of volunteer grain will not hide available nitrogen. Early sampling will show the nitrate that will be available for next year's crop.

Finally, sampling right after harvest will guarantee that fields will get tested and not missed due to weather problems which could happen late in the fall.

Hay Forage Crops Can Be Poisonous

In response to the much smaller hay crop this year, cattle growers were freed to plant such crops as oats, sudangrass, and millet for an emergency hay crop. Often times these crops do not perform as expected and can present some problems when used as a feed for cattle.

One concern is nitrate poisoning which in itself is not toxic. When consumed by ruminants the nitrates normally found in forages are converted by the digestion process to nitrite. The nitrite is absorbed into the red blood cells and combines with hemoglobin to form methemoglobin which cannot transport oxygen as efficiently as hemoglobin. When this happens, the animal's heart rate and respiration increase, the blood and tissues of the animal take on a blue to chocolate brown tinge, muscle tremors can develop, staggering occurs and the animal eventually suffocates.

The majority of nitrate poisoning cases in North Dakota occur in drought-stressed oats, corn and barley. However, a number of other plants also can accumulate nitrate, including sudangrass, sorghum – sudan hybrids and pearl millet.

Feeds can be analyzed for nitrate content. The cost is very reasonable compared to the loss of sheep and animals. When feeds are high in nitrate content, management practices can be used to reduce the total nitrate levels consumed.

Another threat to livestock is prussic acid which inhibits oxygen utilization and results in suffocation of the animal. This can occur in sorghums and sorghum hybrids including sudangrass. Young, rapidly growing plants generally have high levels of prussic acid until they reach 18 inches in height. Frequently prussic acid poisoning occurs after the crop is harvested in the fall followed by a rain which stimulates regrowth.

Prussic acid is a cyanide. Often the cyanide gas escapes when the plant is killed through the harvest process or a high frost. However, if the forage had extremely high concentration before cutting or if the hay was not properly cured, dangerous levels of prussic acid can remain. Again, a low-cost test for prussic acid is recommended.

Kids First! Carnival In Sidney This Weekend

The Eagle Foundation, The Family Resource Center, and the Boys & Girls Club of Richland County have teamed together again this year to sponsor the third annual Kids First! Carnival this fall. With the success of last year, the three groups are hoping this year will be even bigger and better. Total attendance for last year was over 400 people, and several thousand tickets were sold. All three groups focus on children, families, and education, forming a perfect partnership to bring a new and exciting activity for families in the Sidney area to enjoy.

The carnival will be held Saturday, September 15, 2012 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Richland County Fair Event Center. There will be games for children of all ages, face painting and food vendors. Tickets will be available for purchase at the door for a price of $.25 per ticket, and games will range from 1 to 4 tickets.

In addition, this year we are pairing with the Richland County Food Bank to do a food drive. The entrance fee to the Carnival will be canned food. We are looking specifically for canned veggies, canned fruits, tuna, mac n' cheese, ramen noodles, canned soup, Spaghetti's and instant potatoes. Please make certain that all items are current, and not expired. All of the proceeds will be donated to the Richland County Food Bank.

This is sure to be a fun activity for families with children of all ages! For more information contact Elaine Stedman at 488-4390, Nicole Hackley at 433-4097, or Sarah Sifers at 433-6763. We are looking forward to seeing you again this year!

The Sidney High School Agriculture Department teacher and students have embarked on a community service project and "doing to learn" activity at the Eastern Agriculture Research Center (EARS) north of Sidney. The agriculture department volunteered this fall to assist in the landscaping of the new facility with EARS staff. It is estimated the project will take over 100 student hours to complete. The attached photo shows students at various phases of completing site preparation, laying fabric, planting shrubs, dispersing rock and rain water removal. The cooperative venture with employees at EARS and SHS students is a win-win situation.

Health Partners Team Up to Offer Vaccination Clinics in Williston and Watford City for School-Aged Children

As back-to-school time arrives again, record enrollment numbers are expected in schools across the oil patch in North Dakota as the population in the western part of the state soars. With these increased numbers, the North Dakota Department of Health is reminding parents of school-aged children in this area how important it is that kids are fully immunized for the new school year.

To meet this pressing need, a coalition of health-care partners will be teaming up to offer easy, affordable immunizations to any school-aged children or teenagers through vaccination clinics scheduled in Williston and Watford City.

The Department of Health, Southwestern District Health Unit, Trinity Hospital in Minot, Mercy Hospital in Williston, McKenzie Hospital in Watford City, Craven-Hagan Clinic and Upper Missouri District Health Unit are joining together to provide this service in these two communities. The vaccination clinics will be open in Watford City on Sept. 14 and 28, and Oct. 12, 11 a.m.-6 p.m. CDT, at the Watford City Fairgrounds. And clinics will be open in Williston on Sept. 15 and 29, and Oct. 13, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. CDT, at the Williston Fairgrounds.

"By increasing access to these required immunizations in this region of the state, we hope to minimize the spread of preventable illnesses in their schools and provide children with a healthier environment in which to learn," said Abbi Pierce, Vaccines For Children Manager for the Department of Health. "It is so important that we provide this assistance to help assure that as many children as possible will meet the immunization requirements set forward by the state."

Children eligible for the Vaccines For Children (VFC) Program, including those who are Medicaid-eligible, American Indian, uninsured, or underinsured (have health insurance but it does not cover the cost of the vaccine) will be charged to Medicaid. The cost per vaccine for insured children will be $24. Costs can be billed directly to Medicaid or Blue Cross Blue Shield of North Dakota. Anyone with other insurance plans or Blue Cross Blue Shield from other states will need to submit claims for future reimbursement. Credit cards will not be accepted; cash or check only. No one will be turned away due to an inability to pay.

All children must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. All those seeking vaccinations must bring insurance information and their complete immunization records. Any individuals from out-of-state should bring vaccination records from the states they previously lived in. For more information on how to find your immunization records from another state, visit www.cdc.gov/vaccines/recs/immuniz-records.htm. Staff will try to look up immunization records for any individuals who are without their records.

"With so many new residents in this part of the state, we are seeing an increased need for a wide variety of services, including these important vaccinations for school-aged children," said Sherry Adams, Executive Officer at Southwestern District Public Health Unit. "New North Dakota residents should contact the state health department in the state they previously lived in, or their previous health-care provider, to find their child's immunization record."

Children entering elementary school should have five doses of DTaP (diphtheria, tetanus and acellular pertussis), four doses of IPV (polio), three doses of HBV (hepatitis B), two doses of MMR (measles, mumps and rubella), and two doses of varicella (chickenpox) vaccine. There also are vaccines required for adolescents when entering middle school. Middle school requirements include an immunization against tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis (Tdap) and meningococcal disease (MCV4). This is also an excellent time for high school seniors to be vaccinated against meningococcal disease, as they will need two doses to attend college in North Dakota next fall. Other vaccines may also be recommended for your child.

Language translation service will be available for those who cannot speak English. The clinics will be handicapped-accessible. Anyone in Williston can tune their radio to 1620 AM to hear more information about these clinics, including expected wait times on the days of the clinics.

For more information on school immunization requirements, contact Abbi Pierce, North Dakota Department of Health, at 701.328.3324, or visit our website at www.ndhealth.gov/immunize. For information about the vaccination clinics in Williston and Watford City, contact Sherry Adams, Southwestern District Public Health Unit, at 701.290.8518.

Free Training in Sidney for Opencut Mining, Materials Processing, and Oil and Gas Operations

The State of Montana will offer detailed training on a range of topics that includes air quality and discharge permitting, compliance requirements, and best business practices for contractors, opencut mining, materials processors, and the oil and gas industry.

The trainings will be in Sidney on October 1 - 3 at the MonDak Heritage Center, 120 3rd Ave SE, and will be conducted by representatives of the Departments of Environmental Quality (DEQ) and Transportation (MDT). The trainings are free of charge and open to qualified registrants.

The three-day series is designed specifically to address practices surrounding opencut mining and associated development and growth seen in recent years throughout northeastern Montana.

"This training series provides valuable information that will save owner-operators and contractors' time and money as they grow with the region," said Darrick Turner, manager of DEQ's Small Business Environmental Assistance Program. "Attendees will come away with a better understanding of the state's environmental regulations and the permitting processes."

Topics will include air quality and discharge permitting, and inspections. A full day is devoted to siting and compliance requirements and permitting for opencut operations. Enforcement and transportation issues will also be addressed.

Registration is available by calling 800-433-8773 or by emailing Darrick Turner at: dtuner2@mt.gov. The DEQ makes reasonable accommodations for persons with disabilities who wish to participate in this training. If you require an accommodation, please contact Darrick Turner at (406) 841-5230, or by e-mail: dtuner2@mt.gov.
