

National Guard Helps SHC Combat COVID-19

By Anna Dragseth

The Montana National Guard started helping the Sidney Health Center (SHC) combat COVID-19 on Saturday, Oct. 2. Montana Governor Greg Gianforte sent out four Montana National Guardsmen to assist the Environmental Services Department at Extended Care and the Hospital.

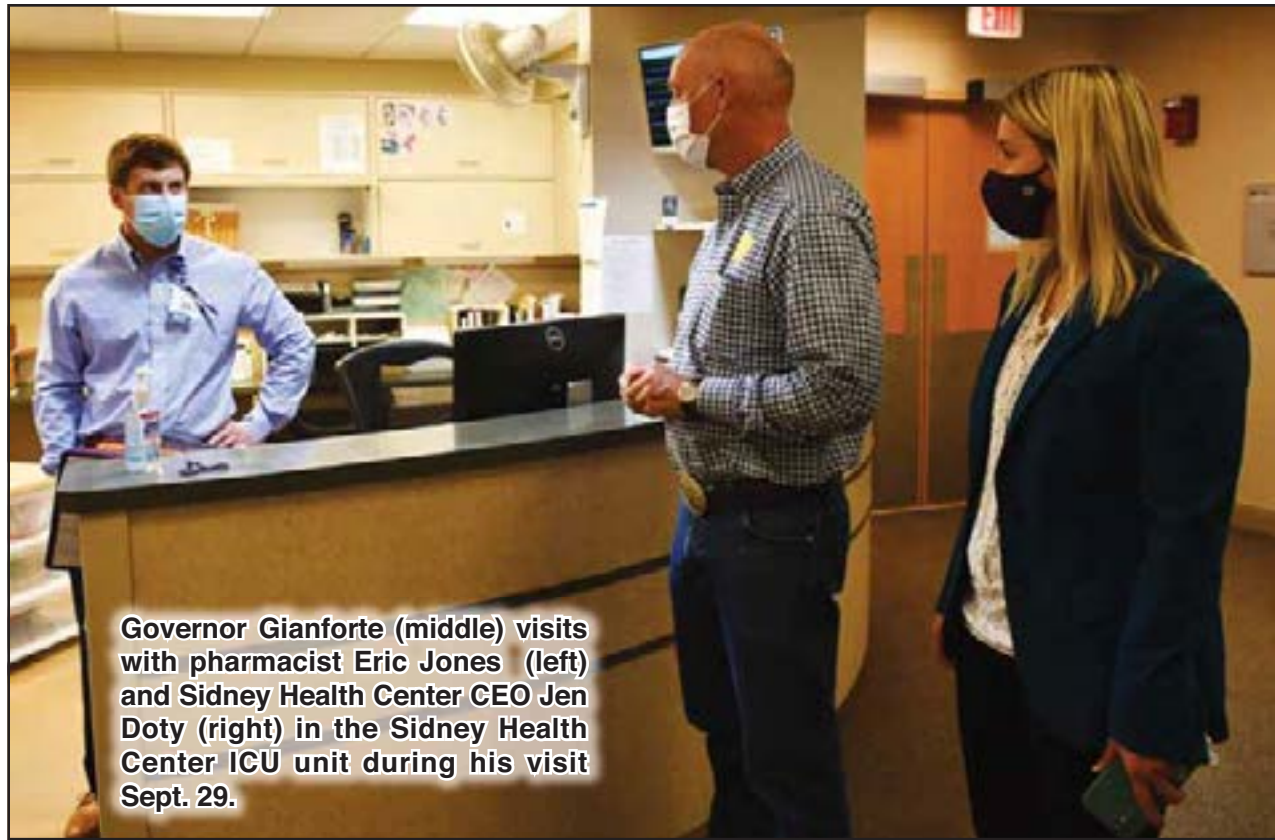

During September, SHC has experienced a rapid increase in COVID-19 related cases, ranging from three to seven COVID-19 inpatients daily.

"As a result, our hospital census has averaged 18 inpatients per day, which is running at or near capacity for Med/Surg and ICU areas," noted Pam McGlothlin, SHC Nursing Services Senior Executive.

SHC is a critical access hospital, which means we are licensed for 25 inpatients (Med/Surg – 16 beds, ICU – 3 beds, and Maternity – 6 beds). When the census runs near capacity, SHC must evaluate what services they can continue to offer such as elective inpatient surgeries.

SHC needed the guardsmen not only because of the rising cases of COVID-19, but also because the Environmental Services department has been running short-staffed due to sick leave, family obligations, and unfilled open positions.

With the help of the National Guard, SHC has additional resources that allow the Center to continue to provide a clean, safe environment for patients, residents, and staff. Their assistance supports the clinical staff by cleaning areas so that patient flow continues in the clinic, ER, and hospital settings.

Cleanliness of the environment is one the components of the national hospital inpatient survey that is measured by CMS (Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services) regarding quality and perception of patient care.

"A clean, safe environment mitigates the spread of infectious disease and keeps patients, residents and staff healthy," added McGlothlin.

The governor's office will continue to provide resources to hospitals to help them secure necessary staffing and collaborate with hospitals to help address certain needs.

Sidney Health Center expressed that they are thankful that the state is deploying the National Guard to help assist healthcare workers as COVID-19 cases continue to rise and impact access to medical care in rural areas.

Gianforte fielded questions regarding APRA funds, drought management, vaccine mandates and law enforcement issues. Look for more reporting on these issues in future editions of The Roundup.

Over the Moon Gala Launches Saturday, Culbertson

By Jaimee Green

The Roosevelt Memorial Healthcare Foundation is a go-for-launch for this year's version of the annual Fall Fest fundraiser. The Over the Moon Gala will take place on Oct. 9, at Dry Prairie Rural Water Authority, Culbertson.

This year's theme is Over the Moon and it is going to be out of this world, literally! That's because attendees will embark on a flight destined for the lunar surface to enjoy an evening among the stars.

The doors will open at 5:30 p.m. and dinner will begin at 6:15 p.m.

The futuristic fundraiser will include hors d'oeuvres, smoked brisket, ribs and chicken with all the trimmings and the chance to win $1,000.

Other prizes include a Yogo Sapphire and diamond necklace, Traeger grill, artwork, gift cards, and tickets to area entertainment while taking part in raffles, and both a silent and live auction.

The evening will conclude with a Meteor Shower Raffle with glowing raffle tickets dropping from an aircraft flying overhead.

This year's entertainment will include local community members such as Darcia Larsen, Ashlee Anderson, Elizabeth Hendrickson and Roosevelt Medical Center's very own Lunar Ladies and Moon Men.

The Foundation will also announce its' Spirit of Philanthropy Award recipients with a special presentation.

Tickets cost $50 and are available at the door. They can also be purchased at First Community Bank, the Wild West Diner and in the lobby at RMC.

Earthlings are welcomed and encouraged to dress formally but to include accessories like alien masks, glasses, or wigs, to name a few that represent their home planets and star systems. Of course, casual attire is perfectly acceptable too!

The Foundation will be raising money to support Roosevelt Medical Center, Culbertson, by replacing long-outdated commercial kitchen appliances. At the top of the needs list are a new stovetop, convection oven and steamer.

For tickets, call Jaimee Green at 406-787-6476, or email jgreen@roomsmem.org.

McKenzie County Breaks Ground On Its New Ag Expo

By Anna Dragseth

On Wednesday, Sept. 29 McKenzie County community members gathered at the new fairgrounds construction site to celebrate the new Ag Expo.

The event featured remarks from building committee members Tim Jorgenson, Howdy Lawlar, and Chris Kubal - all of whom were instrumental in getting this project off the ground.

The celebration was designed to showcase the 2+ years of hard work by the building committee, design and construction team, the McKenzie County Fair Board, and McKenzie County to move forward in the process of making this building a reality.

"We were very excited to have the opportunity to talk more about the project and to thank the people who have played a large role in making the project happen," said Emily Huso, ICON Architects Marketing Coordinator.

This new building will be a big improvement from the previous fairground location and buildings. Huso added, "The current fairgrounds is undersized, dated, and does not accommodate the growth of McKenzie County."

The new location will have 212 acres of land and a 112,000 square foot building that will provide more space and accessibility for fairgoers and events.

It will include an exhibition hall for various recreational and social events such as trade shows and conferences, as well as private events such as weddings or corporate events. The livestock pavilion will hold shows, cattle ties, sheep and hog pens, and up to 200 horse stalls. An outdoor arena will be onsite and available to host rodeo shows as well as expanded equestrian and roping events throughout the year.

The all-season building will accommodate students and other user groups such as 4-H, FFA, Rodeo Association and their events, shows, educational activities, among other opportunities.

Huso said, "The building will provide the next generation an agriculture-focused space of their own; an investment in the future of agriculture in the McKenzie County region."

The project is expected to be completed by the spring of 2023.

Environmental Impact Statement Completed For Fort Peck Dam

Review period will end on Oct. 25. Flows may drastically impact local irrigators.

Fort Peck, MT - The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Omaha District has publicly made available the final Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for test releases from Fort Peck Dam, MT. The purpose of the EIS is to assess the capacity of test flows from the Fort Peck Dam to promote the growth and survival of the pallid sturgeon, a fish species listed as endangered under the Endangered Species Act of 1973. The EIS describes the formulation of alternative plans, presents analyses of predicted benefits and environmental impacts; identifies a preferred alternative, discusses uncertainties, and considerations for implementation. The draft EIS was released in March 2021 and included a 60-day public comment period that ended on May 25, 2021. During that time, USACE received approximately 360 comments through virtual public meetings and written correspondence. Comments were received from members of the public, businesses, non-governmental organizations, federal, state, and local governments, as well as from tribal governments. All comments were considered in preparation of the final EIS.

The final EIS has been filed with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), who will have posted the Notice of Availability in the Federal Register on Sept. 24. The review period will end on Oct. 25. The final EIS report and appendices can be viewed online at: <https://go.usa.gov/xMRu9>. The release of the final EIS does not constitute a decision. Thirty days following the EPA's Federal Register notice of the EIS filing, USACE may issue a Record of Decision to select an alternative for implementation and other commitments. For more information contact Omaha District Public Affairs, 402-995-2417. A copy of the final EIS report will be available with the posting of this story on www.roundupweb.com along with the Richland County Commissioners public comment letter.

Community Christmas Choir Sidney Looking for Singers

Submitted by Peggy Ann Strupp
The Community Choir needs your voices! The greater Sidney Area Annual Christmas Concert is coming up in December, and the Choir would like to encourage all interested singers over the age of 16 to join the choir. Practices for the choir began 3 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 10, at Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Sidney. The choir is volunteer, non-denominational, and previous experience is not required.

The choir will practice every Sunday from Oct. 10-Nov. 28. A dress rehearsal will be held Dec. 4 and the performance will be on Dec. 5 at Sidney Middle School. Each practice lasts about an hour and a half. Sheet music is provided, and those interested are encouraged to attend whenever they can. Choir music is chosen and conducted by talented local musicians. This year the directors include Tyler Harris, Froid; Lana Hekkel, Sidney; and Nathan Louisigau, Savage. Accompanists include Katherine Bidegaray and Synneva Meldahl. The concert has become a local tradition, with 30-40 performers sharing their musical talents to ring in the season, share talents, and support the local food bank. Please come and join with us to celebrate the birth of Christ and share live music with our community! We hope to see you this Sunday, Oct. 10, 3 p.m.

Happy Pumpkin Season

Submitted by
Sara Berndt

When asked what one food item reminds you of fall, what would you say? It's easy to imagine the vast majority of folks would say pumpkin, pumpkin spice, or some other variation of this fall favorite. Besides being just a symbol of the season, pumpkins also are a nutrient-dense, low-calorie food.

Pumpkin has about 50 calories, 1.8 grams of protein, 12 grams of carbohydrates, and 2.7 grams of dietary fiber according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Pumpkins are also full of vitamins and minerals like beta carotene. Beta carotene is what gives a pumpkin its vibrant orange color. Our bodies convert beta carotene into vitamin A and eating foods with high volumes of beta carotene supports immune health, vision, and cell growth, according to the National Institutes of Health.

Because pumpkin is so nutrient-rich, there is a wide array of health benefits we can take advantage of by consuming pumpkin. From reducing the risk of developing certain types of cancer, offering protection against asthma and heart disease, decreasing the risk of age-related macular degeneration, to combating fertility issues, pumpkin offers many health benefits to its consumer.

So, how do you choose that perfect pumpkin? Depends on what you plan on doing with it. The big, orange ones are the best choice for carving, but you're not going to want to eat those. For eating, look for smaller, sweeter pumpkins labeled "sugar" or "pie". When choosing the right pumpkin, avoid ones with dried-out stems, blemishes, bruises, or soft spots. An alternative to fresh pumpkin would be canned pumpkin puree from the grocery store. Pure pumpkin puree will offer the health benefits of pumpkin, but be careful to avoid pumpkin pie filling, as these are not the same thing and pie filling contains added sugar, which negates any health benefit you may be looking to attain.

Now that you found the perfect eating pumpkin, how are you going to prepare it? Pumpkin flesh and seeds are edible. Generally, treat the pumpkin like you would any other fall squash. Consider roasting it on parchment paper at 350° for about 45 minutes. First cut the pumpkin in half, remove the seeds, and top with a small amount of oil and salt before placing it flesh side down in the oven. Recipes can also call for pumpkin puree. Puree is a versatile and creative way to incorporate pumpkin into different dishes, from oatmeal to pancakes to chili or muffins, the possibilities are endless. Make your own puree by first roasting the pumpkin and pureeing it in the blender.

Pumpkins are everywhere in the fall, and they make a nutritious addition to your meals, too. Enjoy it roasted or pureed and added into stews and baked goods. Happy Pumpkin Season!

Five Man Vocal Ensemble Veritas To Perform In Watford City Oct. 16

Submitted by Jessie Veeder Scofield

The Long X Arts Foundation's Watford City Area Concert Association continues the 2021-22 concert series with a Five-man classical crossover vocal ensemble, Veritas. Composed of 3 tenors, 1 baritone, 1 bass, the group is becoming well known on the gospel circuit, but returning to backgrounds from opera, pop, rock and Broadway.

In 2012, when tenors Jeff Anderson, Andrew Goodwin and Jordan Johnson, baritone James Berrian, and bass Scott Lawrence came together as Veritas, their backgrounds, encompassing opera, musical theater, rock, and other genres, melded into a sound that's uniquely passionate, virtuosic, and powerfully communicative. They've inspired countless standing ovations, in theaters, multiple performances at Carnegie Hall, arena concerts, cruise ships, even in churches and prisons.

With seven past releases, spanning Broadway hits, classical repertoire, re-imagined pop favorites, and sacred standards, Veritas offers highly artistic arrangements sure to capture the hearts of every listener.

All this has been prelude to their upcoming album "A Time Together." Featuring 11 timeless chart-toppers which not only resonate with the artists themselves, but also take listeners on a journey through time, to places they may remember or have forgotten, or never visited before.

Veritas produces a wall of sound using marvelous voices and backing tracks along with a cappella renditions of songs including Stardust, I Got Rhythm, Bridge Over Troubled Water, American Anthology and more.

Veritas is the third concert of the 2021-22 Season. A $50 individual membership to the Concert Association will grant you access to three additional concerts throughout the season, including Duo Baldo, Feb. 1, 2022; The Chipper Experience Comedy Show, Feb. 16, 2022 and Crocodile Rockin', An Elton John Tribute, April 23, 2022. Individual concert tickets to Veritas are $35 for adults, $15 for students and 5 and under are free. Visit longxarts.com to learn more about the concert series. Memberships will also be available at the Veritas Concert.

Virtual Open Houses Scheduled To Discuss Potential Changes To Hunting Regulations

By Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks
FWP regional staff will hold virtual meetings across the state to discuss potential hunting regulation changes for 2022 and 2023.

These meetings will be held via Zoom and allow the public to hear directly from FWP staff and ask questions about the proposed changes.

The potential hunting regulation changes are available online for the public to review. The potential changes are coming now during the normal biennial season setting year to help make Montana's hunting regulations simpler and easier to understand.

Over the last several weeks, FWP biologists have worked on these potential changes with a sharp focus on the science behind the regulations. The potential changes focus primarily on deer and elk regulations; some regions have included regulations for other species as well. The potential changes include a reduction in the number of hunting districts (i.e., making them larger) and simplification of license structures.

To see the potential changes and make comment, visit <https://fwp.mt.gov/aboutfwp/public-comment-opportunities/hunting-reg-changes>.

Public comment will be taken through Oct. 20. Virtual open houses are scheduled as follows and will run from 6-8 p.m. with the exception noted below:

Region 1: Oct. 14
Region 2: Oct. 5
Region 3: Oct. 13
Region 4: Oct. 7
Region 5: Oct. 6
Region 6: Oct. 12 (5:30-7 p.m.)

Region 7: Oct. 12 (7:30-9 p.m.)

Zoom sign-in information will be posted on the FWP website closer to the meeting date.

After Oct. 20, FWP biologists and other staff will sort through the public feedback collected and develop proposals for all game species for the Fish and Wildlife Commission meeting on Dec. 14. Following this meeting, a second 30-day public comment opportunity will begin on the commission-approved proposals for the 2022 and 2023 seasons. This public comment period will also include regional FWP Citizen Advisory Council meetings.

The commission will adopt final hunting regulations at their meeting in early February.

Drought Hinders Harvest For Area Farmers

By Anna Dragseth

This year in McKenzie County harvest was "a little tough" for producers. One of the driest years to date in 127 years with soil moisture low and poor crop conditions.

"Several crops were turned into forage for livestock because there was not enough of the crop to make any kind of desirable yield. Seed heads only filled part way before curing off and most small grain crops — aside from corn — had very low yields. Wheat was around the 5-to-15-bushel rate. That's highly variable, but that's the truth," said Devan Leo, McKenzie County Agricultural and Natural Resource Agent.

Many of the crops that were turned into forage for livestock were tested through NDSU Vet Diagnostic lab to ensure the nitrate levels were lower in the forages. Leo explained that many tested "ok." "Most crop fields have a test strip left in them for insurance claims. Soybeans are not insured at this time and the dryland crops were in pretty tough shape."

The drought this year has been exceptionally hard on farmers in the area. It has been devastating across the board, with not enough moisture to sustain crops to create a desirable crop yield. Leo said that insurance is going to play a pivotal role in success or failure for many crop farmers this year.

She suggests crop rotation in crop fields; greater diversity in crop rotations can boost crop production over time, despite conditions of drought or excess moisture.

In addition to this she cautions producers that are shipping in hay from other states or different parts of North Dakota need to be cautious about where the feed source is coming from.

Leo said, "We may temporarily fix our feed shortage, but in turn, cause a permanent debilitating weed problem on our property. Palmer amaranth and water hemp are two that I can think of that may make it onto our properties here in a bale of forage. Please be diligent and cautious when shipping in feedstuffs."

Golfers Compete at State Tournament In Polson

As the 2021 Class A golf season came to a close on Saturday, Oct. 2, at the 2nd round of the State A tournament, Polson. Karly Volk earned a top 10 finish with 7th place and a 4th All State Honor. Senior Karly Volk capped off a great golf career for the Eagles with a final round 85. On the boys side the Eagles Senior Tate Hazen battled back with a final round 90 and junior Logan Schumacker shot a 91. The Lady Eagles also had Junior Emilee Iversen and Freshman Mercedes Lamb improve from the first day shooting a 106 and a 117 to finish off the season.

Ribbon Cutting & Grand Reopening Of Sidney-Richland County Library Oct. 25

By Anna Dragseth

The Sidney-Richland County Library will be celebrating its newly renovated space with a ribbon cutting on Wednesday, Oct. 20 at 2:45 p.m., followed by an open house from 3-6 p.m.

The open house gives the public a chance to see the space and visit with library staff about current programs and services.

"We love our library, and we are proud of the space we have," said SRCL Director Kelly Reisig.

The library went through renovations on the outside, downstairs, the main area, and the inside upper level. A new parking area was created behind the library along with new landscaping and pavement.

The downstairs is an entirely renovated area that added over 5,000 square feet to the library space. It includes a new children's area for story time and books, a new library-dedicated small program/class space, and a new office for the Learning Volunteers for Adults Program (LVA).

The main area of the library includes new restrooms, new circulation area, new computer stations, and additional seating areas. The upper level now has a new Montana History Room, teen area, and shelves for large type, adult fiction, and nonfiction materials.

Reisig explained that the biggest catalyst for the improvements was the absolute need for space in every area of the library.

She said, "Our maintenance person had no storage or floor drains for cleaning. Although we had a basement, it needed improvement and had no access for those that were unable to use stairs. The demand for the library's collection continues to be high and our ability to fulfill that need was greatly diminished because of our limited capacity to add to the collection. Finally, we also needed space for programs. Our weekly story time, for example, was held upstairs. In order to prepare we had to move all of the tables, push library shelving out of the way (which meant that during the program parts of the collection were not accessible). Even with those changes, we would find that the space could not accommodate the number of children and families in attendance."

She is most excited about the accomplishment of making the renovation possible. "A public library is a result of the dedication of the community, the Library Board of Trustees, and the staff. As a city-county library we also are fortunate to enjoy the support from both the City of Sidney and Richland County Commissioners. Most libraries have capital improvements as a result of a bond referendum that, if passed by the voters, ultimately increases the taxes in a community. We didn't have to do that because Richland County Commissioners believed in the library and wanted to make those improvements without passing on that tax burden to the taxpayer. It's rare, often overlooked, and is a great example of what makes living in this county so special."

The library has partnerships throughout the community to enhance services and education. This new space enhances its collection, programs, and services in a myriad of ways that will make Richland County a better place.
