Savage First Graders Earn Money to Help Child With Leukemia

First graders from Savage Public School proudly present $251.60 that they raised to help Kyler Streib's family with medical expenses. Kyler is now in his second battle against childhood leukemia and undergoing chemo at the Seattle Children's Hospital. The first graders earned this money by taking AR tests, passing Math Fact levels, and getting 100s on spelling tests among many other things. There is an account at the Wells Fargo Bank for contributions for Kyler. Back Row (L-R) Connor Lyons, Olivia Dschaak, Will Sparks, Cade Tombre, Karley McPherson, Brooke Rueter, Mrs. Sunwall. Front Row (L-R) Jaiclyn Alvstad, Joey Wise, MaKayla Sparks, Zeda Sickafoose.

Fairview Memorial Day Events Planned

Memorial Day Services at the Fairview Cemetery start with coffee and goodies at 9:30 am. The program gets underway at 11:30 and includes a 21 gun salute by Legion Post #114, and singing by Alyson Cayko.

This year's featured speaker is NCCM (AW) Michelle L. Brooks, granddaughter of Ethel and the late Harold Hawley of Fairview.

Michelle Brooks was born 15 May 1969 in Duluth MN and is a native of Viola, Wisconsin. After graduating from Kickapoo High School in 1987, she worked as a waitress until she enlisted in the Navy on July 10 1990. Upon completion of Recruit Basic Training in Orlando, FL she attended PN "A" school at Naval Training Center Meridian, MS. She graduated first in her class and was meritoriously advanced to PN3.

NCCM (AW)
Michelle L. Brooks

In November 1990, she accepted orders to Personnel Support Detachment, NAS Dallas TX where she worked as an admin clerk and advanced to PN2 in March 1992. In July 1994, she transferred to Naval Reserve Center Fort Carson, CO. In June 1997, her son Joshua was born and in September 1997, she transferred to Naval Reserve Center Quincy, MA.

In December of 1998, she was advanced and converted to NC1. Four months later, she detached and reported to HSL 84 in San Diego CA. In June of 2001, HSL 84 decommissioned and she reported to VR57 in July 2001. In July 2002, she was selected for NCC and remained at VR57 until April 2003 when she transferred to Commander, Helicopter Wing Reserve to be ISIC counselor for 5 squadrons. 2 years later, she was requested by name to represent the Navy Reserves at Task Force Warrior. She reported in May of 2005 and in March of 2006, she was selected for Senior Chief and received orders to Navy Expeditionary Combat Command (NECC) in Norfolk, VA. From August 2006 to April 2010, she was the Force Career Counselor for NECC. In May 2010, she took orders and deployed to Bahrain with Commander Task Force-IA as Force Career Counselor for 5th Fleet. In May of 2011, she was selected for Master Chief and in October 2011, she reported to Commander, Navy Reserve Forces Command as the Reserve Force Career Counselor. In February of 2012, she was selected for the Command Master Chief program and is currently in receipt of orders to HSC 26.

NCCM Brooks is Aviation Warfare qualified. Her personal awards include a Meritorious Service Medal, 3 Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medals, 5 Navy and Marine Corps Achievement Medals, along with various other personal and unit awards.

NCCM Brooks has 1 son, Joshua, age 15.

Anyone wishing to decorate graves at the Fairview Cemetery is asked to wait until Saturday, May 25 to do so, and to please have those decorations removed by Sunday, June 2.

Flag Etiquette And Information Regarding The Flags Of Honor Parade

By Violet Tharp

It has been observed that several flags are being flown that are tattered and in need of replacement. Such flags can be taken to the VFW and they, in turn, will have them properly disposed of by the Boy Scouts.

The Flags of Honor program consists of 618 donated casket flags. The majority of the flags are from veterans in this area, and others are from family members who donated them to be with fellow veterans. Approximately 130 flags are flown each year and the rest are available for viewing on Memorial Day and by special arrangements. Flags to be flown this year will begin with "Oliver Forsyth" and end in the middle of the "Ks". Volunteers can carry the displayed flags in the parade, but must return them to their respective position in the park. Flags which are not displayed can be checked out and carried in the parade, either folded or on a pole. Flag carriers are reminded that the flag route is 7 blocks long, and the wind can make the flown flag difficult to carry. Flags which are checked out must be returned prior to the start of the program at Veterans' Park.

According to Public Law 94-344 "it is acceptable to salute the lead flag and stand at attention as others pass." During the rendition of the national anthem, all present should render the heart salute or military salute. During the hoisting of the flag at the end of the ceremony, all non uniformed persons should render the heart salute. Military personnel should render the military salute. Men should remove their headress.

The flown flags are hoisted Monday morning at 6:00, taken down at approximately 4:00 and folded in the proper manner. Volunteers are always appreciated in this effort.

Montana DPHHS Recognizes Dr. George Scordalakes' Practice

Submitted by Rita Steinbeisser
Dr. George Scordalakes, Sidney Health Center Pediatrician, and his staff were recently recognized for their efforts to ensure Montana's children are immunized by two years of age. The Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services Immunization Program presented the AFIX Certificate of Achievement - Healthy People 2012 to Dr. Scordalakes at the Immunization Regional Workshop this spring.

Dr. Scordalakes' practice achieved an 82% coverage rate in 2012. "Although we are happy with this result, our goal is to achieve 100% immunization protection for our patients," stated Dr. Scordalakes. "With continued vigilance and wider acceptance of immunizations by our patients, we will be able to achieve total protection of our patient population against those communicable diseases for which vaccines are currently available."

Over the years, concerns have been expressed by some patients concerning the safety of some vaccines in use. To date, no studies have substantiated a causal relationship between any of the approved vaccines and any significant adverse outcome. Rumors about the connection between MMR vaccine and autism have been proven to be totally unfounded.

One of the greatest achievements of modern medicine is the ability to produce immunity against a wide variety of devastating infectious diseases through the use of appropriate immunization. Statistics and key facts continue to support the use of immunizations.

Children and adults no longer die of diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. In addition, the disfiguring illness of smallpox has been eliminated from the face of the planet. Furthermore, people are no longer paralyzed by polio and cases of meningitis due to bacteria. Babies are no longer born with the devastating stigmata of congenital rubella. And cancer, as a result of Hepatitis B infection, has dropped to almost undetectable levels.

It takes commitment and dedication to attain high immunization rates. Dr. Scordalakes and his staff are committed to achieving 100% immunization coverage for the pediatric patients they serve at Sidney Heath Center.

Marine Veteran Honors Wounded With Walk Across America

Rocks pelt the side of Sgt Chuck Lewis' legs as he continues to put one foot in front of the other, determined to complete his mission. To his right, an 18-wheeler breezes by, giving him breathing room but still close enough to take your breath away. The gust dislodges his Veteran ball cap; Lewis stops to fetch it as an Amtrak rattles by on his left.

This is Big Sky Country, there's no doubt. The small blip on the online Spot satellite tracker gives no clue of the vast nothingness that makes up the Montana Hi-Line.

Yet it's out here that the heart and soul of America thrives as friendly residents stop to offer a Gatorade, or a night's rest in their family home, a far better offer than the hard ground beneath his sleeping bag.

Yet Lewis doesn't complain. The 62-year-old Marine Corps veteran is tough, both mentally and physically. He's also compassionate and driven to make this personal tribute on foot for those who can no longer walk, for those who gave their life for all Americans conservative, liberal and everyone in between.

Lewis' 3,300-mile trek, aptly called "Walking for the Fallen," is both fundraiser for wounded veterans and visual reminder to support our troops while remaining demonstrative about patriotism and love of country.

Lewis left Everett, Wash. on Easter Sunday, March 31, heading east along Highway 2 on his destination to the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C.

As of May 13, Lewis has logged more than 800 miles and raised nearly $10,000 for a variety of programs that offer services to wounded and disabled veterans many who are a fraction of Lewis' age.

In his hometown of Ronan, Mont., a young soldier recently returned with a hero's welcome but no legs. The response was remarkable, and the community still supports this fine soldier as he finds his new purpose and direction in life.

Yet another Marine, home on leave just 15 miles south, received no fanfare when he returned seemingly unscathed in June 2012. No one heard of his return until days later when the Honor Guard Lewis serves with was asked to perform full Military Honors at the young man's funeral.

Lewis is quick to point out that Department of Defense records indicate that America has lost more active-duty servicemen and women to suicide than to enemy fire. That is a statistic Lewis wants to change.

No one really knows why the suicide rate is so high, but Lewis has some theories:

Lewis on his first day of walking.

While serving, your "brothers" have your back. You have clear direction daily, your service is important, and you are risking your life to keep America free, explained Lewis.

"Then you come home to no job, no purpose, and, because culture wants to eliminate God from everything public, no hope," he said. "I don't have the skills or resources to directly help veterans who return with PTSD, but I can walk and raise funds for those who do."

Sgt. Lewis will be speaking at the Memorial Day event in Sidney on Monday, May 27.

Telogis – Tackling Driver Safety In The Bakken

By Tie Shank

As the boom continues to grow and drivers continue to work long - inconsistent hours, companies grapple with the flourishing concern of driver safety. Telogis, a California-based provider of cloud-based location intelligence software has a grasp on the issue. Founded in 2001, Telogis has provided driver monitoring services to companies worldwide and is now a major player in many of the largest U.S. shale plays including the Bakken and is used in over 100 countries.

Telogis is a fleet management toolbox dedicated to “enhancing the value of customer business through intelligent integration of location technology, information and services.” It monitors when drivers employ hard braking, speed, fail to wear seatbelts and accelerate sharply. It can help identify and reduce idling time - allowing a company to better manage their fuel bills. It can track your trucks, monitor their fuel usage and health. It’ll send alerts to management advising when there are safety issues with the driver or maintenance issues with the vehicle. It’ll also send in-cab alerts to the driver alerting him/her to correct their behavior.

Fatalities

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (CDC/NIOSH), motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of work-related deaths in the U.S. as well as in the oil and gas industry.

The combination of repeated travel between rig locations, traveling on the rough rural roads, long-irregular hours and low levels of seat belt usage, puts oil and gas workers at a higher risk for fatal crashes. According to study results from the CDC/NIOSH, over 60 percent of oil and gas workers killed in motor vehicle accidents were employed by well servicing companies and approximately forty percent were under the age of 35.

Increased truck traffic in and around the Sidney area.

Safety program

To actively address driver safety issues, every oil and gas company should have an aggressive safety program in place. Telogis, combined with a solid safety program and strong company leadership will help to ensure the safety of your employees, your fleet and other individuals who come in to contact with either.

For more information on Telogis go to www.telogis.com or call 866-TELOGIS (866-835-6447)

A Little Bit Country Corn Plant Populations

Submitted by Warren
Frölich, NDSU Extension Agent, Williams County

The optimum plant population for corn production has been increasing in recent years. Much of the gains in corn productivity have been attributed to higher populations and corn hybrids that are adapted to these higher populations. Also, in drought prone areas, high populations are needed to reach maximum yield.

Based on data from research conducted at NDSU and by other regional entities, plant population in drought prone areas with an expected yield of less than 100 bushels per acre, should be in the range of 15,000-19,000 per acre. For expected yields in the range of 100-130 bushels, the plant population should be 21,000-25,000.

On the other side of the pendulum, plant populations for expected irrigated yields greater than 190 bushels per acre, the recommended plant population is in the range of 32,000-36,000 per acre.

Find Planting Dates

For full crop insurance coverage, the USDA Risk Management Agency has established dates by which specific crops must be planted. These dates vary by state and often by county within the state. The dates by crop for Williams County are as follows: May 20 – canola, chickpeas, May 25 – corn for grain, lentils, peas, canola; and June 5 – hard spring wheat, durum, barley and oats. To see the dates for other crops go to: http://www.rma.usda.gov/fields/mt_rso/2013/final.

When to Prune Trees and Shrubs

Pruning trees and shrubs is done for several reasons. Like me, many people do not get into the mood of pruning until it is too late. Much of the pruning of home landscape plants should be done in late winter or early spring while the trees are still dormant. In North Dakota, March is generally the best time to undertake this work to minimize sap flow. Exceptions to this would be trees noted for having heavy sap flow such as maple and birches. The best time to prune these is after they have fully leafed out.

Some shrubs bloom only on the previous season's growth. An example of these is Forsythia, Syringa (lilac), Viburnum and Spirea. If you want them to rebloom the following season, you should complete the pruning immediately after the blooming period is over. Pruning these shrubs while still dormant in the early spring removes potential flowering branches for that growing season.

Evergreens generally have a longer pruning season than deciduous plants. In addition to early spring and midsummer, pruning after new growth has hardened is acceptable for pines and spruce trees. Junipers and arborvitae can be pruned up to mid-August.

Businesses Able to Obtain and Renew Licenses in One Convenient Place

Submitted by Cathy Fitzgerald

Going from one state agency to another to obtain and renew all the licenses that a business needs to operate in Montana can be a process for owners and managers, as can having to fill out separate forms for each of the licenses and cutting several checks for each of their fees. That's why Montana lawmakers enacted a bill in 1997 that launched the "one-stop business licensing" project. The project consolidated the application and renewal process of seven state licenses under one roof at the Montana Department of Revenue.

The product of that project, One-Stop Business Licensing, offers business owners the convenience of having:

One point of contact for obtaining and renewing certain licenses required for operating a business; one master form to apply for and renew licenses, eliminating the trouble of having to enter the same information again and again for different forms; one payment covering all licenses rather than one for each of them.

Through One-Stop Business Licensing, businesses can often obtain seven different licenses administered by five different agencies. Currently, there are over 6,300 business locations in the state with one or more licenses issued through the project.

"This method of licensing has become incredibly convenient for hundreds of businesses, especially for grocery and convenience stores, which can get their food, tobacco and petroleum licenses all in one fell swoop," said Department of Revenue Director Mike Kadas.

Here's a breakdown of the types of licenses One-Stop Business Licensing offers, along with the total number of each license that is either active or pending:

Food purveyor: 848; Tobacco retail and wholesale: 1,840; Off-premise beer and wine (liquor): 885; Nursery: 866; Petroleum dealers (meters): 1,488; Weighing device (scales): 3,999; Underground storage tank: 1,321.

The licensing process will soon become even more convenient. The Department of Revenue is currently developing software that will allow businesses to apply for, pay for and renew licenses online. The software should be ready to use by the end of the year.

Guest Opinion: Where's My Ammo?

By Jacque Best

If you're a gun owner, whether it be rifle, pistol or shotgun you undoubtedly have one lingering question: "Where's my ammo."

Walk in to any spring goods or gun store in search of ammo for your guns and you're apt to come away empty handed. The problem is so acute that many large retailers (Cabelas, Scheels, etc.) have placed limits on the amount any customer can buy (assuming, of course, that the customer can find it).

So where have all the shells gone? Panic buying by those who fear more restrictions on guns and gun owners may be a factor. When Obama and the liberals in Congress set out to tighten gun what they call "gun control" many feared that folks like Rep.Nancy Pelosi and Sen. Barbara Boxer would attempt to confiscate many firearms (and they certainly would have done so if they could have.)

But panic buying cannot account for all of the shortage. Many blame the Obama Administration for "hoarding" ammo as a means to sidestep the Second Amendment. Before you blame the "hoarding" charges on those "crazy right wing dissidents" consider this two members of Congress have introduced bills to investigate this Administration's greed for ammo. Senator Jim Inhofe and Representative Frank Lucas have introduced bills in Congress to investigate these charges, and with good reason. This Administration has upped its order for ammunition for federal agencies by over 25%. That translates to 1.6 billion rounds of ammo more than enough for several wars. It is important to understand that this does not include military ammunition, only that used by Administrative Agencies such as F.B.I., Border Patrol, Federal Marshals, etc. all under the control of the Whitehouse.

So has Obama found what he thinks is a way to skirt the Second Amendment, not by limiting access to guns, but by making it impossible to obtain ammunition for them? Keep in mind that this is the President who has winked at the Constitution repeatedly, often making his own law via "Executive Orders" when he could not convince Congress to pass the laws he wanted.

Right now Obama is up to his neck in cover-ups Benghazi, illegal "snooping" in to private affairs of over 100 Associated Press reporters by wire tapping their business, home and cell phones in violation of the First Amendment, and reports by his own Administration that the I.R.S. used its considerable power to stymie any conservative organization that was affiliated with "tea party", "patriot", "9-12" (a Glenn Beck backed movement) or the promotion of "Constitutional Government".

Of course Obama never lies about any of this just ask the liberal press or his Hollywood worshipers (or him). No, he's more cunning than that. He uses "designated liars" instead. For the Benghazi terrorists debacle it was U.N. Ambassador Susan Rice. For the I.R. S. scandal it was A. G. Eric Holder. And for the A.P. wiretaps it was a very nervous Press Secretary, Jay Carney. This insulates Obama and gives him deniability. A man who would manipulate these matters with lies, half-truths denying access to witnesses, reprisals against whistle-blowers, invoking "Executive Privilege" and stonewalling would have no trouble bypassing the Second Amendment and indirectly stripping citizens of their right to "keep and bear arms". If you don't believe that, Toto, you should know "you're not in Kansas anymore." Welcome to Obama's Fantasyland!

As to whether all or part of the 1.6 billion rounds of ammo are hidden beneath the White House, that's a subject for another day.

Over-Ride Governor Bullock's Veto!

Sign and send this letter to your Montana Legislators. With a two-thirds majority, we can over-ride Governor Bullock's Veto of bill HB-218

May 20, 2013

Montana Legislators,

We are requesting that you, as a dedicated Montana Legislator, vote to over-ride Governor Bullock's veto of HB-218, the Eastern MT Impact Funding Bill (Ankney R-Colstrip). HB-218 would have provided much needed, critical assistance to those communities in Eastern MT most adversely impacted by the oil and gas development.

We applaud the strong legislative support of HB-218 during the session as indicated by the 93-6 House vote and the 48-2 Senate vote. You heard our message, and you supported our efforts to address the seriousness of our plight. The oil and gas development generates significant increases to revenues and economic opportunities for the entire State of Montana, but more must be done TODAY to support those cities, counties, and school districts adversely impacted to accommodate upgrades to the infrastructure.

We all want a better future for all Montanans. This is not a matter of balancing Montana's budget. This is not a matter of allocating more to replace revenues that were taken by previous sessions. This is a matter of making the infrastructure investments to the Montana communities adversely affected, and to keep the golden goose of development nurtured and supported. Why should our local governments continue to decrease THEIR reserves, raise taxes on their citizens, and create long term debt to finance these infrastructure impacts, while the State of Montana enjoys ever increasing revenues and reserves?

Montana's energy future will continue to flourish, for all of Montana, but the State must be a responsible partner in addressing the infrastructure impacts to local governments. We must act now! These communities should not have to wait another two years for action. The impacts are taking place today.

Sitting in a front row seat to the ND oil and gas development, our office witnesses major developments passing over Montana, only to set up their businesses 20 miles across the state line where the infrastructure can support the growth. The 63rd Legislature of ND invested $2.5 Billion dollars in infrastructure support to the oil and gas impacted communities in Western ND.

When you receive the electronic ballot, we strongly urge you to over ride the veto of HB-218. Thank you.

Sincerely,

USDA Announces Conservation Reserve Program Sign-Up

Landowners and Producers Can Now Enroll in Continuous CRP with General Sign-Up to Follow Submitted by Dan Janes

Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack today reminded farmers and ranchers that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will conduct a four-week Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up beginning May 20 and ending on June 14. Vilsack also announced the restart of sign-up for continuous CRP, including the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program, State Acres for Wildlife Enhancement Initiative, the Highly Erodible Land Initiative, the Grassland Restoration Initiative, the Pollinator Habitat Initiative and other related initiatives. Sign-up for continuous CRP began on May 13 and will continue through Sept. 30, 2013.

“As always, we expect strong competition to enroll acres into CRP, and we urge interested producers to maximize their environmental benefits and to make cost-effective offers,” said Vilsack. “CRP is an important program for protecting environmentally sensitive lands from erosion and sedimentation, and for ensuring the sustainability of our ground-water, lakes, rivers, ponds and streams. Through the voluntary participation of our farmers and ranchers, CRP helps us to protect our natural resources, preserve wildlife habitat and bring good paying jobs to rural America related to hunting, fishing, and outdoor recreation.

Vilsack encouraged producers to look into CRP’s other enrollment opportunities offered on a continuous, non-competitive, sign-up basis.

CRP has a 27-year legacy of successfully protecting the nation’s natural resources through voluntary participation, while providing significant economic and environmental benefits to rural communities across the United States. Producers enrolled in CRP plant long-term, resource-conserving covers to improve the quality of water, control soil erosion and develop wildlife habitat. In return, USDA provides participants with rental payments and cost-share assistance. Contract duration is between 10 and 15 years. Currently, 27 million acres are enrolled in CRP through 700,000 contracts on 390,000 farms throughout the U.S., with enrollment in 49 states and Puerto Rico. Contracts on an estimated 3.3 million acres will expire on Sept. 30, 2013. Enrollment authority for all types of CRP, which had expired Sept. 30, 2012, was extended through 2013 by the American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012.

Offers for general sign-up CRP contracts are ranked according to an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI). USDA’s Farm Service Agency (FSA) collects data for each of the EBI factors based on the relative environmental benefits for the land offered. FSA uses the following factors to assess the environmental benefits for the land offered:

- Wildlife habitat benefits resulting from covers on contract acreage;
- Water quality benefits from reduced erosion, runoff and leaching;
- On-farm benefits from reduced erosion;
- Benefits that will likely endure beyond the contract period;
- Air quality benefits from reduced wind erosion; and

Masonic Books for Bikes Program

Alexis Erickson, a 4th grader at Westside Elementary School, Sidney, was the happy winner of a girl’s bicycle presented by Mike Janeway, Senior Warden, left, and Bob Frank, Past Master of the local Masonic Lodge (Lower Yellowstone #90). Alexis is the daughter of Shawna Watley and Ardel Erickson. Not pictured is Braden Kindopp, winner of the boy’s bike, also a 4th grader. Braden is the son of Bodrey and Debbra Kindopp. The kids were given certificates to Johnson Hardware to choose their bike, and a helmet.

The Masonic Books for Bikes Program provided an extension of February’s “I Love to Read Month”, encouraging children to read. The purpose of the program is to motivate kids to read, to increase their vocabulary and to develop skills that will stay with them the rest of their lives. The child’s name was entered into the drawing once for each book they read. Westside Elementary librarian Dawn Greenwood said she feels the program definitely encouraged the kids to read more, in hopes of winning the bicycle.

The local Masonic Lodge would like to give recognition to all the students who have read books this year because of the contest, and to give recognition to the winners.

Cost. CRP soil rental rates for non-irrigated cropland were updated this year to better reflect location and market conditions. A nationwide cap was placed on the maximum amount that may be paid per acre for the general sign-up. Taken together these steps help ensure that taxpayer dollars are spent in a fiscally responsible manner while producing the maximum environmental benefits for each dollar spent.

CRP is the largest USDA conservation program and continues to make major contributions to national efforts to improve water and air quality, prevent soil erosion, and protect the most sensitive areas including those prone to flash flooding and runoff. At the same time, CRP has helped increase populations of pheasants, quail and ducks and is recognized as benefiting certain rare species like the sage grouse, the lesser prairie chicken and other grassland birds. Highlights of CRP accomplishments include:

- The restoration of more than two million acres of wetlands and two million acres of riparian buffers;
- Prevention of more than 600 million pounds of nitrogen and more than 100 million pounds of phosphorous from flowing into our nation’s streams, rivers, and lakes.
- Providing $1.8 billion annually to landowners — dollars that make their way into local economies, supporting small businesses and creating jobs; and Sequestering more carbon than any other conservation program in the country. By placing vulnerable cropland into conservation, CRP sequesters carbon in plants and soil and reduces both fuel and fertilizer usage. In 2011, CRP resulted in carbon sequestration equal to taking almost 10 million cars off the road.

USDA has made a concerted effort to deliver results for the American people, even as USDA implements sequestration – the across-the-board budget reductions mandated under terms of the Budget Control Act. USDA has already undertaken historic efforts since 2009 to save more than $828 million in taxpayer funds through targeted, common-sense budget reductions. These reductions have put USDA in a better position to carry out its mission, while implementing sequester budget reductions in a fair manner that causes as little disruption as possible.

The Obama Administration, with Secretary Vilsack’s leadership, has worked tirelessly to strengthen rural America, maintain a strong farm safety net and create opportunities for America’s farmers and ranchers. U.S. agriculture is currently experiencing one of its most productive periods in American history thanks to the productivity, resiliency and resourcefulness of our producers.

For more information on CRP and other FSA programs, visit a local FSA service center or www.fsa.usda.gov.

Stamp Out Hunger

Sidney Post Office employees stand with the food they collected in the 2013 NALC National Stamp Out Hunger Campaign. We want to thank the public for their generous support to our annual food drive. Saturday, May 11th brought in donations totaling 1400 lbs. Every item collected goes a long way in helping the food bank restock their shelves and help needy families in this area. Extended Care Quilting Tea Party

Sidney Health Center Extended Care hosted a "Quilting Tea Party" for the lady residents on Thursday. Along with delightful table decorations and treats, the ladies were treated to music by Vicky Vaira and Sarah Karanjai, some poems and a sing-along.

A highlight of the party was the showing of a quilt made by Vi Tanglen, and the story behind it. The story as told by Vi is as follows. "As a child, I would love going to Grandma's house. She had a cedar chest filled with quilt blocks that she had made many years ago. While at Grandma's, I always made a habit of going to the cedar chest and looking at each square. It was Grandma's dream that I piece all the blocks together for her. Each of her blocks was carefully cut and stitched with love. It was so important that I find the perfect fabric. The fabric couldn't be just any ordinary color. No, it had to be perfect, just like the love she had put into each square block.

One day during church I was listening to the pastor tell the story about Joseph and his coat of many colors. How Joseph loved his coat, but his brothers envied him because they did not have a coat like that. I began to realize that Grandma had chosen me for a special project that she wanted me to complete.

I began to pray that God would help me make Grandma's Quilt of Love into a reality. One night I had a dream and in that dream I saw this beautiful lace with Grandma's quilt squares and I knew right where to find this treasure. It was in the bottom of the cedar chest. This must have been Grandma's plan for the quilt blocks all along because when put together, it was the most beautiful quilt I had ever seen.

Richland County Injury Prevention Team Would Like To Acknowledge And Thank Lower Yellowstone Electric

Submitted by Mary Friesz

During 2013 the Richland County Injury Prevention Team will recognize a local business each month that promotes responsible, safe and positive practices with their employees. The team believes that safety policies implemented in the workplace not only creates a safe work environment but also helps keep our community safe. Employees not only use these practices at work but take them home, which make them great role models in our community.

Lower Yellowstone Electric values their employees and members and believes that safety is our number one concern. The safety presentations offered throughout the years involve not only line worker safety; LYREA provides a wide array of safety topics for their employees. "We want our employees to be safe not only on the job, but also in their personal lives. Due to the changes in our community LYREA requested that the Richland County Prevention team speak to our staff on personal safety awareness. Many great ideas were taken into consideration on how to improve safety while in your home, vehicle, and even great options for feeling safe while walking in the community to name a few. Providing this information to our staff not only opens up new ideas for them, but they can also go home and share with their spouses and children who will help build a safer community," said Jami Propp, Member Service Coordinator.

The injury prevention team would like to applaud the efforts of Lower Yellowstone Rural Electric Association and their employees for caring about the safety of our community. By providing training beyond their basic needs, they are encouraging good habits which in turn will be paid forward in our community.

Thank you Lower Yellowstone REA for all you do in support of our community.

If your business or a business you know supports safety in our community or has policies that help make Richland County a safer place to enjoy life, please contact Mary Friesz, Richland County Injury Prevention Specialist at the Richland County Health Department 433-2207. The Richland County Injury Prevention Team can also assist you in creating and implementing policies.

FSA Administrator Urges Producers to Enroll in DCP/ACRE

Submitted by Dan Janes

USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Administrator Juan M. Garcia today encouraged farmers and ranchers to enroll for the 2013 Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Program (DCP) or the Average Crop Revenue Election Program (ACRE) before the deadline. Producers who wait until the last minute to sign up could face increased waiting time in FSA county offices.

"We understand that producers have gotten busy, but they can't forget to visit their county office and sign up for DCP or ACRE," said Garcia. "Just as farmers and ranchers plan their spring plantings, producers should plan to schedule an appointment to visit their USDA Service Center at the earliest possible time. It's best to complete the paperwork now rather than to stand in line the day before the deadline," advised Garcia.

The sign-up for both programs began Feb. 19, 2013. The deadline to sign up for ACRE is June 3, 2013. The DCP sign up period ends Aug. 2, 2013.

The 2013 DCP and ACRE program provisions are unchanged from 2012, except that all eligible participants in 2013 may choose to enroll in either DCP or ACRE for the 2013 crop year. This means that eligible producers who were enrolled in ACRE in 2012 may elect to enroll in DCP in 2013 or may re-enroll in ACRE in 2013 (and vice versa).

For more information about the programs and loans administered by FSA, visit any FSA county office or www.fsa.usda.gov.

Sidney Students of the Month

West Side Elementary
Brodey Skogen was chosen as April's Student of the Month for West Side School. Brodey always has a smile on his face. He is willing to take on any task and he is a hard worker. Brodey is a respectful and responsible student, who is willing to help his teachers and classmates alike. He has a great attitude at school and in his wrestling competitions. Brodey has a way of brightening the day for those who cross his path. Brodey is a 4th grader in Ms. DiFonzo's classroom and he is the son of Kevin and Amanda Skogen.

Brodey Skogen

Sidney Middle School
April's 7th grade Student of the Month is Quinten Nelson. Quinten is the son of Chad and Lori Nelson. Quinten is an active member of his class. He thinks about the question and raises his hand before he will give an answer. This is one example of something that makes him a respectful and responsible learner at Sidney Middle School. He gives his time and help to classmates who might not understand a concept or idea. His help isn't just giving someone the answer. He doesn't make them feel bad about not understanding the work. Rather, he is an encouraging and supportive classmate. Quinten's quality of work and ability to work with his classmates is why Quinten was chosen Student of the Month. Congratulations, Quinten.

Quinten Nelson

Agriculture Education
Jim Topp, son of Kevin and Colleen Topp of Sidney has been selected for the Student of the Month award. Jim's involvement in Agriculture Education course work has accumulated to 16 semesters over the past four years. Recent competitive recognition on the state level events in FFA, Skills-USA, football and work experience has led to this student honor. Jim's mechanical aptitude, skills and abilities stand above other local, regional and state-wide students. Jim's recent Career and Technical Education state events have demonstrated this.

Jim Topp

Jim has enrolled in North Dakota State College of Science in Wahpeton for this coming fall to study Diesel Technology. He has been a valued employee at Sunrise Equipment for four years honing his mechanical work experience. He has served both FFA and Skills-USA chapters as an Officer and participated in a variety of career development events over the years. We wish Jim great success in his future endeavors.

Mathematics Department
Sidney High School's Mathematics Department is proud to award Student of the Month honors to Tim Francis, son of John Francis and Darlene Kollman. Tim is a senior this year with a full academic schedule. He is excelling in all classes which include Pre-Calculus, Basic Statistics, Physics II, Advanced Government and Communication Arts 12, as well as Art I and an independent computer class. Tim has made great academic strides during his four years at Sidney High School with this last quarter producing a perfect 4.0 average. His concepts are solid and he can be depended upon to offer constructive assistance in math and science courses to those who ask for help. The Math Department wishes Tim all the best for a very successful future.
