Red Cross: Donors Of All Blood Types, Races And Ethnicities Needed

The American Red Cross urges people of all races and ethnicities to give blood or platelets to help increase the diversity of the blood supply.

The vast majority of blood types fall into one of the major blood groups. However, for patients with rare blood types or those who receive regular blood transfusions, blood must be matched closely – beyond the primary A, B, O and AB blood types – to reduce the risk of developing complications from transfusion therapy. The best match may be someone of the same racial or ethnic group.

Eight-year-old AJ Torres requires blood transfusions to treat complications from sickle cell disease, the most common genetic disease in the U.S. The disease is most common among people of African descent or Latino descent, like AJ, and can sometimes cause small blood vessels to become blocked. Diverse donors are important to ensuring AJ has the blood products he needs to regain his health.

"Within minutes of receiving a blood transfusion, I watch his strength be restored, pain vanish and energy return. Soon he transforms back to himself – a rambunctious little boy," said his mom, Caira Torres. "If an 8-year-old can withstand a needle, so can you."

Donors of all blood types, as well as all races and ethnicities, are needed to meet the needs of an increasingly diverse patient population. As a thank-you, those who come to give blood or platelets during the month of October will automatically be entered for a chance to win one of five $500 gift cards redeemable at hundreds of merchants, courtesy of Tango Card. Terms apply; see rcblood.org/game.

There will be a Sidney community blood drive on Tuesday, October 22 from 12 – 6 p.m. at St. Matthew's Parish Center, 310 7th St. SE, Sidney. To make an appointment, call the American Red Cross at 406-868-0911 or sign up online at www.redcross-blood.org sponsor code Sidney.

Me & Mrachek One More Time

By Don Mrachek

Russ and I met in the fall of 1963, Russ had recently moved from Minnesota to Dickinson with his parents and family.

Russ's dad, Joe, and his older brother, John, were drawn to Dickinson with a company that built electrical transmission lines.

Russ and I met in the Journalism Department at Dickinson State University. We hit it off right away and became best friends. Besides everyday journalism classes the department put out a newspaper called the Western Concept. Russ and I wrote a column about things happening on campus called Me & Mrachek. Russ named the column.

Little did we suspect that the column would become so popular that everyone from the nerds, the athletes, the regular kids to even the faculty waited for the paper to come out to read our column.

I had a girlfriend, Donna, who is now my wife. We both were from Alexander and so we made lots of trips home on weekends. Russ decided to come with us and on one of those trips, when we were driving around town, we stopped to talk to some friends. It was then that Russ met Linda and they were a couple from then on.

Russ and I were involved in a lot of adventures over the years. I lived with Joe and Marilyn, Jerry, Helen and "Gush" for a time while I was going to college. It was a great time, one I'll never forget.

I went into the Navy, encouraged by my local draft board. It was the Vietnam era but I was lucky and spent my entire tour of duty in Japan working between the public affairs office, heading up the base news magazine and at the military newspaper Stars and Stripes. When I got out of the Navy, Russ got me my first job in the civilian newspaper business. He hired me as editor of Sidney Herald.

We spent the next few years working together and apart. While he was in Arizona, where Wick Communications was headquartered, I would attend conferences there and Russ and Linda always made sure Donna and I were taken care of when we stayed a few extra days.

Russ and I were in northern Ontario, Canada on a fishing adventure with his family in 1980, when Mt. St. Helens blew its top. With no outside news or communication it was an eerie feeling when the sun didn't come through for four days because of the volcanic ash. We finally got a three-day old newspaper from a lodge 30 miles across the lake and found out what had happened.

I could go on and on about the things we did together like tipping over my uncle's tractor while packing silage in a pit on his farm; Russ setting the record at Dickinson State College for the most consecutive sit ups at one time; organizing a "Little Kids Christmas Tree Fund" in college so we could replenish our beverage supply; baking buttercup squash on the riverbank by Williston; and trips to Russ and Linda's winter cabin at Gardner, Montana.

Russ and I lived, hunted, fished, camped, chased girls, got sick and got well together. We partied, healed up from partying and worked together for years. He was a good friend and I'll miss him.

October is

 SIDNEY
HEALTH
Exceptional Care for Life

Did You Know?
*If found and treated early,
over 95% of women diagnosed with breast cancer will survive.*

At Sidney Health Center, your breast health is our priority. In fact, our mammography team offers the latest in breast cancer screening, 3D mammography - the most exciting advancement in breast cancer detection in more than 30 years. A 3D mammogram consists of multiple breast images taken in just seconds to produce a 3D image. Our radiologists, Dr. Jennifer Adams and Dr. Leszek Jaszczak look through the tissue one millimeter at a time seeing detail inside the breast in a way never before possible.

We recommend yearly mammograms starting at age 40 and continuing for as long as a woman is in good health. Even though mammograms are the best method we have for early detection, not all cancers are found with mammograms. If you feel a lump or have any other reasons for concern, you should tell your physician or health care provider.

During the month of October, our mammography staff will be offering evening mammograms on October 11, 18, and 25. If you are 40 years or older, you can schedule a mammogram screening without a referral notice by calling the outpatient coordinator at 406-488-2195.

Free Workshop “Palmer Amaranth: It’s Coming! What You Need to Know”, November 5, Sidney

By Beth Redlin

SIDNEY, MT - What’s scarier than all the ghosts and goblins roaming the countryside on Halloween? Palmer Amaranth lurking in your fields!

Palmer Amaranth, a pigweed relative, is one of the most serious weeds facing American agriculture today and it’s coming this way! After traveling across the southern U.S. and moving northward through the Midwestern states into North Dakota, it now sits on our doorstep ready to pounce.

Be prepared. Join us for a free half-day workshop, “Palmer Amaranth: It’s Coming! What You Need to Know” on Tuesday, November 5, at the Richland County Extension Office conference room in Sidney, MT. The event runs from 8:30 a.m. to noon MT and is being sponsored by the Montana Wheat and Barely Committee.

Palmer Amaranth is one of the most adaptable and dangerously resistant weeds in the country. It can grow 2 to 3 inches a day (to a height of 6 or more feet), produce up to a half million seeds per plant and has demonstrated resistance to nearly all herbicides commonly available to producers for weed management. It competes aggressively in crops, emerging throughout the growing season, and its small seeds can be easily transported in equipment or through grain, seed or feed contamination.

Rhythm and Ramble Entertains Sidney Crowd

The Rhythm and Ramble Quartet, from left, Colby Tinsley, Tyler de Caussin, Alex Platt and Anna Hatcher, delighted the audience at the MonDak Heritage Center Thursday evening with pre-war jazz and swing. The next NAN concert features Dennis Stroughmatt et L’Esprit Creole with music, language, stories and culture of the Old Upper Louisiana region on Thursday, November 7. This music will have you tapping your toes, or maybe dancing in the aisles. Admission is only $15 per adult.

Fall Harvest Fruits And Vegetables

Written by Carrie Krug

Submitted by The Richland
County Nutrition Coalition

As days start to get colder and leaves start to fall, you may find yourself wondering; what fresh fruits and veggies are in season this time of year? In the Explore Fall’s Seasonal Foods (2014) Article, written by Pamela Daniels, from Michigan State University Extension Services, produce when in season is usually better quality, tastes better, is more affordable, and usually is available in large amounts. Some fall fruit and veggies that are in season are apples, beets, broccoli, carrots, kale, leeks, pumpkins, sweet potatoes, winter squash and more. Not only are these fruits and vegetables found in large quantities, but, they also have many health benefits and provide our bodies with important nutrients.

As mentioned In the Explore Fall’s Seasonal Foods article:

Fiber-which can be found in numerous fall foods from sweet potatoes, pumpkins, apples, brussels sprouts, and more. Fiber can help lower cholesterol and even slow our bodies’ absorption of sugar from the foods we eat.

Minerals-can be found in broccoli, beets, cabbage, and more. Vitamins and minerals can help our bodies grow, stay healthy, and are important in helping us build healthy bones.

Calcium-can be found in dried figs, dates, broccoli and more. Calcium is an essential mineral for our bodies, it can help keep our teeth and bones healthy, and getting the proper levels over a person’s lifetime can help prevent osteoporosis.

Now that we know some of the amazing benefits of our fall fruits and vegetables, you might be wondering about ways to prepare them? In the Montanan State University, Buy Eat Live (2018), Nutritional Fact Sheet on Fall Harvest Vegetables, it mentions roasting beets, carrots, turnips, sweet potatoes, parsnips as a fantastic way to cook these vegetables. Wondering what to do with kale? Try a kale chip recipe that provides a nice crunch to these vegetables. Try making a fall harvest soup and cook some of your favorite winter squash into a hearty soup. You could even try using spaghetti squash instead of making pasta with your favorite sauce recipe. The possibilities are endless with fall harvest fruits and vegetables.

Did you know Kiwanis is selling Braeburn and Gala apples along with pears? They are 10 lb. boxes for $25 and you can get a mixture of apples and pears. Boxes are limited so contact any Kiwanian today. The fruit will be available for pickup on October 26 & 27 at Johnson Hardware and Furniture’s warehouse. This is just one of the many opportunities to purchase fresh and seasonal produce in our area throughout the year and support a local organization at the same time.

For more information check out the Richland County Nutrition Coalition Facebook page at www.facebook.com/1rcnc1, and the Pinterest page at www.pinterest.com/1rcnc1.

search Laboratory will discuss identification tips and possible biocontrols, while Plant Ecologist Dr. Natalie West, also with the Sidney ARS lab, will discuss the potential for drones in scouting for the weed.

In addition to their various presentations, the program’s weed experts will also participate in a panel question and answer session with attendees.

And finally, Richland County Extension Agent Tim Fine will join Dr. Gaskin to discuss other emerging crop and rangeland weeds MonDak producers need to be on the lookout for.

Pesticide points are pending for this workshop. The workshop will also be broadcast as live webinar at County Extension Offices across the state, where participants will also be eligible for pesticide points.

Watford City Plans To Have New Elementary School Ready By Fall Of 2020

By Anna Dragseth

The oil and gas industry continues to attract more and more new families to Watford City, and with that, the population of students continues to increase. The McKenzie County school district's growing enrollment rate has so far required the expansion of the existing elementary school in 2012 and the construction of a 53 million dollar high school in 2016 and now requires an additional elementary school.

"Our current Kindergarten through 5th-grade student population is approximately 1,035 students - which clearly shows a need for two elementary buildings as we transition to a more defined K-5 (2), 6-8, and 9-12 student building configuration," explained Dr. Steven Holen, Superintendent of Schools for McKenzie County District No. 1.

In order to accommodate Watford City's growing student population, a new elementary school is being built in the Fox Hills development and close to the new Watford City High School.

The building is expected to be ready for students and teachers by the start of the 2020 - 2021 school year. The current budget is $35 million as per the bond referendum. It will be two stories high and approximately 90,000 square feet. It is expected to have a student capacity of 600 students, which will require many teachers. "We will be splitting our current grade levels with the new facility, and we expect 35 to 40 teachers and typical support positions to operate the new school. Not all positions will be new as teachers will transition to the new facility from current facilities - new positions will be based on student growth and section needs for the 2020 - 2021 school year," stated Holen.

When Holen was asked what would be the biggest challenge for the project, he explained that timing will be a big challenge. "As we account for weather conditions in completing the project on time. We are confident in our current timeline and hoping for a mild winter to assist with the current timeline and in getting the building enclosed before major winter conditions. However, we are expecting a slightly later start to the school year than in previous years," said Holen.

Holen expects to see the student population to grow increasingly over the next years. According to the McKenzie County School District No. 1 Enrollment Projections, the district enrollment will increase from the current student population of 1,958 to 3,798 students by the beginning of the 2028-2029 school year.

Although the student population is expected to increase, the new elementary school will suit the needs of the growing student population as of now. Holen explained, "The new elementary school will help meet the growing enrollment and educational needs of our community with features such as collaborative learning spaces, up to date special education, building security, and bus/parent drop off." The McKenzie County School District No. 1 will have two K-5 elementary schools, one 6-8 middle school, and one 9-12 high school to start off the 2020-2021 school year at Watford City.

2019 Charity Ball A Success

The 2019 Charity Ball made "Magic in the Moonlight" for close to 350 attendees at the Well at Williston State College Friday, September 27. The Foundation's annual fundraiser is the largest of the year and 100% of the proceeds stay in Williston to touch the lives of those that seek care from CHI St. Alexius Health Williston. The Foundation's goal is to support our local non-profit hospital in its founding mission to minister to the sick of our community. From its inception nearly 100 years ago, CHI St. Alexius Health has partnered with members of this community to enhance the health care of the people we serve, and this year was no different. With over 40 sponsors in addition to attendees bidding on live and silent auction items, the event raised $100,346. We are grateful to all who sponsored, attended and donated.

The evening was emceed by Shawn Wenko, Executive Director of Economic Development and consisted of dinner, silent and live auctions, the Mentalist Entertainer, Sean Bott, who impressed attendees during the social hour as well as during his program. Opening remarks from Dan Bjerknes, President of the Hospital, addressed the crowd and shared the exciting opportunities in health care that we will experience in the year to come. "As we look at the end of 2019, we will be experiencing transitions of a different kind. We have partnered with a local daycare provider to open a daycare on our campus. We are working with several orthopedic surgeons in order provide new orthopedic services and 24/7 call coverage. We are adding family practice, women's health, general surgery, and occupational health providers. We have partnered with Billings Clinic to provide a Gyn Oncologist at our Cancer Center and lastly, we are working to bring a dermatology clinic to our community," said Dan Bjerknes. He closed by thanking all CHI employees and attendees alike. The evening ended with live music by Judd Hoos.

With proceeds from last year, we were able to purchase a portable digital x-ray machine and a new lab analyzer. This year proceeds will go toward our efforts to fully upgrade to digital radiography. This important advancement will improve patient experience and quality of care through enhanced diagnostics, quicker and increased image quality, lower risk of errors and less radiation. Again, all donations stay local to impact you, your family, your neighbors and colleagues.

To donate to the cause or for more information on the Foundation and supporting our local Hospital visit our website <https://www.chistalexiushealth.org/williston-foundation> or call the Foundation 701-774-7466.

George Stuckers Started Hunting When He Was A Kid

Stuckers with an antelope he harvested in 2018.

By Nicole Lucina

It's that time of the year again and hunters couldn't be happier. In a lot of cases, hunting is something they have done their whole lives. Hunter George Stuckers Jr. has been at it since he was a kid.

"I was given my first Red Ryder BB gun when I was five years old. I couldn't even cock it myself, I had to have my dad do it for me," Stuckers said.

Stuckers hunts everything from water fowl, upland game, big game and even does carp shooting. He said his favorite to hunt are elk. Stuckers said that he's only gotten one elk while bow hunting.

He started bow hunting back in 2011 when he moved to Sidney. When asked what his best hunting experience was, Stuckers said it was hard to pull one out of the bunch.

"Each trip is unique in its own way. It differs from each hunt," Stuckers said. "Any hunting experience is pleasurable with family and friends."

Stuckers said for the last ten years, he and three of his friends take a hunting trip to the breaks for one week each season.

While they put in a lot of work scoping out the hunting ground, getting rifles and bows sighted, it's all worth it for the experience.

Stuckers said they use Google Earth to help them scout an area before they trek out to it.

"You can check out the vegetation and the coverage, find out who owns it and the animals it holds," Stuckers said. "It's really cool."

He typically hunts around Sidney but has hunted from the east to west end of the state on different occasions.

Stuckers's most memorable hunting trip was one where he ended up getting food poisoning and ending up really sick. That was the year he shot his trophy elk.

It was so snowy, he and his hunting partners had to stop and put chains on their tires to finish the drive. After getting out to go hunting, he was so sick he had to go back to the hotel.

"Sunday morning it was snowing like crazy. I drove back up there Sunday night. I got to the top of the mountain and there was three to four feet of snow. I saw two bull elk and I went for the bigger of the two. I shot twice. I was 75 yards away from the road," Stuckers said.

It took six of them to haul his trophy elk to the truck to get it loaded up.

Free Hunter Workshop In Glasgow

Learn about CWD, how to extract lymph nodes, and how to quarter a big game animal using the “gutless” method

With the detection of Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) in the state of Montana in 2017, the way hunters approach the hunting and processing of the big game animals of the deer family is changing; especially with hunting and processing an animal in a CWD management zone. At this free workshop, hunters will learn all about hunting in a CWD management zone, including information on CWD, how to extract lymph nodes for testing, and how to quarter a big game animal using the “gutless” method. FWP plans to use recently harvested deer for this demonstration.

The workshop will be held in Glasgow at the FWP Region 6 Headquarters on Sat., Oct. 19, starting at 12:30 p.m. The workshop will be held regardless of weather (there will be an indoor option), and all ages are welcome. The Hi-Line Sportsmen conservation group in Glasgow is sponsoring door prizes, and beverages and light snacks will be available.

CWD Management Zones are areas where CWD is known to exist. In Region 6, the Northern CWD Management Zone includes all districts north of Highway 2. To prevent the spread of CWD from infected areas of Montana to other parts of the state, the whole carcass, whole head, brain, or spinal column from any deer, elk, or moose harvested within a CWD Management Zone may not be removed from that Management Zone unless the animal has tested negative for CWD.

One way to effectively remove the harvested animal from a CWD Management Zone is by quartering it and removing all required consumable parts, which leaves the rest of the carcass in the field. Not only is this an effective method to limit possible transmission of CWD, it is a very efficient way to carry an animal out of the back country. Any big game hunter can benefit by learning how to quarter an animal.

About CWD

CWD is a progressive, always-fatal disease affecting the nervous system of mule deer, white-tailed deer, elk and moose. It is spread primarily through animal-to-animal contact or animal contact with infected materials and tissue. Infected tissue can also be spread by humans, often by dumping animal remains outside of approved landfills.

There is no known transmission of CWD to humans or other animals, including pets or livestock. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends that hunters harvesting a deer, elk, or moose from an area where CWD is known to be present have their animal tested for CWD prior to consuming the meat, and to not consume the meat if the animal tests positive.

Hunters who want to have samples tested from outside FWP established survey areas can have them tested and FWP will cover the costs. Prior to the general season, hunters can collect samples themselves and mail them to the FWP Lab in Bozeman — instructions and a video are available on the FWP website. Starting with the general season, hunters can still submit samples themselves or take the samples or a deer/elk/moose head to CWD sampling station or regional offices for assistance.

If you have any questions about this free workshop, please call FWP Region 6 Information and Education Manager Marc Kloker at 406-228-3704, email mkloker@mt.gov, or call the Glasgow office at 406-228-3700.

Dennis Stroughmatt Et L'Esprit Creole To Perform At The Mondak Heritage Center's Harvestfest, Nov. 8

Dennis Stroughmatt et L'Esprit Creole will be performing at the Mondak Heritage Center's HarvestFest event on November 8. Along with Dennis Stroughmatt et L'Esprit's music, attendees will also enjoy seasonal beer and brats (wine and punch for non-beer drinkers) as part of the HarvestFest fundraiser. Tickets are available through the Mondak Heritage Center, $50 per person, $40 for MDHC & NAN members. Attendees for this event must be 21 or older to attend.

Originally from southeastern Illinois, Dennis Stroughmatt was taught to play fiddle by Missouri Creole fiddlers Roy Boyer and Charlie Pashia in the tradition of their fathers. He became an adopted son of the French Midwest Creoles who settled near St Louis, subsequently playing at weekly local French Creole house parties or "bouillons." As a result of his physical journeys that have also included French and musical studies in Louisiana, Quebec and Tennessee, Dennis finds himself in a unique position as one who can speak knowledgeably and play in a variety of French and Cajun/Western Swing styles. He has an innate sense of what is needed to get an audience on their feet, keep a band on its toes and educate throughout. Dennis Stroughmatt et L'Esprit Creole are now passionate ambassadors of Creole music and traditions, expanding interest and excitement in a region that has been ignored by the history books.

This medley of music, language, stories, and culture secreted away in the Missouri and southern Illinois Ozarks now has a voice in the tapestry of this world. With the blessing of the Creole people of the Midwest, Dennis Stroughmatt et L'Esprit Creole work to expand interest and excitement in a region that has been, in many ways, forgotten by the march of time. But what many have considered to be long lost is alive and kicking.

The Mondak Heritage Center is open Tuesday-Friday from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and Saturday from 1-4 p.m. Admission is FREE. For more information call 406-433-3500 or e-mail mdhc@richland.org.

Richland County Youth To Celebrate National 4-H Week Oct. 6-12

Submitted by Josie Evenson

The anticipation is building for National 4-H Week, during which millions of youth, parents, volunteers and alumni across the country will be celebrating everything 4-H. Richland County 4-H will observe National 4-H Week this year by showcasing the incredible experiences that 4-H offers young people, and will highlight the remarkable 4-H youth in our community who work each day to make a positive impact on those around them.

The theme of this year's National 4-H Week is Inspire Kids to Do, which highlights how 4-H encourages kids to take part in hands-on learning experiences in areas such as health, science, agriculture and civic engagement. The positive environment provided by 4-H mentors ensures that kids in every county and parish in the country from urban neighborhoods to suburban schoolyards to rural farming communities are encouraged to take on proactive leadership roles and are empowered with the skills to lead in life and career.

In Richland County more than 214 4-H youth and 135 volunteers from the community are involved in the 4H program. Richland County 4-H members will be celebrating 4-H week by entering displays in the 2019 Hay Bale Trail, setting up community displays, participating in 4-H events and by wearing 4-H insignia. Be sure to keep a look out for all the fun ways Richland County is celebrating National 4-H Week.

About 4-H: 4-H, the nation's largest youth development and empowerment organization, cultivates confident kids who tackle the issues that matter most in their communities right now. In the United States, 4-H programs empower six million young people through the 110 land-grant universities and Cooperative Extension in more than 3,000 local offices serving every county and parish in the country. Outside the United States, independent, country-led 4-H organizations empower one million young people in more than 50 countries. National 4-H Council is the private sector, non-profit partner of the Cooperative Extension System and 4-H National Headquarters located at the National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) within the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Research has proven that participation in 4-H has a significant positive impact on young people. Recent findings from the Tufts University 4-H Study of Positive Youth Development indicate that, when compared to their peers, young people in 4-H are:

- Nearly four times more likely to contribute to their communities,
- Two times more likely to pursue healthy behaviors and
- Two times more likely to engage in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (STEM) programs in the out-of-school time.

Learn more about 4-H in Richland County at <http://richland.msuextension.org/4h.html> or look us up on Facebook under Richland County 4-H.
