Lambert Student Seeks Career as Sports Announcer

By Jamie Loobey

At the end of this school year, Lambert Public School will have to let go of an outstanding sports announcer. Julen Idoate has been announcing the Lambert and Richey home games for several months but will be graduating this year. He plans on seeking a career in sports broadcasting. Julen was not always interested in communications but last year he tried out for the basketball team but could not play for technical reasons. The coach suggested he try his hand at announcing the game over Network 1 Sports, the school's radio station. Julen tried it and discovered his calling. He truly enjoys what he does. He said, "I love sports and I love to talk so I thought I should make a career out of it."

No one in Julen's family is in radio. His father, Ignacio, came to Sidney from Spain as a foreign exchange student. He fell in love with a young girl named Angie, Julen's mother, and decided he wanted to stay. Julen is not without support in his endeavors, however. He says he keeps in contact with one of the L.A. Lakers sports announcers for support and advice.

Julen was born in Sidney and has lived in northeastern Montana his entire life, although, he travels to Spain once a year to visit with his father's side of the family. He wants to attend college but has not yet decided which one he will attend. He likes the broadcasting program at Minot State University and the Communications program at the University of Montana. He will most likely attend one of those. After college, he plans to get a job as a radio announcer in Williston or elsewhere in the Mondak region. Julen says his ultimate goal would be to work for a college or television station like ESPN, NBC or CBS. He likes to plan out his goals in small steps, however, so currently his sights are set on Williston.

Event to Discuss Good Government in North Dakota to be held in Watford City

Free and Open to the Public, Refreshments Provided

NDSU's Northern Plains Ethics Institute and ThinkND are set to host a conversation about "What is Good Government in North Dakota?" on Wednesday, March 7th, from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. at the Rough Rider Center in Watford City. The Bush Foundation and the North Dakota Humanities Council have awarded ThinkND grants for this project. The discussion will feature moderators Dana Whippo, Assistant Professor in Political Science and Economics at Dickenson State University, and Cecile Wehrman, President of Journal Publishing, which prints The Journal of Crosby and the Tioga Tribune.

The moderators will give opening remarks and then engage in audience conversations about: What makes good government? What makes a good elected official? What makes a good citizen?

According to institute director Dennis Cooley, North Dakotans have reported that trust in government has eroded. "They feel that rapid changes in everyday life and government at every level have left many disconnected, if not reeling," Cooley said. "Facts seem often to contradict one another. Legislators are not as accessible as they used to be. Concerned citizens attending government hearings often feel dismissed, as if decisions have already been made. There are concerns about out-of-state money influencing government decisions. This comes at a time when trust is needed to pursue success for each citizen and the state."

The discussion is part of a multi-faceted initiative to engage North Dakota citizens and academic experts in a discussion about ethics and trust in government. The elements of the initiative include:

- Five gatherings of academics and citizens around the state
- A culminating event at the Heritage Center in Bismarck
- Participation in statewide conference programs and radio talk shows
- A series of Dakota Datebook programs on Prairie Public Radio

The project focuses on academic collaboration, participant engagement and preserving or creating content for re-use. Scholars will address such topics as the role of ethical behavior in the history of North Dakota government, how ethical government affects a state's economy, the cost of mistrust and other matters related the requirements of good government.

The gatherings will focus on local thought leaders; teachers; students; people involved with township, city and county government; rural residents and the Native community.

"By providing an opportunity to engage in conversations with each other and experts from the academic community, a grass works-based framework for possibly rethinking government can be sketched out," Cooley said.

Roosevelt Medical Center Set to Host: Zoe & Friends

After settling in as Roosevelt Medical Center's newest provider, Zoe Fugere, FNP, will take part in her first community awareness event where she will discuss the issue of addiction.

"We will think beyond drugs and alcohol and also consider addictions to tobacco, caffeine, sugar, technology and several others," Fugere said.

The event is taking place on March 29, from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at the Town Hall in Culbertson.

Fugere will discuss the many types of addictions, how you can get help and help others. She will also discuss ways to protect your children from the allure of harmful substances. A question and answer session will follow.

"People might not think of their coffee as an addiction, but 21 million Americans drinks six or more cups a day," Fugere said. "You may not think of a nightly chocolate fix as an addiction, but Americans eat an average of 77 pounds of sugar a year," she continued. "While it's perfectly fine to drink coffee and eat chocolate, it's the amount and frequency that could be a serious problem," she said. "This event will hopefully open people's eyes to signs of addictions in their own life while also giving them some techniques for addressing them," she said.

The casual event will also be fun and inspiring while offering attendees hors d'oeuvres, coffee, wine, giveaways and a raffle. The event is free and everyone is encouraged to attend.

2018 MonDak Ag Days March 1-2 in Sidney

Check out the March Ag Roundup edition for more information on the 2018 MonDak Ag Days.

By Tim Fine

The MonDak Ag Days and Trade Show Committee and the Sidney Chamber of Commerce's Agriculture Committee have joined forces to bring you what we think is a great lineup of educational sessions, banquet entertainment, and trade show vendors.

Ag Days will kick off at 8:00 a.m. on Thursday, March 1 when the doors open for the trade show. After listening to suggestions from our ranching community, it was decided to push back the start of the educational sessions, so the first session will begin at 10:00 when Bridger Feuz gives his cattle market outlook. That will be followed at 10:45 when Hudson Hill leads a discussion on tools for monitoring and managing nutrition in the beef cow herd. After a break, Bridger Feuz will be on again to discuss economic ranch tools and risk management and that will be followed by Barton Stram's talk on what tools are available to build a range management plan. All of these previously listed talks are part of a complete program offered by the University of Wyoming Extension professionals and they are coming to Sidney because of a grant they received from the USDA Risk Management Association.

At 2:30 that afternoon Jim Beck, who used to work for the Montana DNRC, will talk about the form every landowner got from the DNRC in regards to water rights. If you got one of these letters but are not sure whether or not you need to do anything, you should come and find out. Thursday's educational portion will end at 3:45 with an update on crop insurance from Gary Hellig who is the Vice President and Northwest Division Manager for Rain and Hail. After last year's drought and lack of crop production, insurance really saved some people and may be something to look into for 2018.

Thursday evening's events will begin with a social sponsored by Prewitt and Company, the Sidney Livestock Market Center, and Yellowstone Bank. These businesses ensure that, when you purchase a ticket to the banquet, you will get a ticket for a free drink at the social. Speaking of the banquet, it will begin at 6:00 and will feature a steak dinner, awards from the Richland Conservation District and entertainment from Jerry Carroll. If you're not sure who Jerry Carroll is, you will want to visit his website which is <http://www.thejerrycarroll.com>. Be prepared to laugh. Tickets to the banquet are $40 and can be purchased at the Richland County Extension Office, the Sidney Chamber of Commerce, Stockman Bank in Sidney, or Tri-County Implement in Sidney.

Friday's events will start with the annual Sidney Chamber Breakfast starting at 7:00 a.m. The trade show will once again open at 8:00 and then the educational portion will begin at 9:00. The first talk on Friday will be Richland County's own Chet Hill discussing Narrowleaf Hawksbeard and Maretail. If you are not familiar with these weeds, you will want to be as they are increasingly becoming problematic in Northeastern Montana. Chet's talk has been awarded 1 point for commercial and private pesticide applicators.

Following Chet's talk, Ed Usset will be at the event to give his popular presentation on 5 common mistakes in grain marketing. It is truly an honor to have Ed coming to Sidney as he is very well-respected in the marketing community and actually will be coming to Sidney directly from the Commodity Classic which is an event that brings farmers from all over the U.S. and Canada to Los Angeles for a large trade show and educational programs. Ed's program is sure to be thought provoking and worthwhile.

The event will wrap up with the final educational program starting at 1:15 when Patrick Gilchrist from the National Weather Service office in Glasgow will give as much of a weather prediction for 2018 as he can.

The 2018 MonDak Ag Days and Trade show is top-to-bottom one of the best programs put together in some time and it would not be possible without the generous support of Stockman Bank, Tri-County Implement, the Sidney TBID, Sidney Sugars, Richland County Farm Bureau, Farm Bureau Financial Services in Sidney, Northern Pulse Growers Association, C&B Operations, and the USDA Risk Management Agency. On behalf of the committee, we hope that you can attend.

DEQ Meeting Re-scheduled For March 7

The buzz around Richland County lately has been the proposed Yellowstone Disposal Class II solid waste landfill facility. The project is proposed on the east side of the Yellowstone River, located on 650.7 acres of privately-owned property, approximately 4.5 miles southeast of Sidney, across the highway from the Thiel Subdivision.

Due to weather events, the Department of Environmental Quality public meeting has been re-scheduled to 5:30 p.m., March 7 at MonDak Heritage Center, 120 3rd Ave., S.E., Sidney, Montana.

DEQ has prepared a draft Environmental Assessment for the proposed site. It can be viewed at: <http://deq.mt.gov/public/ea/WasteMgt>. Comments must be submitted by March 16, to DEQ Solid Waste Section, PO Box 200901, Helena, MT or emailed to: DEQSWprogram@mt.gov.

For more information about the application or the license process please contact the DEQ Solid Waste Program at 406-444-5300.

To learn more about the project, attend the public meeting. Please note that the deadline for the public comment period ends March 16, 2018.

LYIP Hearing Set for March 5

Monday, March 5th has been set by the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals to hear oral arguments on the appeal by federal agencies and the Lower Yellowstone Irrigation Project against the injunction on the fish bypass and concrete weir imposed by Judge Brian Morris last summer. The court has up to six weeks to rule on the appeal.

The 40 minute hearing will be held at the historic Pioneer Square Courthouse in Portland, OR at 9 a.m. The appellants include LYIP, the US Army Corps of Engineers, US Bureau of Reclamation and US Fish & Wildlife.

Foundation For Community Care Now Accepting 2018 Healthcare Grant Applications

The Foundation for Community Care announces that healthcare grant applications are now available. In May the Foundation for Community Care's volunteer Board of Directors will provide financial support for local healthcare. Each year the Foundation is able to offer grants by distributing a portion of the earnings from its Endowment Fund.

Ensuring the Continuance & Quality of Local Healthcare Services is the mission of the Foundation for Community Care. "Each year, we strive to achieve that goal," stated Gina Heckey, executive director. "We are extremely fortunate to have great quality healthcare in our area and by providing grants for health and medical equipment, services, and programs we can help keep it that way."

Organizations with an immediate need directly related to quality health or medical care (present and future) of Richland County and surrounding areas are encouraged to apply for a grant by contacting the Foundation for Community Care at (406) 488-2273. Applications are also available at the office or on our website at www.foundationforcommunitycare.org.

Requests for funding must be related to a project or equipment that will benefit healthcare for a large number of residents in the Richland County and surrounding area, not medical funding for an individual. Applications must be received by the Foundation by 4:00pm on April 30, 2018, to be considered.

Behavioral Health Workshop Set for March 29

By Marcia Hellandsaas
NDSU Extension Agent, McKenzie County

School counselors, law enforcement, clergy, public health professionals, teachers and others who work with people will have an opportunity to learn about mental and behavioral health during a workshop the North Dakota State University Extension Service is hosting March 29.

The three-hour Behavioral Health for Your Family and Community workshop will be offered through the Interactive Video Network on the NDSU campus in Fargo and at several sites across the state, including McKenzie County. The local site will be the Commission Room in the McKenzie County Courthouse. The event starts at 9 a.m. Central time and is free of charge.

"We want people to be more confident in their ability to spot problems and get individuals the help they need to feel whole and healthy," says Kim Bushaw, Extension family science specialist.

Behavioral health specialists from Prairie St. John's in Fargo will present the program. The speakers and their topics are:

- * Jeana Scheffler, an adult inpatient therapist - geriatric mental health. Participants will learn typical behavioral health warning signs, barriers to care, risk factors, resources and care strategies for the geriatric population and will gain clearer understanding of mental health concerns facing the rapidly growing older adult population.
- * Monica McConkey, director of business development - emotional stress on the farm. Participants will learn to identify stressors related to the farm crisis, become aware of specific warning signs related to a behavioral health crisis, and learn important skills to communicate support and access help for individuals of concern.
- * Beth Brantner, a licensed clinical and addiction counselor - substance use issues and concerns, including current substance use trends in North Dakota, signs and symptoms of substance use, prevention efforts and how to address substance use in your community

"Mental/behavioral health is an important topic, especially with difficulties in farming and ranching, the uneven nature of the oil industry and the state's budget cuts," McConkey says. "Many families are anxious about what will happen next to their farms, ag-related jobs, income, savings and futures."

A certificate will be available for those who complete the workshop.

For more information about the workshop or local IVN site, please contact the NDSU Extension Service in McKenzie County at 701-444-3451 or email marcia.hellandsaas@ndsu.edu.

Richland County Conservation District 2017 Cooperator Of The Year

2015 Richland County Students learning about plant identification. (Photo submitted by Julie Goss)

Submitted by Julie Goss

The Richland County Conservation District has presented the Cooperator of the year award for several years. Each year the winner has shown they care about conservation, it may be implementing conservation practices that improve water quantity and quality, enhancing soil health or recovering the rangeland. We have presented the award to individuals who work with the district to promote conservation. Irrigation districts and their members who upgraded their system to become more efficient in water delivery. Entities who promote and implement conservation and work with the Conservation District to accomplish these goals are recognized for their efforts.

The 2017 Cooperator of the Year is the Kittleson Family Partnership. Each year for the past 15 years the conservation district has brought several different agencies together on Kittleson's land to teach our youth about water, wildlife, rangeland, soils, plant identification, GPS, geology and the weather. In this outdoor setting the students get a chance to hike, explore and learn with the help of Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks, MSU Extension, Montana Bureau of Mines and Geology, Natural Resource Conservation Service, NOAA and Northern Plains Ag Research Lab. The outdoor classroom is a two-day event with Richland County students attending on one day and Roosevelt County students attending on the other day.

Kittleson's property that is used to host the event has several different land types, grassy meadows, wooded areas, sandstone rocks and cropland. The various land types make for a beautiful place for the students to get out of the classroom and experience nature. Over 4000 students, teachers, some parents and bus drivers have enjoyed a fall day in the country learning about conservation and Montana's natural resources. We have had beautiful days, rainy days, cold days and windy days. Each year is different and each year brings a new group of excited students anxious to explore, hike and learn. Every year when I call to ask permission to use the site, Kittleson's enthusiastically say yes. It is a piece of property that has been in their family for generations and they are proud to share it with the community. We appreciate the Kittleson Family Partnership and their dedication to helping the conservation district promote conservation and nature to our youth.

The Richland County Conservation District will present the Kittlesons with a coat donated by Stockman Bank and a book of photos of the students in the various stations of the event at the MonDak Ag Days Banquet on March 1.

The MonDak Heritage Center announces American Art & Democracy Come Together in Jazz by Wilbur Rehmann

Musician Wilbur Rehmann presents American Art & Democracy Come Together in Jazz on Monday, March 12 at 7:00 p.m. at the MonDak Heritage Center, 120 3rd Ave SE, Sidney! Wilbur shows how America is the only place where the art form called jazz could have been created. He describes the roots of jazz in the field hollers and work songs of slaves and follows the art form through to the modern jazz era of the '40s, '50s, '60s, and beyond. Wilbur illustrates points with examples from recordings, his own saxophone playing, and video footage. American Art & Democracy Come Together in Jazz is part of Hometown Humanities Sidney and is FREE and open to the public. Join us! Sponsored by Humanities Montana, an independent, non-profit affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. For more information contact MDHC at (406) 433-3500 or visit mon-dakheritagecenter.org.

Fairview FFA Celebrates National FFA Week

By Anna Dragseth
On Thursday, February 22nd, the Fairview Future Farmers of America (FFA) Chapter presented an assembly to the junior high and high school students at Fairview High School. Fairview FFA members discussed the benefits of joining FFA, how to join the organization, events members can compete in, and past competitions the members have participated in. The members also presented a Kahoot game to quiz the students' knowledge on agricultural topics.

The Fairview FFA Chapter held dress-up days on each day of the week, coloring contests for elementary students, a coin drive, and a meet n' greet with farm animals. The FFA members brought animals from their farms and ranches to school for students to meet. "Last year was the first year we celebrated National FFA Week since our chapter was just getting started in 2016. The goal for this year's National FFA Week was to add on to what we did last year. This year we painted windows, held fundraisers, announced agricultural facts over the intercom, and held a petting zoo outside the school. We also hid an FFA emblem around the school for students to find and once they found it, they were rewarded a $10 Subway gift card. It was definitely a successful week," said Fairview's FFA President, Lexie Selting.

National FFA Week occurred from February 17th to the 24th. It is celebrated around George Washington's birthday, February 22nd, because of Washington's legacy as an agriculturist and farmer. Every year, FFA chapters around the United States celebrate National FFA Week. It is a time for chapter members to host group activities, conduct service projects, recruit new members, share agricultural information with others, advocate for agriculture, and it is also a chance for students to show off their FFA pride.

IT'S TAX SEASON

Here Are Some Helpful Tips From The IRS:

- Don't count on receiving a refund by a certain date. Some refunds are required to be held until after Feb 27, 2018.
- Track your refund on IRS.gov or the IRS mobile app, IRS2Go.
- If self-preparing your taxes and filing electronically, you must sign and validate your return by entering your prior-year Adjusted Gross Income or your prior-year self-select PIN. Using an electronic filing PIN is no longer an option.
- All IRS Taxpayer Assistance Centers (TACs) are now by appointment only. Don't wait until it's too late to ask questions! However, Most questions can be resolved on the IRS.gov website without visiting a TAC.
- There are tools, filing options and other services and resources available on www.IRS.gov.

Miss Montana USA 2018, Dani Walker Is A Nominee For The 2018 Global Beauty Awards

Nominated for Best Social Media and video blogger, Dani will attend the Global Beauty Awards on March 10, in Bellevue, Washington, along side numerous stars of the beauty, fashion, and pageant industries.

As the creator of a positivity-centered youtube channel, Walker's notoriety stemmed from her Road to Miss Montana USA vlog series, earning her subscribers from around the world. Her humorous weekly vlogs and content range from communications lessons and inspirational stories, to recaps of pageants, which led to her appearance on a talk show in Thailand with Miss Thailand Universe.

Walker will compete at the nationally televised 2018 Miss USA competition, later this year, which is an official preliminary event for the Miss Universe pageant.

Rost to Run for Legislative Office

By Jordan Hall
Tanya Rost, a long-time resident of Richland County, is running for legislative office in House District 35. She is married to Shawn Rost, and they have four children together, own an oil field business and have investments in local agriculture. The Roundup spoke with Rost and asked her questions regarding her candidacy and plans for legislation if she were to win the seat.

When asked why she was running for the House District seat, Rost responded, “I want to make sure that there is a conservative candidate representing Richland County. It’s one thing to call yourself a Republican, but it’s another to be a conservative. I believe that I’m both, and want to see policies that will best benefit Richland County and align with our values.”

Rost went on to explain what some of those policies should be, saying, “I want to see lowered property tax. Right now, the vast majority of property-owning Richland County residents are suffering from property taxes. We have seen them increase dramatically, even though their real property value has not risen accordingly. Other than protecting essential liberties, lowering property taxes will be a top priority.” “Concerning the protection of liberties,” Rost continued, “I want to see Constitutional Carry pass the Montana legislature. This means I want the only concealed carry permit required in the State of Montana to be that which was given in the Second Amendment of the Constitution. We can already carry outside of municipal areas without a permit in Montana, and we need to join the rest of the conservative states in the Union that are allowing carry without a special permit, so long as the person is legally able to purchase a firearm.”

Rost also spoke of the importance of the sanctity of life, saying, “I want to see a personhood law passed as well. The Montana Constitution already says that all persons are given the right to pursue life, and all we want is for law to recognize all human beings as persons, whether inside or outside the womb.”

Rost continued on the subject, “Right now, the ACLU is suing the State of Montana, saying that because the state is so rural, we need to allow midwives to practice abortion. Montana is the most liberal state on abortion in the Rocky Mountain region, and giving midwives permission to perform complicated surgery away from medical centers won’t help anyone, mother or child.”

When asked to explain her potential strengths in the legislative office, Rost said, “First, I’ve been here a very long time and I know the area very well. My job is to represent the district, and I’m from here. That’s a big advantage right off the bat. Likewise, I feel that I share distinctly Eastern Montana values. There’s a big difference between Western Montana and Eastern Montana, and I am here to represent our values, in particular.”

When asked if she had any conflicts of interest or weaknesses that might prevent her from serving to the best of her ability, Rost responded, “I’ve lived a very simple, quiet life. I’m ready to serve my community, and voters can be confident that I’m the same neighbor they’ve known all these years, my views haven’t changed, and neither have my convictions.”

Edward Jones Ranks No. 5 on the 2018 Fortune 100 Best Companies to Work For by Great Place to Work® and FORTUNE Magazine

Financial services firm Edward Jones ranks No. 5 on the 2018 FORTUNE 100 Best Companies to Work For list in its 19th appearance on the prestigious list, according to global research and consulting firm Great Place to Work® and FORTUNE magazine. The firm is the highest-ranking financial-services firm on the list.

The 2018 winners continue to show that a high-trust culture for all fuels better business results, according to Great Place to Work. The organization’s research shows that list winners keep outperforming the stock market, beating industry rivals when it comes to talent retention and demonstrating higher levels of productivity than peers.

“We feel very proud of this consistent recognition that we have created a special workplace where we care about our clients and we care about each other,” said Edward Jones Managing Partner Jim Weddle. “As a partnership, all of us work together with the sole focus of uniquely understanding and delivering value to the clients we serve.”

Great Place to Work based its ranking on a data-driven methodology applied to anonymous survey responses from employees at Great Place to Work-certified organizations with more than 1,000 employees.

“As a growing firm, we are proud to have created a rewarding career destination that sets us apart within our industry and underscores our opportunity,” Weddle said. “Building personal relationships with our clients is fulfilling, and we take pride in knowing that we make a significant, positive difference to our clients and to the communities where we live and work.”

To see the full list of the 2018 FORTUNE 100 Best Companies to Work For, visit www.fortune.com/best-companies.

The list is based on survey responses from more than 310,000 employees rating their workplace culture on 50-plus elements. These include trust in managers, compensation, fairness, camaraderie and workplace traits linked to innovation. The ranking accounted for the experiences of all employees including women, people of color, LGBT individuals, older team members and disabled employees.

The 2018 100 Best are true leaders, said Michael C. Bush, CEO of Great Place to Work. “In the face of competition, change and financial constraints, they consistently prioritize building the trust, pride and camaraderie that fuels business performance. And they’re doing it at scale for everyone, regardless of who they are or what they do for the organization.”

The 100 Best Companies is one in a series of rankings by Great Place to Work and FORTUNE, based on employee feedback from Great Place to Work-Certified(TM) organizations. Edward Jones also was ranked as a Best Workplace for women, millennials, Gen Xers, those close to retirement, giving back, camaraderie and flexibility.

The Sidney financial advisors are: Enid Huotari, Nick Lonski, Jerry Hughes and Lauren Sukut.

Edward Jones, a Fortune 500 company headquartered in St. Louis, provides financial services in the U.S. and, through its affiliate, in Canada. Every aspect of the firm’s business, from the investments its financial advisors offer to the location of its branch offices, caters to individual investors. The firm’s 15,000-plus financial advisors serve more than 7 million clients and care for $1 trillion in assets under management. Visit the firm’s website at www.edwardjones.com and its recruiting website at www.careers.edwardjones.com. Member SIPC.

Guest Opinion

Standing Up For Community Health

By U.S. Senator Jon Tester

Community health centers, including Sidney Health Center here in Sidney, provide access to quality care to one in 10 Montanans. Community health centers are vital across rural America. That's why, after Congress let them sit in limbo for more than 130 days, I rattled some cages back in Washington to finally secure much-needed funding and certainty for them.

Last year, I held a series of listening sessions across our state. I heard time and again how much folks rely on these clinics, and appreciate the quality care they provide.

Congress' four-month failure to pass a long-term budget, forced Montana's 40 community health facilities to consider scaling back services or closing altogether.

After many rounds of negotiations, I pushed the Senate to reach a bipartisan agreement to increase funding for Montana's community health centers for the next two years.

This bipartisan agreement will keep health care accessible for 100,000 Montanans and will ensure that folks in Richland County don't have to travel hundreds of miles to take their kids to a checkup or get patched up after an injury.

That's why I fought to get this fixed. I stood with Montana's health leaders on the Capitol steps, demanded action on the Senate floor, and even voted against short-term government funding budgets until folks would listen.

I told Washington to stop playing politics with your health care. I was the only member of Montana's congressional delegation to support the renewal and increase to community health center funding.

I am incredibly pleased that we prevented these clinics from closing. But we have more work to do, because Montana's communities deserve more than two years of certainty.

I've lived my whole life on the land my grandparents homesteaded in Big Sandy. I've worked that farm every planting season like my parents did and their parents before them.

Every farmer knows that accidents happen. Between losing my three fingers in a meat grinder to various bumps, cuts and bruises, I know how important rural health facilities are to our rural and frontier communities.

I will do everything I can in Congress to ensure you and your family never have to question whether Sidney Health Center will be there when you need it.

Jon Tester is a third generation farmer from Big Sandy and the senior Senator from Montana.

2018 Spring Fever

Garden Forums Offered

By Marcia Hellandsaas

NDSU Extension Agent, McKenzie County

North Dakota State University is offering a series of forums to help you care for your yard and garden. A team of experts will share the latest information on timely topics in horticulture, including new trees, organic gardening, and invading pests.

Live presentations from NDSU will be delivered to Extension offices across the state. Forums will be held over four consecutive Monday nights, from March 19 to April 9, from 6:30 to 8:30 CDT. Free educational materials and samples of bulbs and seeds will be provided, should you participate at the NDSU Extension Service/McKenzie County.

Registration is requested. You may register to attend at the NDSU Extension Service/McKenzie County by calling 701-444-3451 or email marcia.hellandsaas@ndsu.edu and/or you can choose to participate on your own computer at home. A link would be sent to you to participate following your registration.

For more information, please contact the NDSU Extension Service/McKenzie County or go to www.ag.ndsu.edu/springfever.
