Bakken Area Skills Center Now Open

A Facility Built To Increase Availability Of Career, Technical Education & Training For High School Students & Incumbent Workers Starting Its 1st Year

By Jaymi Mozeak

The Bakken Area Skills Center, a facility built to increase the availability of career and technical education and training for high school students and incumbent workers throughout the Bakken region, was completed in 2023 and began holding classes on Jan. 15.

The Bakken Area Skills Center is owned and primarily operated by McKenzie County School District #1. According to the Watford City School district website, www.watford-city.k12. nd.us, that vision was to provide in-demand training opportunities that are responsive to the needs of the region's workforce through collaborative partnerships with secondary education, post-secondary education/ training, and local employers. With 100 students taking classes at the BASC at this time and an additional 28 students enrolled in their alternative school that meets there, it is well on its way to fulfilling the vision set forth by McKenzie County School District #1 organizers. The facility spans 40,000 sq. ft. on 40 acres of land. There are four shop areas for building trades, welding, auto/diesel mechanics, and automation. There are two complete health career classrooms for LPN and ADN programs. There are also two general rooms, two larger conference rooms, offices, a health screening room, testing area, four exterior pad areas, and a Corp of Discovery/mobile trailer.

There are virtual programs like Agriculture Processing, Farm and Ranch Management, Intro into Health Careers, Health Science 1, Medical Terminology, Intro to Sports Medicine, Nursing Assistant (CNA), CDL and Drone/UAS. There are also programs planned for welding, information technology, aviation, and career development. They also have a Mobile Meats Lab, Mobile Automation Lab, and Tools Library to go out to regional schools.

The Bakken Area Skills Center is located at 2112 Wolves Den Parkway, Watford City. and is currently open. According to Daniel

Books On Broadway To Host Book-Signing With Pinder Feb. 3

By Dianne Swanson

Glasgow, Montana author Cara Pinder will sign copies of her delightful children's book, "The Tooth Fairy Stars" at Books on Broadway on Saturday, Feb. 3 from 1-4 p.m.

Pinder says her book is about a young girl who does not want to give up her very first wiggly tooth, not even for a shiny gold coin under her pillow. But what if the Tooth Fairy gives her something else? Something so big everyone will see it? Find out what the Tooth Fairy does with our teeth when we lose them.

The book offers a new approach for elementary age children, showing them that it's not just about money, but about being part of something much bigger, like a galaxy of stars.

Pinder is a fifth generation Montanan. She says growing up under the 'Big Sky' she was love-struck by the twinkling stars. She is raising two children with her husband Jerry, and says parenting is how bedtime stories, losing teeth and answering questions about life inspired the story of the often overlooked but always amazing Tooth Fairy.

Books on Broadway is located at 12 1/2 W. Broadway, Williston. If you are unable to attend the book signing on Feb. 3, please call them at 701-572-1433 or email bksbdwy@nemontel. net to reserve your signed condolences, and pictures were shared with the family at www.fulkersons.com.

Clara Grace (Putnam) Cundiff was born Dec. 20, 1930. to Lester and Lucy (Coon) Putnam in Sidney MT. She was raised in the Girard area and educated at Brorson School.

On May 22, 1948, she was united in marriage to William James Cundiff, Sr. They farmed and ranched only a few miles from where she was brought up. It was there that they raised three rambunctious children, and she stayed busy as a homemaker and dedicated wife. As many farm wives are, she was a ready "farmhand", doing chores, plowing fields, and driving tractors. Clara was a 4-H leader for all three of her kids and a few of her grandkids. During that time, she taught sewing, cooking, and helped kids keep track of the beef records. She made sure each Sunday the kids made it to Sunday School and afterwards there would be a family gathering to share a meal, often with the Brose or Wick family. We have heard mention that she had sewn matching "outfits" for herself, Bill Sr., and all three of the kids for the Montana Centennial celebration.

During her time on the farm there are many memories of her cooking for large gatherings including brandings, moving cattle, and large family functions. Her famous hobo stew and Spanish rice could not be replicated. Many in the family tried. There had to be a secret that she didn't share with anyone. She reassured each of us that it was very simple but somehow it wouldn't turn out anywhere close to hers. She also enjoyed hosting many card games and taught a lot of the younger kids how to play pinochle.

On March 28, 1991, her beloved husband passed away. Her love and dedication to him carried on and, in fact, the symbol of their marriage could still be seen on her left ring finger right up to the day she was called home. This love is inspiring and something most of us will never forget. After Bill passed away, she sold the house and leased the land. She then made the big adventure into city life and moved into Sidney. Many more memories were made in that home. In 2014, she was moved into the Extended Care facility in Sidney. She was cared for by some wonderful people and made many friends while she was there. Somehow, she managed to carry on sewing activities and hosted the cousin's luncheon each month. The highlight of her stay was becoming "resident of the year" in 2017 where they proudly crowned her and threw her a big party.

Her greatest joy was loving on her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Each grandkid and great grandkid were gifted a quilt, stitched with love and patience and an occasional pin she missed. Her love of sewing wasn't strictly in her quilting. She also sewed vests, western shirts, dresses, stuffed animals, quillows, pillowcases, table runners, and a variety of other items. Stories have been told of boxes and suitcases of cereal, fruit snacks and other favorite food items given to the great grandkids when she stopped for a visit. She also attended as many sporting and academic events as possible.

On Jan. 18, 2024, Clara was called home to heaven. The memories we carry with us and the legacy of love that was left behind are similar to the quilts she has made. They are all beautiful scraps of color but by the tender stitch of her hand have become something that will keep us warm for many years to come.

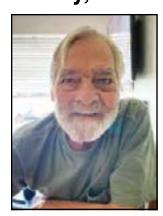

Clara is survived by her children Mary (Bob) Williams, Weatherford TX; Bill (Pat) Cundiff, and Frank (Sharyl) Cundiff both of Sidney, MT; sister Nancy Obergfell, Sidney, MT; 6 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren; and numerous

If there is a river to be fished in heaven, with a cold Budweiser and a pack of Camels at hand in a favored flannel shirt, Jim is there right now, soaking up the sun with his soulmate, his good old dog, Jake.

James Paul "Jim" Jensen was born Aug. 28, 1954, to Lola (Gaffield) and Clarence Jensen. The only boy, and adored by his sisters Linda, Carol, and Judy. Jim was the third Jensen child. He grew up in Sidney, MT, and to be sure, his heart never left though his feet sometimes roamed. Jim served in the U.S. Army and made a home in other seasons of his life in California, other parts of Montana, and finally in Idaho.

Jim married Melva Reidle in the early '70s, and to this union his only son, Jeremiah Patrick was born in March 1975. In 1983, he was joined in marriage to Paula Verhasselt and his daughter, Sara Lynn, notably named by Jim after his favorite farm cat, was born in June 1985. He was a self-proclaimed jack-of-all-trades and in his life was a diesel mechanic, a logger, an offshore driller, a carpenter and specialty woodworker, a shed builder, and a handyman. In short, if it was broken, he could fix it. He was a fan of old trucks, long drives, dirt roads, and the "scenic route" which was often code for happily lost. Adventures with Jimmy often turned into misadventures, which turned into belly laughs and great stories. He especially loved dogs, kids, classic country music on the radio, and a good crazy woman.

Passing at home in the early hours of Jan. 20, 2024, in Idaho Falls. ID. Jim will be missed in the lives of those he loved. He was preceded in death by his parents, many beloved animals, several lifelong friends, his beautiful niece, Lori, and his late companion, Helen.

He is survived by his sisters, Linda (Ted), Carol (Bill), and Judy; multiple nieces and nephews; his good friend, Debbie; and of course, his children, Jeremy (Marce) Jensen, Sidney, MT; and Sara (Dustin) Langley, Idaho Falls, ID. Papa Jim is also survived by his grandchildren, Brody, Bailee, Danikah "Dani," Honorina "Nina," and Johnaven "Johnny." His presence will ever be missed at the kids table, where he most loved to be.

Services for James Paul "Jim" Jensen, 69, Idaho Falls, ID, formerly of Sidney, MT, will be held on Saturday, Feb. 3, 2024, at 11 a.m. at Pella Lutheran Church, Sidney, MT.

Leroy Ernest Leland was born in Sidney, MT on Aug. 23, 1934, to Ernest and Johren (Gulbraa) Leland. He was raised in the rural area near Squaw Gap, ND. He attended a one-room country schoolhouse, 1st-8th grade. He attended high school in Sidney, MT where he roomed and boarded during the school week in town. He graduated high school in 1952. While in high school he was involved in sports and was asked to play football by college recruiters.

Lerov chose to stay and work on the family ranch on Bennie Peer Creek in Squaw Gap, until enlisting in the army on June 1, 1954. He was stationed at Fort Lewis, WA, and Fort Leonard Wood, MO. He is the only soldier in McKenzie County, ND who was involved with the atomic bomb testing at the Nevada proving grounds. Leroy was honorably discharged on March 2, 1956, and returned to work on the family ranch. During this time, he met a young school teacher named Virginia Kuykendall who taught at Leland School and boarded at his parents' home. Leroy and Virginia were married in Cartwright, ND on June 6, 1958.

Leroy and Virginia were life partners. Virginia was the love of his life. They ranched together on Bennie Peer Creek where they raised three daughters and a son. Leroy loved and took special care of his family and livestock. He was a good cowman. No matter the season or weather conditions he always worked long, hard hours to ensure the cattle had the best care he could give them. He spent hours making sure the gates to the dikes on the hay fields were operational to ensure a hay crop for the year. Leroy was an equal opportunity employer, who enlisted the help of his wife, daughters, and son on the ranch wherever needed.

Leroy was a kind, quiet man with a great sense of humor that his family was fortunate to experience on a daily basis. He loved his family, working the ranch, and the Squaw Gap community. He especially enjoyed visiting and having a drink with neighbors and friends in the bunkhouse at the ranch.

Leroy peacefully passed away on Jan. 17, 2024, at the Sidney Health Center, Sidney, MT, with family by his side.

He is survived by his wife, Virginia; his children: Kathy (Gary) Skarda, Keene, ND; Susie (John) Irwin, Alexander, ND; Nancy (Leif) Jellesed, Charlson, ND; and Ken (Karen) Leland, Sidney, MT; his grandchildren: Courtney (Luke) Taylor, Watford City, ND; Kyle Jellesed, Minot, ND; Ty (Sarah) Skarda, Keene, ND; Katie (Kellen) Longie, Keene, ND; Brett Skarda, Bismarck, ND; Myre (Nick) Cross, Glendive, MT; Sam (Robbyn) Irwin Alexander, ND; Marni (James) Oliver of Savage, MT; and Rory (Mandy) Irwin of Edgemont, SD; six great-grandchildren with two more on the way: brothers Myron (Ardehl) Leland, Squaw Gap, ND; Gary (Georgia) Leland, Havre, MT; and Joe Leland, Sidney, MT; sister-inlaw: Jeanie Leland, Sidney, MT; and numerous nieces and

Althoff Enters Race for ND State House District 2

Submitted, Alexa Althoff, Fortuna, ND

If we know one thing in District 2, it's the meaning of hard work. Cold days, late nights, long hours, the value of a dollar .

My life's work has been in journalism and media. This career path meant telling the truth, giving a voice to those who were unheard, researching complex issues, and keeping our elected officials in check. We are now at an important crossroads in North Dakota. So many are disheartened with the establishment and seeking a better future. We are all frustrated but resolute, seeking change but holding fast to our values and traditions.

So, let's get to work and go to Bismarck.

I'm not going for myself. I hope to go on behalf of the farmer who is suffering under the heavy burden of taxes and inflation. I seek to represent the small business owner on Main Street who is struggling, and every family wondering why their community or bank account seems to be slowly eroding away.

I would like to represent you more effectively by using my experience in technology to host regular town halls digitally, give updates from sessions, and have real in-person conversations- in addition to voting in ways that truly reflect our values

North Dakota has always been a promised land for those seeking freedom, prosperity, and an honest life earned through hard work. I choose to honor our way of life by being an unapologetic voice for our communities, a phone call away for concerns, and steadfastly opposed to the mire of crony politics. Your vote and support will be sincerely appreciated and if elected, i will humbly and effectively serve our district.

Sunrise Pregnancy Resources & Family Outreach To Hold 1st Ever Puzzle Palooza Fundraiser And Medical Benefit Sat., Feb. 17

By Jaymi Mozeak

Sunrise Pregnancy Resources and Family, Sidney, will be holding their first ever Puzzle Palooza Event at Limitless Church, 414 E. Main St. (formally Assembly of God Church), Feb. 17, at 10 a.m. The event is a fundraiser for Sunrise Clinic as well as a medical benefit for Anakin Milligan, a one-year-old boy who has been diagnosed with Menkes disease.

The Puzzle Palooza Event will be held in the Fireside Room at Limitless Church. Each team will be given identical 1,000-piece puzzles to put together as fast as they can. The event has the availability for up to 20 teams. Prizes will be awarded to the top finishers. Prizes were donated from Frontier Heating and Refrigeration, Mucho Si, Powder Keg, Reynolds, Pizza Hut, Margie's Car Wash, Coffee Stop, The Rush, just to name a few. Childcare will be provided for participants by the Sidney High School basketball girls. Lunch will be provided to all avid puzzlers and their children.

According to the National Institute of Neurological Disorders, Menkes disease is caused by mutations in the ATP7A gene that regulates the metabolism of copper in the body. Infants with Menkes may be born prematurely but appear healthy at birth.

Anakin receives medical care primarily in Billings. He requires extensive travel to Utah because of his seizures and Ohio for specialized copper treatments.

Anakin's mother, Melissa, said, "I'd say he's spent about a quarter of his life in the hospital. The copper treatments have really saved his life. Without them I don't think he'd still be with us."

Teams may register online at eventcreate. com/e/puzzlepalooza, by scanning the QR code on event flyers, or by calling 406-433-7772. The cost is $100 for each team of up to four puzzlers. Sunrise Pregnancy Resources and Family Outreach is collecting puzzles, new or used, to be sold at the event. Donated puzzles can be brought to Sunrise Clinic during regular business hours Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Clinic Director Stacy McNally, nurse Alyssa Kuylen, staff Karen Sivertson, and volunteer Laurel Masterson all cannot wait to see the puzzle lovers of Sidney at the 1st ever Puzzle Palooza fundraiser and medical benefit.

Including Sulfur In Soil Fertility Programs Can Benefit Crops

Submitted by MSU News Service

Bozeman — Sulfur's role as an agricultural nutrient is often overlooked, but including it in soil fertility programs can positively impact crop yield, quality and economics, according to a Montana State University Extension specialist.

Clain Jones, MSU Extension soil fertility specialist and professor in the Department of Land Resources and Environmental Sciences, said that modern phosphorus and potassium fertilizers contain less sulfur as a manufacturing byproduct than they historically did. Coupled with higher-yielding varieties and more intense cropping, leading to more sulfur being removed from fields, there is an increased chance for sulfur deficiencies. "Sulfur-deficient plants are often stunted with yellow upper leaves, in contrast to yellow lower leaves, which indicate nitrogen deficiency," Jones said.

"Crops can respond to sulfur additions in a manner similar to nitrogen," he continued, "Sulfur, like nitrogen, is a building block for proteins. If sulfur is deficient, crops may not use nitrogen fertilizer as efficiently, resulting in less than optimum grain protein and yield. By applying sulfur and increasing the efficiency of nitrogen use, farmers can also decrease nitrate leaching and soil acidification - and possibly lower the amount of nitrogen needed."

Testing:

Jones said there is no single recommended sulfur soil test as there is with nitrate. That's partly because soil sulfur availability is often highly variable across a field. Coarse-textured soils with low organic matter are the most susceptible to sulfur deficiencies. He noted that when six to 10 soil samples from across a field are mixed for laboratory analysis, which is the standard in Montana, one or two high-sulfur samples could skew the results and suggest the field doesn't need sulfur when most of it is deficient.

"Although more expensive in the short term, it can be highly beneficial to learn which parts of a field have low sulfur through 'grid sampling' instead of mixed samples," Jones said.

Jones recommends learning what sulfur test a laboratory uses. He said numerous soil tests are available, and each can produce very different results.

"For example, the Mehlich-3 test, which is used in midwestern and eastern states, greatly overestimates sulfur availability in higher-pH Montana soils," Jones said. "Calcium phosphate extraction tests are recommended for western soils, but other extracts might do an adequate job of assessing available sulfur, too."

In addition, Jones recommends testing sulfur fertilizer in strips within fields and conducting plant tissue sampling to learn if crops have sulfur deficiencies. Plant tissue testing should be done early in the season so that a "rescue" sulfur treatment can be applied to nitrogen-deficient areas.

rogen-deficient are Fertilization:

Because sulfur is needed early in the growing season, it should be applied at seeding, either in the furrow or side-banded. Side banding avoids the risk of fertilizer damage to the seedling when high rates are placed in-furrow, he said. Sulfate is mobile and can also be applied as a surface broadcast application if ammonium sulfate is used.

Gypsum is less acidifying than ammonium sulfate, so Jones recommends using it on acidic soils, even though it's somewhat less soluble. Elemental sulfur, on the other hand, becomes available too slowly for in-season use and needs to be applied a year or two before it is needed. Fall applications of sulfate are not recommended because sulfur, like nitrogen, can be leached easily by fall-to-spring precipitation.

spring precipitation.

"Unlike other major nutrients, there's limited guidance for sulfur fertilization rate requirements of Montana crops. Oilseeds, including canola and yellow mustard, need far more sulfur than cereals like wheat and barley," Jones said. and noted that in high-yielding oilseed fields, 20 lbs. of sulfur fertilizer per acre should prevent sulfur deficiency, regardless of soil test results.

Alfalfa is also a large user of sulfur, needing about 22 lbs. of sulfur per acre for a 4-ton per acre yield. Cereals and pulse crops, like lentils, chickpeas, and peas, likely need only 5-10 lbs. of sulfur fertilizer per acre, with the higher amount needed on fields with high yield potential.

Research:

A recently accepted research paper by Perry Miller, MSU Department of Land Resources and Environmental Sciences professor, to be published in the Agronomy Journal, found that only five lbs. of added sulfur per acre increased lentil grain yield in 20% of sites in Montana and North Dakota. "Due to the low cost of sulfur fertilizer, the average increased grain yield easily offset the sulfur fertilizer cost, even when accounting for sites where lentil grain yields did not increase," Jones said.

Jones is currently conducting research funded by the Montana Fertilizer Check-off with colleagues Miller, Pat Carr, and Justin Vetch with the MSU Department of Research Centers to determine the sulfur needs of spring canola, pea, and wheat, and to evaluate different sulfur soil tests, following previous MSU studies on the effects of sulfur on lentil crops. In addition, there is ongoing Montana sulfur studies on winter canola led by Miller and on cereal forages led by Hayes Goosey, MSU Department of Animal and Range Sciences.

Goosey noted that adequate sulfur levels can decrease forage nitrate levels in cereal forages.

"Forage nitrate is a concern for livestock owners because it causes early-term abortions and other reproductive issues in pregnant animals," Goosey said.

Questions about sulfur or soil nutrients may be directed to Jones at clainj@ montana.edu or 406-994-6076.

City of Williston Allocates $70,000 To 39 Community Enhancement Projects

Submitted by Barb Peterson, City of Williston

The Williston City Commission has approved a recommendation by the Williston STAR Fund Advisory Board to increase its annual Community Enhancement (CE) allocation from $50,000 to $70,000 in 2024. The approval was made during the commission meeting on Tuesday, Jan.23. The request was made due to an influx of CE applications this year.

The Williston STAR Fund Advisory Board reviewed and scored a record 53 CE applications on Tuesday, Jan. 16. The request for funds totaled $279,200. The board approved funding in the amount of $70,000 for 39 projects.

The CE program is an important part of the Williston STAR Fund. The program helps fund nonprofit groups and projects that improve the quality of life in the Williston trade region. Williston Mayor Howard Klug said the 2024 projects included some key mental health programs.

"We had a record number of applicants. Good applicants," said Klug. "One of the things we noticed this year was the number of projects geared to providing mental health services and we wanted these organizations to become established and sustainable so they can do some good in our community."

One of those programs was the ConnectUs Foundation's "Not Today" project. The youth suicide prevention event received $5,000.

According to the ConnectUs Foundation application, the "Not Today" event has been held for the past five years. The event aims to raise awareness and provide protective information to help support youth suicide prevention during Suicide Prevention Awareness Month. The event is held every September at Williston High School for students and anyone else who wants to participate.

The 2024 CE applications were far-reaching, including athletic programs, health care initiatives, tourism projects, and more. Projects were funded across the region, including in Ray, Watford City, and Crosby.

City of Williston Administrator, Shawn Wenko, said the program helps improve the quality of life in the area.

The Community Enhancement program is a way for the City of Williston to support quality of life projects throughout the region," Wenko said. "For the regional applicants that applied and were approved. It is our way of saying thank you for your support and for shopping in Williston and contributing to the STAR
