Dollar Deli Opens At Cartwright Water Depot

Matthew Bondie, Dave Pollack, Nathan and Nicholas Bondie stand in front of The Dollar Deli.

Time is money but food is a necessity. For people on the move along North Dakota Highway 200, a delicious, quick meal is now available at the Dollar Deli located at the Cartwright Water Depot. Owner Matthew Bondie, his sons, Nathan and Nicholas, and cousin, Dave Pollack, recently arrived from northern Michigan to “feed some hungry truckers”.

Matthew has always been involved with food, from being a cook in the Marine Corps, to training as a sous chef in France and Italy, to being a chef in Detroit. “Once it’s in your blood, it’s hard to get out,” he said. His concession trailer was custom built, designed to provide food primarily at charity events in Michigan. The entire family has been in the military, so many of the events were associated with the armed forces. Being familiar with brutal winters, Matthew also added a dining car where customers can stay warm while they wait for their order. The facility is licensed and inspected.

Everything at the Dollar Deli is prepared fresh, using the best ingredients available. Meats are choice or prime and cooked on site. “We grind our own burger from sirloin, we roast our own corned beef, rotisserie the turkey breast. Everything starts raw here except the all beef hot dogs,” Matthew emphasized. Son Nicholas added, “Nothing comes in a jar. We do homemade gravies, homemade soups, homemade everything.” “Everything” includes “Mick’s” famous shaved ribeye and onion cheesesteak; slow roasted corned beef, pastrami, roast beef, turkey and ham sandwiches; hot dogs, chili dogs and coneys; slow smoked beef brisket, pulled

If you have questions (or items to donate) call Judy Reid at 488-7754 or Shelley Kessler at 488-3125.

In lieu of participating in this event, you might also want to make a donation to the “Nathan Langwald Benefit Fund” at Richland Federal Credit Union.

pork and tender ribs. “All our sandwiches are ½ lb. sandwiches,” Matthew explained. Add a side of fries, or a steaming hot bowl of chili or chicken noodle soup. For a different taste treat, try their chili spaghetti.

The Dollar Deli also offers a daily special which could be anything from tacos, to BBQ to a turkey dinner.

The men expressed their deep gratitude to Will Berry who owns the property they are set up on. “Drivers getting water at the Cartwright Water Depot can get fed better than at any other depot,” Matthew said. They also appreciate John Hutter and his family for being so accommodating.

“We feel like Lewis and Clark,” Matthew laughed. “We’re on an adventure, it’s a family deal, we’re feeding truckers. It’s all coming together nicely.”

The Dollar Deli is open Tuesday through Saturday, with no set schedule yet. “We’re visiting with the locals and the truckers to see what’s needed. If the OPEN sign is on, we’re here,” Matthew stated. Customers are welcome to text or call in their order to 586-612-7935.

Russian Olive Removal Study Focus Of ARS BrownBagger

By Beth Redlin

Russian olive, a popular shelterbelt tree in this region due to its hardiness, also has a darker side. At the USDA-ARS Fort Keogh Livestock and Range Research Laboratory near Miles City, Russian olive has escaped the confines of the shelterbelt and has now invaded thousands of acres of rangeland and riverbank, crowding out native plants and limiting river access with its painful barbs. As a result, its removal has become the focus of a new multi-agency study looking at not only what methods are most effective in getting rid of the tree where it’s not wanted, but also at long-term restoration possibilities for impacted areas.

Collaborating in that effort is Sidney ARS Plant Ecologist Erin Espeland who will discuss the new study and its latest findings this coming Friday, March 2, as part of the USDA-ARS Northern Plains Agricultural Research Laboratory’s 2012 BrownBagger series.

Dr. Espeland’s presentation begins at noon and is entitled “Getting information from weed eradication: a case study of Russian olive removal at Ft. Keogh”. The one-hour session is open to the public.

In describing the study, Espeland says, “It was designed to identify the best Russian olive removal strategy and to determine whether revegetation was necessary and if so, what revegetation practices would work best.” According to Espeland, researchers began by distributing a questionnaire to people already battling Russian olive asking what they used and what worked best. The group identified about two dozen different practices from the responses, which they used to develop their own “best practices” strategy, Espeland said. The new strategy was then employed at the Fort Keogh site with impressive results.

“We were very successful in removing Russian olive with our approach,” she noted. “We had very, very low resprout rates.” According to Espeland, of the thousands of trees removed so far under the study, less than three dozen resprouts have been recorded.

Espeland will share the project’s successful removal strategy at Friday’s session, as well as discussing other elements of the long-term study, which includes tracking the recovery of rangeland ecosystems where Russian olive was removed as compared to those where no removal was done. Researchers will be observing any changes in the soil, as well as insect, plant and bird life impacts over the 15-year life of the project.

Other collaborators in the study include Sidney ARS Entomologist Kevin Delaney, Miles City ARS Research Leader Dr. Mark Peterson, Miles City NRCS Rangeland Specialist Robert Kilian and representatives of the NRCS Bridger Plant Material Center.

Bring your lunch and attend this informative presentation in the fourth of the 2012 Friday BrownBagger seminars. The lab is located at 1500 N. Central Ave., Sidney. All presentations begin at noon. For more information, contact Beth Redlin at 406-433-9427.

Gas Prices On The Rise

By Jodi McPherson
It's nothing new to those living in the Bakken to pay higher gas prices than the rest of Montana and North Dakota. Go east or west and the price of gas is normally on average up to $.10 lower than the boom towns of eastern Montana and western North Dakota due to the increased demand of the oil industry services.

The crude oil price rose in recent weeks because of increased tensions and fears of an Iranian supply cut. Gas prices have been rising because of the soaring oil prices. Surprisingly, oil prices fell below $109 a barrel for crude on Monday but the price we pay at the pump increased as much as $.11 in some areas.
Automotive group AAA says Montana gas prices are up $.12 and North Dakota prices are up $.06 from last week. Prices at the pump are as low as $2.99 for regular unleaded in Billings and $2.89 in Wyoming. Go east to Minot, prices are $3.49 for regular unleaded.

While still lower than the national average, gas prices in eastern Montana rose $.10 from last week to $3.59 for regular unleaded. Williston gas prices are at $3.49 for regular unleaded. Although fuel supplies remain plentiful in most of the country, gas prices have been rising daily for the 20th day in a row.

AAA says Montana's prices are about $.45 lower than the national average. AAA North Dakota says gas prices in the state are now $.23 higher than they were a month ago and $.18 higher than a year ago.

If you want to save some money at the pumps, AAA said the best way to avoid higher gas prices is to fill up early in the week. An increased demand through the week and fuel delivery schedules make fuel prices higher later in the week.

The usage and pricing of gasoline results from factors such as crude oil prices, processing and distribution costs, local demand, the strength of local economies and the availability of local sources of gasoline suppliers.

Taking all that into account, gasoline prices really aren't high right now. In fact, they are actually unusually low but because of this year's election coming up politicians would like us to believe they are high. Gasoline prices would have to rise by another $.65-.75 per gallon from where they are now just to be "normal".

To check gas prices in your area go to http://gasbuddy.com/GB\_Map\_Gas\_Prices.aspx?zip.

Volunteers Needed For Trails & Rails Program

All Aboard! The National Park Service is again partnering with Amtrak to sponsor the annual Trails & Rails Program on-board the Empire Builder. The NPS is looking for interested individuals to present volunteer programs on-board the train.

Trails and Rails is a partnership between the National Park Service and Amtrak to provide educational programs on passenger trains running through various regions of the country. This program begins in June and runs through early September. Programs on the train run from Williston to Shelby and Malta. Interpretive guides, training sessions and uniforms are provided for volunteers.

Trails and Rails guides provide Amtrak passengers with information on significant cultural and natural sites, the Lewis & Clark expedition, area history, and cultural diversity along the train's route. Programs are presented intermittently over the train public address system in the lounge car and other designated areas of the train. Volunteers are available to answer questions about the region, the park, the National Park Service, and will work with traveling displays and hand out literature.

Trails and Rails volunteers must be flexible and adaptable to ever-changing situations and audiences. Volunteers should be comfortable speaking in public and working with different people. The volunteers will meet people from all over the U.S. and abroad. They will be able to showcase their talents and develop new skills that will assist in their present or future careers. Volunteers must be at least 18 years old and in good health so they can successfully carry out their duties and responsibilities. Volunteers are required to make at least three trips throughout the summer season. Successful candidates will attend orientation sessions on interpreting to the public and performing on-board train assignments.

For more information about the program and/or to apply, contact Lisa Sanden at Fort Union Trading Post National Historic Site at 701-572-9083.

Playground Safety Course Helps Keep Kids Safe

Each year in the United States, over 156,000 playground injuries occur resulting in 15 fatalities. Making sure North Dakota's playgrounds are safe for our children is the responsibility of owners, operators, designers, manufacturers and all other caretakers. To help schools, daycares, parks and recreation agencies, and others ensure their playground hazards are minimized, the North Dakota Recreation & Park Association (NDRPA) is offering its 10th annual Certified Playground Safety Inspector (CPSI) course April 10-12 in Bismarck.

This two-day course provides participants the opportunity to learn about the latest developments in playground safety through classroom instruction and hands-on site investigation, as well as the chance to become a certified playground safety inspector by successfully completing an exam on the third day. The CPSI course is sponsored by the North Dakota Parks and Recreation Department and the North Dakota Insurance Reserve Fund and hosted by the Bismarck Parks and Recreation District.

The course registration deadline is March 13. Registration materials are available online at www.ndrpa.com or by calling 701-355-4458.

Parent Café: How To Protect Your Kids At School

With safety being a topic of discussion in our community lately, many parents have raised questions about what they can and should do to keep their children safe while at school. Is it okay for my child to bring pepper spray to school? Does the school allow personal self-defense items? This month's topic for the Parent Café is going to be very helpful in teaching parents about the safety and security of their children while on school grounds, and what the schools are doing to keep them safe.

The Parent Café offers a place for parents to learn how to keep their children safe at school and other times when adults are not present. Come learn and get support from other parents who are dealing with the same questions.

The next Parent Café will be held on Wednesday, March 7 from 12-1 p.m. in the FCS room at Sidney Middle School. Also, if you would like to eat the school's hot lunch, please contact the school office at 433-4050 the day before to be counted for lunch.

For more information contact Bridget, Diana or Nicole at 406-433-4097.

Girl Scout Organization Celebrates 100 Years

By Lois Kerr

This year the Girl Scouts celebrate 100 years of an organization that builds leadership skills and fosters independent, self-reliant women. The organization dedicates itself to the promise to help people at all times, and to build character, confidence and courage in its membership.

It all started because one self-possessed capable woman who refused to crawl away when times got tough fell in love with the wrong man. Juliette Gordon, a Savannah, GA, debutante, fell madly in love with and married a wealthy British rake, William Mackay Low. Low not only had a lot of money, but unfortunately he also philandered and thought nothing of having extramarital affairs and of flaunting his mistresses in front of Juliette. Eventually abandoned by Low in early 1900, Juliette refused to roll over and play dead. When Low died and left his fortune to his mistress, Juliette fought for and won her share of the estate.

Juliette returned to the U.S. and in time she met Robert Baden-Powell, the man who founded the Boy Scout movement. Intrigued with the scouting movement and with the thought that girls could learn self-sufficiency, good citizenship and become competent people in their own right, in 1910 Juliette founded the Girl Guides organization. The movement, which quickly became hugely popular, encouraged girls to explore their full potential and move beyond the restrictions of the times. Girl Guides promoted the idea that girls could have careers in whatever field they chose, including non-traditional professions such as medicine, architecture and aviation.

In March of 1912, Juliette held a girl guides convention in Savannah and at the convention the organization officially changed its name to Girl Scouts. The rest is history.

Today, the Girl Scout movement has become the largest all female volunteer organization in the world. Over 50 million girls and women have been members of the Girl Scouts, and today the organization has 2.3 million active Scouts with 800,000 adult volunteers.

The biggest fundraiser of course is the sale of Girl Scout cookies. The organization first tried selling cookies in 1917, and the idea caught on and became one of the hallmarks of the Girl Scouts. Today the organization offers a large variety of cookies, and in honor of its 100th birthday, the Girl Scouts will offer a centennial cookie this year, Savannah Smiles.

Remember The Alamo

By Jerome Kessler

I recently visited the great state of Texas. The plan was to take the Amtrak to St. Paul, and then for my brother (Roger) and I to drive down to the San Antonio area. We hoped to see a few new places, play a few rounds of golf, and join up with Father Ned Shinnick, who spends each February in the Canyon Lake area.

The Amtrak provided transportation for the first leg of my journey. I made the 7 pm to 7 am ride from Williston to St. Paul without incident. The "clickety clack" of the rails lulled me into a good night's sleep. My brother's trusty Buick carried us the remainder of the way. The 2000 mile trek took me 3 days. The objective of my travels was to enjoy the journey – and not just the destination.

We met up with Fr. Ned at his motel in the Canyon Lake area. Although the weather in Texas was mostly rainy, we were able to enjoy one day of golfing. My game was extremely rusty. Ned and Roger enjoyed a healthy competition. They did duff a few shots, however, and some of their responses were less than priestly.

We used the rainy days to visit the local tourist attractions. Our trip to the Alamo museum, for example, was very interesting. Although the exact numbers are debated, it has been reported that in 1836 some 189 Texas loyalists held off 1800 Mexican soldiers for 13 days. All of the soldiers (even those who surrendered) died at the hands of Santa Anna's forces. Casualties included Sam Bowie and Davy Crockett. This slaughter generated the slogan "Remember the Alamo". Memory of this defeat rallied the American forces to not only recapture the Alamo, but also to go on winning a series of battles that eventually led to our control of Texas and the entire southwestern portion of our country.

The three of us (Fr. Ned, Roger, and I) also travelled to the town of Fredericksburg. That is where the Admiral Nimitz and George H.W. Bush museums are located. These museums provide very interesting relics and information on the Pacific aspects of World War 2. We learned, for example, that Japanese people strongly believed that "dying for the Emperor" was the most honorable way for a soldier to die. Surrender was regarded as pathetic and dishonorable. That is why historians believe that the war with Japan could have lingered on for years. Thousands more American lives, and millions more Japanese lives, could have been lost – had not President Truman decided to use the atomic bomb to bring the Japanese conflict to an end.

Human beings love to debate these issues. In a similar way, the three of us also debated the rules and fine art of playing pinochle. Fr. Ned has played this card game for many years, and is a veritable expert in this area. He soundly defeated "the Kessler boys" in this competition. Our debate of political issues was a bit more balanced, however, and I believe that Dr. Dirt's opinions prevailed in this arena.

Winter vacations are good for the soul. It was good to be able to recharge our batteries – and see a little bit of the country in the process. It was also fun to see what the "snow bird" life is all about.

Watford City Oilers Regular Season In Rewind & Upcoming State Tournament

By Scott Samuelson

The 2011 and 2012 Watford City Oilers hockey season kicked off with an annual tournament on Thanksgiving weekend in Sidney. The excitement of a new high school hockey season was underway but, many questions about the Oilers' depth, youth and experience would be the story line throughout the year. With seven seniors gone from last season's second place finish, six freshmen coming up from bantams, and only two seniors, the Oilers were voted to finish towards the bottom of the league. The work ethic and willingness to learn was the key to our success in 2011 and 2012. The Sidney tournament showed a lack of experience, losing two of our first three games and getting outscored 23-11.

The second week in December is on everybody's calendar where the Oilers travel to their rival's home town, Sidney. The Oilers were defeated 7-1 but the players and coaches knew they would get a chance at redemption in the second half of the season. With the season in full swing the Oilers made their first trip to the east side of the state to play Grand Forks and Langdon. The first game on Saturday was against the Grand Forks Stallions, with a rough first period the Oilers were down 2-0 after one period but, with hard work and a chip on their shoulder the Oilers fought back to a 5-5 tie. They would then go on to lose to the top rated Langdon Blades.

The struggles continued throughout the first half of the season but the second half of the season was a different story and a great way to end the regular season. The youth and lack of a senior heavy team was starting to understand the systems and that anybody can be beaten on any given day if they play within their systems. Feb. 11, the Oilers were at home playing the Crosby Comets who were undefeated and looking to achieve the undefeated season. The Oilers got on the board first with Brandon Taylor finding the net early. Crosby would then answer back to even the score. With only seconds left in the first period the Oilers had retaken the lead with a snipe from the top of the circles. The Oilers went on to knock off the undefeated Crosby Comets in a thrilling fashion by a score of 4-2. That game will go down in Oiler history as one of the biggest upsets of all time. Feeling confident after their win against Crosby the Oilers went on to split their next two games against May Port and Fargo.

The final regular season game had the all the storylines of a great contest between the Watford City Oilers and the Richland Rangers. Not only was pride between these teams on the line but a 5th seed slot at the state tournament. The building was packed and rocking because of the speed both teams showed. The game was filled with goals, big hits, and a fast paced game. The Oilers went on to win the game 8-2 and closed the regular season out by winning three of their last four games.

The Watford City Oilers are led by two seniors: Captain Jaden Grotte and Kalden Heggen followed by the juniors: Assistant Captain Brandon Taylor, Assistant Captain Alex Hansen, Assistant Captain Davis Zubke, Reece Frick, Katie Skarda and Guy Ross. The only sophomore is Brandon Alex and the freshmen class is made up of Ted Ramage, Dalton Wright, Bo Heiser, Daniel Marmon, Jonathan Dunn and Wyatt Stall. The Oilers are heading into the state tournament as a fifth seed, playing at 3 p.m. on Thursday against the Fargo Flames. The winner of that game will be playing on BEK sports for the semifinal game at 2:30 p.m. on Friday.

Good luck to all the players, coaches and fans heading to Langdon to support their hometown Watford City Oilers!

McKenzie County conducted its annual spelling bee under the direction of Carol Kieson, McKenzie County Superintendent of Schools. The competition was held Wednesday, Feb. 22 at Alexander Public School, hosted by Principal Michelle Simonson and her staff.

sponsors will send the state winner.

Each county is allowed two entries in the state competition. All contestants compete in a written round of 50 words from which the finalists are chosen. The finalists compete on an equal basis in an oral spelldown with first, second and third place winners being chosen.

Counties adopt plans for their own competitions. McKenzie County's Grades

The top three spellers in grades 6-8 advance to the oral finals. Those nine participants draw for position in the oral spell down. Each speller then spells five words in each round. The top two spellers will advance to the state competition, with 3rd place being the alternate. After three rounds of oral finals, the winners were: 1st: Grace Nelson, Alexander; 2nd: Asha Smith, Watford City and 3rd: Gregory Kleppen, Watford City. # Confirmed Cases Of “Whooping Cough” (Pertussis) In Dawson Co.

The Richland County Health Department would like to inform and provide some prevention information to readers regarding the seven cases of pertussis which have been identified in Dawson County as of Feb. 22.

Pertussis or Whooping cough is a contagious disease caused by a type of bacteria called Bordetella pertussis. These bacteria attach to the cilia (tiny, hair-like extensions) that line part of the upper respiratory system. The bacteria release toxins, which damage the cilia and cause inflammation (swelling).

The disease usually starts with cold-like symptoms and maybe a mild cough or fever. After 1-2 weeks, severe coughing can begin. Unlike the common cold, pertussis can become a series of coughing fits that continues for weeks. Whooping cough can cause severe coughing with a “whooping” sound or severe coughing that may lead to difficulty breathing, vomiting and disturbed sleep. The disease can be life threatening for infants and can cause moderate to severe illness in adults. Infants and the elderly may need hospitalization and/or supportive care if the disease is bad enough.

Symptoms
Pertussis (whooping cough) can cause violent and rapid coughing, over and over, until the air is gone from the lungs and you are forced to inhale with a loud “whooping” sound. This extreme coughing can cause you to throw up and be very tired. The “whoop” is often not there and the infection is generally milder (less severe) in teens and adults, especially those who have been vaccinated.

Early symptoms can last for 1-2 weeks and usually include: runny nose, low-grade fever (generally minimal throughout the course of the disease), mild, occasional cough, apnea—a pause in breathing (in infants).

After two weeks, Whooping cough is characterized by one or more of the following symptoms which may last 6-10 weeks: prolonged cough (lasting for a week or more); long spells of coughing with spasms; Coughing with a whooping sound; Coughing that leads to gagging or vomiting.

Symptoms of pertussis usually develop within 7–10 days after being exposed, but sometimes not for as long as 6 weeks.

Transmission
Pertussis is a very contagious disease only found in humans and is spread from person to person. It is spread by coughing or sneezing while in close contact with others, who then breathe in the pertussis bacteria. Sick persons are most infectious early in the illness, but ability to pass on the disease may persist for three weeks after onset of cough.

Many infants who get pertussis are infected by older siblings, parents or caregivers who might not even know they have the disease.

Pertussis vaccines are very effective in protecting you from disease but no vaccine is 100% effective. When pertussis is circulating in the community, there is a chance that a fully vaccinated person, of any age, can catch this very contagious disease. If you have been vaccinated, the infection is usually less severe. If you or your child develops a cold that includes a severe cough or a cough that lasts for a long time, it may be pertussis. The best way to know is to contact your doctor.

People who have any of the above symptoms should call their health-care provider to be evaluated, tested or treated for whooping cough. People who may have been exposed to a person that was confirmed as having pertussis should call their health care provider for recommendations. People who do not have any symptoms or were not exposed to the infected person do not need to be tested or treated.

Diagnosis
Pertussis can be diagnosed by taking into consideration if you have been exposed to pertussis and by doing a: history of typical signs and symptoms; physical examination; laboratory test which involves taking a sample of secretions (with a swab or syringe filled with saline) from the back of the throat through the nose.

Treatment
Pertussis is generally treated with antibiotics and early treatment is very important. Treatment may make your infection less severe if it is started early, before coughing fits begin. Treatment can also help prevent spreading the disease to close contacts (people who have spent a lot of time around the infected person) and is necessary for stopping the spread of pertussis. Treatment after three weeks of illness is unlikely to help because the bacteria are gone from your body, even though you usually will still have symptoms. This is because the bacteria have already done damage to your body.

What can you do?
Remind everyone about the following precautions that are important in decreasing the spread of many illnesses including pertussis (whooping cough):

Make sure your immunizations are up-date. There are two types of whooping cough vaccines – DTaP for infants and children and Tdap for adolescents and adults.

Frequent hand washing with soap and water. Hand washing is one of the best preventive measures, not only for whooping cough, but for all diseases.

Using good respiratory manners. Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue when sneezing or coughing and throw away the tissue after use. Cough into your sleeve.

Staying home from work or other recreational activities when you're ill. This will help prevent the spread of illness to your friends, co-workers and family.

Because pertussis outbreaks can spread rapidly, health agencies work quickly to investigate each pertussis case. Persons who have close contact with a pertussis case may be treated with antibiotics to prevent illness. Fully vaccinated children and adults are less likely to become ill. If illness occurs in those that are fully vaccinated, the illness is generally milder.

Parents may contact their health-care provider or their local health department if they have questions about themselves or their child's vaccination status.

There are no positive cases in Richland County at this time. As of Feb. 23, the State of Montana has currently 35 confirmed cases. Number of cases for Montana in the past years: 134 cases (unofficial count) for 2011; 122 cases in 2010; 62 cases in 2009; 84 cases in 2008; and 44 cases in 2007.

For more information about your vaccination status or whooping cough, call your health-care provider or Richland County Health Department at 406-433-2207. Also on the web at www.richland.org.
