Severson Charged With Deliberate Homicide

By Jody Wells

On July 3 Kyle Lee Severson, 19, Sidney, was charged with deliberate homicide in the shooting death of Tyler Anthony Hayden, 20, Sidney.

Severson made an initial appearance in Sidney City Court before Judge Luke Savage on July 3. Severson requested a public defender as his defense counsel. Bail was set at $2,000,000. A preliminary examination has been scheduled for July 10 at 3 p.m. Severson's next court appearance is scheduled for July 22 at 8:30 a.m.

If convicted Severson faces a maximum sentence of death or 100 years in prison. The minimum sentence is 10 years in prison.

According to a statement released by authorities, Sidney police responded to a report of a shooting on the night of July 2 to the Loaf-N-Jug convenience store at 706 S. Central Ave., Sidney. Upon arrival the officers located an unresponsive Tyler Anthony Hayden who appeared to be the victim of a gunshot wound. Richland County EMS assessed the victim and determined that he was deceased. Severson turned himself in to police following the incident.

According to court documents, Severson waved his right to an attorney and provided a statement to police. Severson stated to police there was an interaction between the victim and Severson's girlfriend, Karina Orozco inside Loaf-N-Jug. Orozco, Severson and his young daughter were driving away from the convenience store when the victim approached the vehicle. Orozco was driving and stopped the vehicle, then Severson shot Hayden.

Severson also stated that he had begun carrying a gun for protection after Hayden allegedly assaulted him in April 2018.

The matter remains under investigation by the Sidney Police Department with the assistance of the Richland County Sheriff's Office.

Kyle Lee Severson enters Sidney City Court for his felony initial appearance before Judge Luke Savage on July 3. Severson will have a preliminary examination on July 10 and his next appearance is scheduled for July 22.

Culbertson Woman To Be Part Of Sunrise Festival Of The Arts

Holly Nickoloff with one of her crafted wagon wheels.

By Bill Vander Weele,
Sidney Chamber

Artist Holly Nickoloff knows the Sunrise Festival of the Arts in Sidney is a special time for vendors and area residents alike.

After all, the owner of True North Crafts by Holly in Culbertson grew up in Sidney. July 13 will mark the second time that Nickoloff is a vendor during the annual event held at Veterans Memorial Park.

"It was probably one of my best shows," Nickoloff said of her time at the Sunrise Festival in 2017. "The Arts in the Park was something I always looked forward to growing up."

She added that most of her sales currently come through Facebook or Etsy.

"I started out mainly hand painting Mason jars," Nickoloff said.

Her items now include sola wood floral arrangements, wreaths and dream catchers.

"The wood flowers have become very popular on my Facebook," Nickoloff said.

She explains she receives her greatest inspiration from Pinterest. Her work started to increase when she decided to become a stay-at-home mom a couple of years ago.

"That's when I decided I wanted to do a craft," Nickoloff said.

Her favorite pieces include a wagon wheel wreath and a bubble bee Mason jar.

"I just try to come up with my own designs," Nickoloff said. "I try to do something that hasn't been seen before."

She is excited to come to the Sunrise Festival of Arts at Veterans Memorial Park on Saturday, July 13.

"I enjoy making crafts. This was the one show that I wanted to make sure that I do," Nickoloff said. "I look forward to seeing other vendors and their unique items."

Buy Your Sunrise Festival Button And Take Advantage Of Savings

By Bill Vander Weele, Sidney Chamber

The small cost of buying a button for the Sunrise Festival of the Arts this year can easily be made back by taking advantage of the various sale offerings available in Sidney on Saturday, July 13.

Buttons for the Sunrise Festival of the Arts are $4 in advance or $5 the day of the event. Buttons are available at the Sidney Chamber, Stockman Bank, Richland Federal Credit Union and Yellowstone Bank. The event is 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on July 13 at Veterans Memorial Park.

When people purchase a ticket, they receive a coupon with a list of sales that will occur in Sidney on July 13. You are only eligible for the sales if we wear your Sunrise Festival of the Arts button into the place of business.

The list of 25 participating businesses include a good variety of stores from groceries to clothing to giftware stores to restaurants.

Women's clothing stops are especially well represented since J'z Fashion Threadz, Meraki Boutique, Peifer's General Store, Sidney Mercantile, The Merge and Thee Beautique are each offering outstanding sales throughout the day.

The Sunrise Festival of the Arts will feature more than 35 vendors, food booths and a full load of entertainment.

July 13 will be a busy day in Sidney as the Classic Wheels Car Show will take place starting at noon at Moose Park and the annual Sherry and Janae's Softball Tournament is scheduled at Meadow Park. That night, the softball tournament will hold a dance at the fairgrounds.

Starting at 5 p.m., there will be a Back Yard BBQ Community Event featuring live music, drinks, food and yard games. Coordinating the event are Meadowlark Brewery, Meadowlark Public House, Mucho Si, Ranger Lounge and Sidney Mercantile. The fun will take place in the back parking lot behind the Meadowlark.

Puppet Show To Be Held July 12, Sidney

Dragons Are Too Seldom Puppet Productions Performing at the Library

The Sidney-Richland County Library invites children and their families to the puppet show, "The Dragon Who Fell to Earth," on July 12 at 10:30 a.m. The show features Dragons Are Too Seldom Puppets of Spearfish, South Dakota.

"The Dragon Who Fell to Earth" is an adventure for the whole family! The planet of Drago Minor is too crowded. Dragons have lived on this planet which is perfectly suited to their needs for centuries and centuries. But now it is too crowded. Space traveling dragons must be sent to explore other options. A few brave dragons must be sent to find a new planet. Each will take an egg so that a new colony of dragons can begin. Daisy Dragon happens to be sent to Earth. When her spaceship attempts to enter Earth's atmosphere it cracks into a million pieces. Daisy lands, head over tea cups, in a forest far away from humans. The egg lands nearby. This would not have been a problem except Daisy gets hit on the head and she loses her memory, both of her mission and of the egg. She finds a home with the animals but they do not know she is a dragon. Daisy must recover her memory. Then with the help of her new friends, she must recover the egg before it hatches. (Spoiler Alert! A witch has captured it and has evil designs on it!).

Dragons Are Too Seldom Puppet Productions with master puppeteer, Marie Scholz, has been touring the United States performing for close to fifty years. Marie's fast-paced puppet shows are full of fun and whimsy. She and her puppets travel around 30,000 miles a year, performing for schools, libraries, festivals, special happenings and any other event that needs laughter and joy.

For information about "The Dragon Who Fell to Earth", please call the library at 433-1917.

Sunrise Festival Of The Arts Volunteers Needed

The Sidney Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture is looking for volunteer help during the Sunrise Festival of the Arts held at Veterans Memorial Park on Saturday, July 13.

Help is needed at the concession stand for shifts running from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 2-4:30 p.m.

People may also volunteer to be “runners” from 8 a.m. to noon, or noon to 4 p.m.

Additional help is needed during the morning set-up from 6-8 a.m., and the afternoon cleanup from 3:30-5:30 p.m.

If interested in helping the Chamber, call 433-1916 or email director@sidneymt.com.

Sherry, Janae Softball Tournament And Dance, July 13, Sidney

By Bill Vander Weele, Sidney Chamber

For the past several years, a softball tournament has been held in Sidney to honor two wonderful local women who passed away too soon – Sherry Arnold and Janae Moore.

The annual Sherry and Janae's Softball Tournament is scheduled for Saturday, July 13, at Meadow Field. But along with the softball action, everyone can enjoy a dance the night of the tournament.

“So many people felt they couldn’t play softball, but wanted to be involved with this,” organizer Tammy Pedersen said. “We wanted entertainment for everybody to enjoy.”

The dance, which runs from 8 p.m. to midnight, will take place in the Richland County Fair’s commercial building. Stone Yellow, a band from Sidney, will entertain the crowd.

The Richland County Baseball Program will offer its well-regarded fair menu items. Pizza House will handle the beer garden.

During the day, the softball tournament features players of all ages and both genders. Teams often include family members, adults and children. Door prizes are given out throughout the day.

Registration is $100 per team. To register, call Tammy Pedersen at 406-489-0451.

With proceeds from the event, the organization helps community projects throughout the year.

Classic Wheels Car Show, July 13, Sidney

By Bill Vander Weele, Sidney Chamber

An exciting new addition is being offered during Sunrise Festival of the Arts weekend in Sidney on July 13.

The Richland County Sportsmen’s Club is presenting the Classic Wheels Car Show at Moose Park on that same day. Moose Park is within a short walking distance of the Sunrise Festival of the Arts at Veterans Memorial Park.

“We felt it will help not only with the crowd coming to the car show but also with the Sunrise Festival,” said Larry Christensen of the Richland County Sportsmen’s Club.

Christensen said there seems to be a shortage of car shows currently in eastern Montana.

“People want to show their cars off,” Christensen said. “So, we decided to put on a show.”

He noted there’s a purpose why the event is being called Classic Wheels. “The reason we call it that is you can bring anything you want – cars, trucks, motorcycles, tractors,” Christensen said.

Registration is 9:30-11:30 a.m. Cost is $25 for the judged category and $5 just to show your vehicle. The show opens at noon and closes at 6 p.m. An awards presentation is scheduled for 4 p.m. For more information, call Christensen at 406-489-0589.

Honors will be given to the top three participants along with a People’s Choice award.

This is the third year of the Richland County Sportsmen’s Club. There are currently about 150 members. The organization’s main goal is to develop a shooting range in the area.

“We’re doing pretty well,” Christensen said of the club.

“Big Bay” by Jerry Cornelia

Jerry Cornelia was born and raised in eastern Montana. Primarily a self-taught artist, his work covers a variety of genres, from classical sculpture and figurative paintings to whimsical sculpture, paintings and functional art objects. This love of creation and no self imposed limits on his subject matter or the materials he uses has led to the development of a large and diverse body of work that ranges from art clocks, fantasy character sculptures, surreal paintings, realistic figurative paintings and sculptures, as well as witty quirky paintings (often accompanied by humorous titles) featuring a cast of characters from sheep and dogs, to his recurring red headed ladies.

PUMA SERIES TRACTORS READY FOR ANYTHING.

Puma® tractors provide the right size and power for a wide variety of livestock and mixed crop operations. Puma series tractors are available loader ready from the factory and are engineered to let you move loads with less effort. The loader-ready packages and optional CVXDrive technology maximize efficiency, versatility, and flexibility. You’ve got an agile, easy to operate tractor that can keep up with your demands while keeping you comfortable. Even when your workday extends long into the night. If you’re looking for big time power, performance and amenities in a mid-size tractor, look no further than a Case IH Puma. Give us a call or stop by for more details about Case IH Puma tractors.

Schedule of Events

8-8:30 p.m. – Refreshments

8:30-8:40 a.m. Welcome – Dr. Chengci Chen, MSU-EARC Superintendent

Tour Begins: 8:45-9 a.m. – Drs. Bill Franck and Fatemeh Etemadi: Improving pea protein content through Rhizobium inoculants, plant growth regulators, and variety selection

Dr. Bill Franck is a Research Scientist at MSU-EARC, who has a Ph.D. degree in microbiology and Dr. Fatemeh Etemadi is a Post-doctoral Research Associate, who has a Ph.D. degree in Agronomy. Drs. Franck and Etemadi will present their studies that are aiming at enhancing the pea protein concentrations through various agronomic practices, such as using different Rhizobium inoculants and application method, applying micronutrients and plant growth promotion regulators, as well as selecting superior pea varieties.

9-9:15 a.m. – Dr. Frankie Crutcher: Seed treatment and foliar application of fungicides for pea and chickpea disease management

Dr. Frankie Crutcher is a Plant Pathologist at MSU-EARC, who is studying disease management in pulse, cereal, and sugarbeet crops. At this stop, Dr. Crutcher will present information on fungicide seed treatment and foliar applications to control diseases in pea, lentil, and chickpea. Rotations of active ingredients to prevent the development of fungicide resistance and proper timings of applications will also be discussed.

9-9:30 a.m. – Drs. Fatemeh Etemadi and Chengci

Chen: Herbicide, fertility, and seeding date and rate studies for mung bean and adzuki bean

Dr. Chengci Chen is an Agronomist and Superintendent at MSU-EARC. Drs. Chen and Etemadi are currently evaluating mung bean and adzuki bean as potential new pulse crops in eastern Montana. At this stop, Dr. Chen and Etemadi will present the studies that evaluate different pre-emergence herbicides for weed control in mung bean and adzuki bean. They will also present the seeding date and rate, and fertility/inoculant studies to evaluate the fertility needs of these beans.

9:30-9:45 a.m. – Mr. Keith Horton: Specialty canola to produce high omega-3 oil for fish farming

Mr. Keith Horton is the Site Leader and Senior Trial Agronomist for Cargill Specialty Seed and Oils in Great Falls. Cargill has developed specialty canola hybrids that produce omega-3 fatty acids. Keith will present the potential of these canola hybrids in Montana and utilization of the omega-3 canola oil for fish farming. He will discuss the history of this project and how it can benefit growers in Montana while reducing pressures on wild fish populations.

9:45 a.m.-9:55 a.m. – Mr. Duane Peters, Update of sugarbeet production and Sidney Sugars

Mr. Duane Peters is the Agriculture Manager at Sidney Sugars. He will update the audience on current sugarbeet production and introduce new agriculturists with Sidney Sugars.

9:55-10:10 a.m. – Drs. Apurba Sutradhar and Chengci Chen: Fall- and Spring-nitrogen application and foliar application and seed treatment of micronutrients to improve sugarbeet yield and sugar content in no-till and conventional tilled sugarbeet.

Dr. Apurba Sutradhar is a Postdoctoral Research Associate at MSU-EARC, who has a Ph.D. degree in Soil Science (Soil Fertility). Drs. Sutradhar and Chen are currently studying nutrient management (including micronutrients) to improve sugarbeet yield and sucrose concentration. At this stop, Drs. Sutradhar and Chen will present a study that compares fall-applied to spring-applied nitrogen, as well as foliar application of micronutrients on sugarbeet grown under no-till and conventional tilled conditions. Weed control under no-till sugarbeet will also be discussed.

10:10-10:25 a.m. – Dr. Frankie Crutcher: Fungicide seed treatment and foliar application to control sugarbeet root diseases

Root and foliar diseases can severely affect sugarbeet root yield and quality. At this stop, Dr. Crutcher will present a study that uses various seed treatment and foliar fungicides to control Rhizoctonia root and crown rot. A demonstration will present examples of diseased sugarbeet and discuss when farmers should and should not apply foliar fungicides for disease control.

10:25-10:35 a.m. travel to east side of the farm

10:35-10:50 a.m. – Drs. Chengci Chen and Apurba Sutradhar: Industrial hemp as a potential crop for eastern Montana?

Industrial hemp has been approved by 2018 Farm Bill as an alternative crop, but there is little information on the suitable varieties and agronomic practices for growing this crop. Drs. Chen and Sutradhar are currently testing industrial hemp varieties. At this stop, they will discuss with growers on potential hemp varieties for eastern Montana, and agronomic practices, such as seeding date and rate, fertility, and harvesting etc.

10:50-11:05 a.m. – Mr. Tim Fine, Update on Palmer Amaranth and other herbicide resistant weeds Herbicide resistant weeds have become a concern to both dryland and irrigated growers. Mr. Tim Fine is the Extension Agent at Richland County Extension Office. He will update with the audience on the spread of Palmer Amaranth and other herbicide resistant weeds and management strategies.

11:05-11:20 a.m. – Dr. Jamie Sherman: Improving Barley for Montana

Dr. Jamie Sherman is the Barley Breeder at MSU-Bozeman. She will discuss the newly released malting barley “Buzz”, named for grower Buzz Mattelin. She will also share developments of food and forage barley, as well as the newly instituted winter barley breeding program.

11:20-11:35 a.m. – Dr. Luther Talbert: Spring wheat breeding and new Varieties

Dr. Luther Talbert is the Spring Wheat Breeder at MSU-Bozeman. He will update with the audience the spring wheat breeding program in Bozeman and newly released spring wheat varieties.

11:35-11:50 a.m. – Dr. Gautam Pradhan and Mr. Shuang Zhou, Using handheld and UAV mounted multi-spectrum camera to characterize spring wheat genotypes

Dr. Gautam Pradhan is a Research Agronomist at NDSU-Williston Research and Extension Center and Mr. Shuang Zhou is a Research Associate at MSU-EARC. They are currently studying spring wheat genotypes for different yield, protein, and drought tolerance traits. They will demonstrate the handheld device and drone that is equipped with a multi-spectrum camera to scan spring wheat nurseries for those traits.

11:50-12:05 p.m. – Dr. Bart Stevens, Cropping systems studies

Bart Stevens is a Research Agronomist with USDA-ARS Northern Plain Agricultural Research Laboratory. He will present to the audience the studies the USDA-ARS conducted at the EARC-irrigated farm.

12:10 – 1:10 p.m. – Lunch. Dr. Darrin Boss, Department Head of Research Centers will provide an update of the Research Centers Department and the Montana Agricultural Experiment Station.

1:10 p.m. – Field Day Program Adjourned.

EARC Irrigated Field Day, July 16, Sidney

Dr. Chengci Chen compares no-till and strip-till soil samples for soil crusting, acidification, organic matter degradation issues and potential benefits of no-till sugarbeets during the 2018 Field Day.

By Jaymi Loobey
The first days of summer have come and gone. Now, it is time for the field days, the Montana State University Research Center Field Days.

Every year, through June and July, the MSU Eastern Agricultural Research Center in Sidney, Montana participates, along with other MSU Research Centers across Montana, in the Field Days program. During a Field Day, farmers and the general public are invited to come to the research station to go on a tour of the facility, learn about the researchers, places and projects involved with agricultural research at MSU's College of Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Stations, attend presentations on new strategies to grow crops and livestock, and the progress of the research stations on various projects.

The Eastern Agricultural Research Center just had their Dryland Field Day on June 20 where farmers and the public learned about practices involving dryland farming. Their Irrigated Field Day is not too far off. July 16, 2019, from 8:45 a.m. to noon, farmers and those who are just curious and eager to learn can attend. Chen told me that during this Field Day attendees will see various research projects, including strategies to control pests, weeds, and more agronomic farming practices. Breeders will come to discuss new varieties of wheat and demonstrate the use of drones to keep track of crop varieties. There will be a field demonstration and discussion on the potential of new crops such as industrial hemp for CBD or hemp oil, the fertility and weed control of alternative pulse crops like mung and adzuki beans, as well as a specialty breed of canola. This breed of canola has high omega-3 oil content in its oil similar to fish oil. There will also be a how-to discussion on no-till sugar beets and one on strategies for raising the protein level in peas.

As always, the field days are free to the public. Lunch will be provided. The Eastern Agricultural Research Center is located at 1501 North Central Ave, a mile north of Sidney, Montana. Chen said. "We all appreciate the general public, children, and farmers coming to learn and the community's support of the research center."

MSU Researchers Examine Benefits Of Sheep Grazing In Vegetable Farming

Trestin Benson, graduate student in animal and range science at Montana State University, left, and Devon Ragen, research associate in the College of Agriculture at MSU, have been studying integrating sheep into agriculture systems and examining the benefits or drawbacks to having the sheep graze before or after planting and harvest in crop cultivation. BOZEMAN — Farmers and ranchers have long been in search of ways to limit the need for tillage and chemical herbicides on farmland, and two researchers in Montana State University's College of Agriculture are working on a project that may provide a solution.

With help from the Western Sustainable Agricultural Research and Education program, which is being hosted by MSU until 2023, Devon Ragen, a research associate in the Department of Animal and Range Sciences, and graduate student Trestin Benson have conducted two years of tests on local farms to see if grazing sheep on vegetable or cover crop plots can help improve soil health while reducing artificial inputs to the soil.

"We're looking at differences in microbial communities in the soil and nutrient profiles," said Ragen. "We use sheep for a pre-graze before seeding to clean up all the weeds instead of having to spray or till it up."

Tillage, she said, is one of the biggest detriments to organic farmers. While useful for turning fertilizer and plant matter into the soil, it also promotes wind erosion by making the upper layers of earth easier to blow away. If incorporating sheep into a farming system results in less need for tillage, it would be a win for farmers. Ragen and Benson have partnered with Strike Farms in Bozeman, 13 Mile Lamb and Wool in Belgrade, and Black Cat Farm in Boulder, Colorado; all three farms volunteered to test out their theory and allow sheep to graze their vegetable fields.

Those tests have shown that when sheep were allowed on cropland to eat weeds and leave manure and urine — natural fertilizer — behind, it reduced the need for tillage 60 percent of the time. However, having animals in a vegetable field carries with it the concern of the sheep compacting the soil too much and interfering with seeding and growth. But fortunately, Ragen and Benson haven't found it to be a problem in their farm tests, which is more good news for producers.

"We looked at these grazed organic fields and compared them to tilled organic and chemical fields, and we're not really seeing a big difference in terms of compaction," Ragen said. "From a farmer's perspective, it's not really a detriment to have sheep out there, and we're actually seeing higher nitrogen in the soil after the sheep have grazed, so that's less fertilizer they have to apply and less cost in actually purchasing the fertilizer."

One of the upsides to the project is that it doesn't require the producer partners to change anything in their systems — simply allow Ragen and Benson to take soil samples before and after sheep are allowed grazed on the plots. They do much of their work with a part of the MSU-owned flock of sheep that lives at Fort Ellis Research Farm. For Benson, who began working with Ragen in 2017 while finishing her undergraduate studies, the project has provided an opportunity to adapt based on farmer interests.

"When it started out, we thought it was going to be a cropping systems project," Benson said, but farmers were keen to test the ideas in the context of vegetable farming. "It's evolved into something a little different and unique that way. It's been fun working with the farmers and all their different systems, which gives an interesting perspective."

The SARE program, which focuses on supporting projects dedicated to furthering sustainable agriculture, is the nation's top producer-led grant program in the field. MSU was selected in 2018 as the western regional host for the program, which will bring more than $27 million in grants and operational costs to MSU researchers and graduate students over the next five years. Ragen and Benson's project received a SARE grant in 2017 and they will dedicate the final year of that funding to producing write-ups, tip sheets and videos for producers. They'll also host a workshop at Towne's Harvest Farm in Bozeman on July 25 from 9 a.m. to noon for anyone who wants to learn more about the project and its potential applications.

They hope that their research will offer farmers and ranchers an added level of comfort in pursuing livestock-cropland partnerships in a real-life context. The whole point of their work has been to test a practical option for Montana agriculturalists, refine the process and provide reliable information to communities around the state and beyond.

"As researchers I think it's really important that we can do all the trials and let them know what works and what doesn't so they can feel a little more comfortable going out there and trying it themselves," said Ragen.

Fine to Discuss Palmer Amaranth at Sidney Field Day

By Tim Fine, MSU Extension Agent/Richland County

At the upcoming EARC irrigated field day I will be discussing problematic weeds and one weed in particular that may potentially be a problem for us down the road, Palmer Amaranth. In a June edition of the NDSU Crop and Pest Report (<https://www.ag.ndsu.edu/cpr>) this weed was addressed.

"In 2018, Palmer amaranth was found in five North Dakota counties. We believe Palmer was introduced into the state through sunflower screenings, contaminated seed, custom combines, used combines purchased from other states and railroad cars. We know Palmer also can come through other ways, such as contaminated hay, birds, water and more.

A reason for optimism that the weed can be controlled where it was found in 2018 is that there was excellent cooperation and collaboration among farmers, local agronomists, the ND Department of Agriculture and NDSU to remove plants that were found. This effort toward zero-tolerance will be needed in the future to minimize the impact of Palmer amaranth. If no additional Palmer is brought into the state, eradication will be possible.

Zero tolerance is the approach recommended by farmers and weed scientists in Midwest and Southern states who have experienced the severe economic impact of Palmer amaranth. This zero- tolerance approach also needs to be implemented by companies selling products in North Dakota, such as feed screenings, seed, hay, equipment, etc. The Minnesota Department of Agriculture inspected screenings from November 2018 to March 2019 and detected Palmer amaranth in sunflower and wheat screenings. They estimated as much as 250 Palmer amaranth seeds per pound of screenings. Some farmers from Minnesota and North Dakota that purchased screenings found Palmer amaranth in their fields in 2018. Farmers and companies need to be wary of any seed or feed source coming from states where Palmer amaranth is known to be a serious problem. Farmers are encouraged to inspect their fields throughout 2019, especially if they have purchased screenings that originated from outside the state or hauled manure from feedlots where out-of-state feed has been used. Companies should make sure they are not selling contaminated products.

Palmer amaranth can germinate in many places including cropland, pastures, gravel lots and marginal areas. Anywhere potentially contaminated feed or manure has been used should be monitored for Palmer amaranth.

Palmer amaranth was added to the North Dakota noxious weed list in January 2019. Several characteristics make it difficult to manage. The weed can grow 1-3 inches per day under optimum conditions. In 2018, many plants found in North Dakota were 6-8 feet tall. Palmer is a prolific seed producer with up to one million seeds per plant. Palmer can germinate throughout the growing season, even after postemergence herbicides have been applied or after early crops have been harvested. One of the biggest challenges is that Palmer amaranth is very prone to herbicide resistance. It is very common to find plants that are resistant to glyphosate. Some plants have been found to be resistant to five different modes of action. This resistance characteristic will severely limit options for controlling the weed. Complicating the situation is that growers will not know to which herbicides the plants are resistant.

Richland County Crimestoppers Wanted Person For The Week

On February 4, 2019 a Bench Warrant was issued out of Montana Seventh Judicial District Court, in Richland County for the arrest of Charles Wayne Bliss, for violating conditions of his sentence, a felony. Crimestoppers would like to remind everyone that it is a crime to knowingly harbor a person that is wanted by a law enforcement agency.

On January 22, 2019 the Richland County Attorney's Office filed a Petition For Revocation in Montana Seventh Judicial District Court that the defendant, Charles Wayne Bliss violated conditions of suspended sentence by (1) using or possessing alcoholic beverages and illegal drugs, (2) not receiving permission from his supervising officer or the officer's designee before leaving his assigned area and (3) not complying with all municipal, county, state, and federal laws and ordinances and conducting himself as a good citizen. Charles Wayne Bliss is 33 years of age, white male, 6'1", 285 lbs. with brown eyes and brown hair. He has been known to live in the Sidney, Missoula area, and the state of Washington. He was born in the state of Washington. Bond has been set at $15,000. It is felt that Bliss has left the Richland County area and may now maybe living in Missoula or Newman Lake, Washington areas. He also goes by the name Robert Allen Brown and has numerous tattoos. If you know this person or where he is living contact Crimestoppers or your local law enforcement agency. This warrant can be served in Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Montana, Colorado, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

If you have any information about Charles Wayne Bliss, you are urged to call CRIMESTOPPERS at 433-6666 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., you may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000. You can also contact Crimestoppers in Richland County anytime (24/7) by going to our New Crimestoppers website at www.richlandcs.com then going to Submit a Web Tip or by texting the code "CSRC plus your message to: 274637 (CRIMES). You can also contact the Richland County Sheriff's Office at 406-433-2919 or Sidney Police Department at 406-433-2210.

Check out and Join our Richland County Crimestoppers, Facebook page. Cash reward of up to $1,000. Richland County Crimestopper is Working.

Hunter Education Rifle Classroom Course

Orientation/walk in registration for the fall 2019 Hunter Education class will be at 6 p.m., Monday, July 29 at Richland County Extension Office, 1500 North Central Ave., Sidney, MT. Work books will be handed out and all chapter quizzes must be done before the first night of class.

You must be ten years old by the orientation date to register and students under 18 must have a parent or guardian present at orientation.

You can register online at <https://www.register-ed.com/events/view/131521> and students are required to print and bring the forms under 'Related Files' to the first day of class.

All students must attend orientation and all classes, no exceptions. No late registrations will be accepted. The class is limited to 75 students, and there is no charge for this class.

The class schedule is August 5, 6, 8 and 9 from 6-9 p.m. and August 10 from 8 a.m.-2 p.m. Bring a #2 lead pencil to class.

All students must wear proper attire for hunting on field day. Hiking type shoes are a must with absolutely no open toed shoes or shorts permitted on the course. Field day with this class will not be open to online students.

Overtured Boat On Yellowstone River, Saturday, June 29

On June 29, 2019 at about 2:30 p.m. the Richland County Sheriff's Office received a report of a 21-foot boat that had overturned on the Yellowstone River near Benny Pierre Creek and CR 122. It was found that two adults and one child were boating on the river and had pulled close to the bank and attempted to retrieve something from the edge of the bank. A large part of the bank gave away onto the boat, knocking one of the adults out of the boat, and then causing the boat to overturn. The other adult and child then were trapped under the boat. The adult was able to get himself and the child out from under the boat and safely to the shore with the help of the other adult. The three occupants of the boat were taken by EMS to Sidney Health Center where they were treated for injuries and subsequently released. The child was wearing a life jacket at the time of the incident.

Richland County Sheriff John Dynneson extends his gratitude to those that assisted with the incident, especially the Sidney/Richland County Fire Department, Richland Count Emergency Medical Services, Sidney Police Department and his staff.

Charles Wayne Bliss is wanted for violating conditions of his sentence.

Every Brilliant Thing – A Montana Tour – July 14, Sidney

By Duncan MacMillan with Jonny Donahoe

Grandstreet Theatre presents the Montana tour of Every Brilliant Thing, a hilarious, powerful and timely play that shines a light on all the things that make life worth living.

This performance will be at 2 p.m., Sunday, July 14 at Sidney Middle School Auditorium, 415 S Central Ave., Sidney, MT. The admission is free but a $5 suggested donation would go to benefit local resources for mental health and suicide prevention.

The Cast
Rosie Seitz Ayers:
Rosie is excited to bring her Grandstreet Theatre role in the one-person show Every Brilliant Thing to the rest of Montana in a 50-stop performance tour this summer. Mrs. Ayers grew up on stage at Grandstreet Theater in Helena, MT and went on to earn her BFA in Theatre and MA in Integrated Arts in Education at The University of Montana in Missoula, MT, where she has been raising her children with her husband Michael. Rosie has worked with several theater companies throughout Montana. Mrs. Ayers' true passion is for directing and teaching in the Theatre Arts. Mrs. Ayers directs productions regionally and currently teaches theatre for SPARK! within MCPS, in schools around Montana, and for Teresa Waldorf's Summer Theatre Camp.

Ryan Eggensperger:
Ryan couldn't be more pleased to be a part of Grandstreet's tour of Every Brilliant Thing. Born and raised in suburban Connecticut, Ryan dropped out of acting school in 1997 to work at Thompson River Lumber (Thompson Falls) during which time he discovered Herman Melville and the mountains and hasn't been the same since. He holds a B.A. in Writing and Literature from the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics in Boulder, Colorado.

A seven year old comes home from school to learn that Mom is in the hospital. Dad says "she's done something stupid." The kid begins to create a list for Mom. A list of everything that's brilliant about the world. Everything worth living for. 1) Ice cream 2) Water fights 3) Staying up past your bedtime to watch TV ... As time passes and the list grows, what began as a naive attempt to make Mom happy becomes an epic chronicle of life's little wonders. A tribute to the irrepressible resilience inside all of us and the capacity to find delight in the everyday, Every Brilliant Thing is a funny, clever, and surprisingly uplifting play about the lengths we go to for those we love. Put this show at the top of your list!

About The Show
Written by award-winning British playwright Duncan MacMillan with UK comedian Jonny Donahoe and alternately starring Helena native Rosie Seitz Ayers and Ryan Eggensperger, this powerful one-actor show explores mental health, families and the ways we love in a hilarious and uplifting production for both adults and teenagers.

Every Brilliant Thing playwright Duncan MacMillan said he aimed to break down the stigma surrounding mental illness by creating new ways to discuss it openly – and by making people laugh. Duncan states:

I don't think I've laughed as much making a piece of work as I have with this show, and yet we had quite a seriousness of purpose. We wanted to talk about depression in a way that was accurate and which didn't alienate an audience. Considering how common depression is, it's surprising how much stigma there still is around it, how reluctant people are to discuss it. We kept reminding ourselves of the aims of the piece – to make people feel OK to talk and think about depression, to talk about it responsibly and accurately, and to provide a few tools with which to think and talk about it. That sounds quite worthy now I say it out loud, but we mean it.

Every Brilliant Thing co-creator Donahoe described the play as "the funniest thing you'll ever see about the least funny thing in the world". "You cannot get through life without an experience of depression, whether that means suffering from it yourself or knowing a loved one who is going through it. So talking about depression is absolutely vital but it's a bloody difficult thing to do. Hopefully we've built something that makes that just a tiny bit easier," he said.

Every Brilliant Thing will tour Montana for 50 performances from June 6 through August 3 thanks to a grant from Blue Cross Blue Shield of Montana, who have prioritized suicide prevention efforts throughout the state. With their help, Grandstreet Theatre will be able to share this beautiful show and its life-affirming message with all of Montana.

Grandstreet Managing Director Kal Poole says: "There are many folks who deal with mental health issues across the state and unfortunately we have the highest rate of suicide per capita in the nation. The beauty of Every Brilliant Thing is that it takes the same impulse that people have toward spiraling downward and changes the direction. This show encourages spiraling up and becoming obsessed with gratitude and beauty in everyday moments. We have a feeling that that message will resonate with audiences throughout Montana."

Can-Am Bowl XXIII Practice Held June 30 In Lambert

By Jaymi Loobey
On June 30, 2019 twenty different high school football players from Montana, Wyoming, Texas and Nebraska came to Lambert, Montana to practice and enjoy the events of the 4th. Then, July 5, they continued their journey to Wakaw, a small town in Saskatchewan, Canada. The following day they challenged their Canadian counterparts in the 23rd annual Can-Am Bowl.

The Can-Am Bowl was started in 1997 as an addition to the usual state and regional high school competitions for six-man football. Director Jim Miller said, "We were trying to organize a North vs. South competition when the Canadian coaches reached out to us." According to an article by Avery Le Blanc on www.discoverhumboldt.com, the location of the bowl changes from year to year. According to Jim Miller, so far it has always been in Canada but they are working with Canada on having the Can-Am Bowl in the United States next year. Each year the Can-Am coordinators for the American team reach out to high school athletic directors with 6-man football already in their athletics program, nationwide. The athletic directors contact coaches and the players are presented with the opportunity to play against Canada. The players are brought together to practice and enjoy the sights and comforts of the host town before playing in the bowl. In the past years the American players practiced and explored in Canada, according to Rebecca Miller, director's assistant for the American team. This year they decided to meet and spend that week in the United States because of the cost. Jim said, "It is expensive in Canada and because of the price, the American players were unable to do anything the week before the competition besides practice and sit in their rooms." This year they met and practiced in Lambert, Montana, not even seven hours from their final destination, during the town's most exciting time of the year. According to Jim, the entire town helped put the team up for the week, providing food and shelter. Not only were they the grateful recipients of Lambert's hospitality, the 3rd and 4th, the players along with Lambert natives and visitors from all over the region were treated to two street dances, a parade, fireworks, car show, and several kids activities as part of the town's Independence Day festivities. The players got to be part of the parade, had a scrimmage on the 4th, and held a tailgate party afterward for people to come and meet them. According to the Wakaw Recorder on <https://www.wakawrecorder.ca/> the game in Wakaw was July 6th at 8 p.m. at Wakaw School. According to Rebecca Miller, "It was a hard fought battle with the lead changing between the two teams at least six different times." In the end Team USA lost 40 to 28 but they made Team Canada work for it.

The opportunity is not as widely known as the coordinators would like it to be so this year only 25 players from four different states requested to go and five of them had to drop out for various reasons. Jim had said all the players would spend time on the turf but it was tough to make a team. He would like to see the Can-Am bowl become a big deal here in the States. Jim told me he could not have pulled this off without the long list of coaches, sponsors, and volunteers that helped him get these players to Canada and he is deeply thankful to each and every one.
