Bid Awarded for Intake Project

The U.S. Army Corps Of Engineers announced on its website that the contract to build the new fish bypass and concrete weir at Intake has been awarded to Ames Construction headquartered in Minnesota for just under $35 million. No start date has been determined for the project.

Lower Yellowstone Irrigation Project will begin a major project this fall to rebuild a giant lateral delivery canal which was damaged by erosion from the Missouri River. The project near Dore involves reconstructing the 4800' canal about 1000 feet south of the existing one, and building it as high as 10' in places. The project will take place as long as allowed this fall, and be completed in the spring.

The Promiseland Project Makes Its First Stop In Watford City, ND And We Want You To Join Us

Watford City, ND - The Promiseland Project was launched at this year's SXSW in Austin, TX with the goal of visiting all 50 states to encourage us all to better get to know one another and "walk a mile in each other's shoes." Founder Roy Spence was joined on stage by Matthew McConaughey who threw a dart to determine the first stop on our journey. It landed on Watford City, and we're excited to bring America's Front Porch to North Dakota as our inaugural destination.

On Sunday, October 14 from 3-6:30 p.m., we're inviting McKenzie County area neighbors to join us at the Rough Rider Center for an afternoon of inspiration, front porch conversation and music from North Dakota's own Tigirlily and Nashville's MamaDear. In addition to great music, Promiseland Project founder Roy Spence and Watford City's Jessie Veeder will take part in a conversation among local business owners and community leaders.

"We're here to help folks get to know each other and build an American culture of us. So that together we can be the best US, as in USA." said Spence. "Watford City is a great place to call home," adds Jessie Veeder "Getting to know each other better is a great way to help strengthen our sense of community."

America's Front Porch is an actual front porch, built by Texas and North Dakota builders that will serve as a stage for the day's events. This porch will travel with the Promiseland Project throughout the country.

Historian, Actor, Broadcaster Arch Ellwein Passes Away

Arch Ellwein, far right, with the Baker Street Irregulars played by, L to R, Liliana Johnson, Zariah Gonsalez, Italia Averett and Garrett Dodds.

By Dianne Swanson

The Voice of the Eagles and Teddy Roosevelt is silent. Arch Ellwein passed away Tuesday, October 2, 2018 after a lifetime of acting, teaching and broadcasting.

Arch started his career with KGCX, then did play by play of football, basketball, volleyball games and wrestling meets for Power 95 beginning in 1995. J.R. Greeley, marketing manager for Cherry Creek Media, said Arch was a real cheerleader for the Eagles and could make any sport an exciting event with his captivating, old-school style. He didn't know all the players but it seemed like he did. Ahead of any game, Arch would visit with the Eagle players and coaches as well as the opposing coaches, getting tidbits about the athletes and making sure he had the correct pronunciation of names. Greeley said that Arch was really excited to do both Fairview and Sidney homecoming games two weeks ago. It usually didn't work that he could do both but he provided the colorful play by play for the Warriors and Eagles that fans always enjoyed.

He could remember details from almost any game during his long career and enjoyed sharing stories with interested listeners.

Arch really wanted to broadcast the Eagles game in Laurel last Friday night and had visited with Sidney High School Athletic director Chris Lee, the coaches and players. He had also given Power 95 the name of someone in Laurel who could do the game in case he couldn't make it. There was some sadness at that game, and Arch would have really enjoyed providing gripping commentary for what was an exciting game where the Eagles played well.

Eagles assistant football coach and boys basketball coach Chad Quilling has a lifetime of memories of Arch, beginning when he was quarterback for the Eagles football team. "Friday nights before a game, he would come and talk to us and the coaches. He was happy to be there, intermingling with us kids. And it wasn't just Sidney, but all the local kids. He is irreplaceable," Chad stated.

Chad's parents, Paul and Susie, would record Arch's play by play from the radio during playoff games and they would all listen to it the next day. "It was amazing just to listen to him," Chad said. "It was unbelievable how he could call a game." After graduation, Chad would often listen to the Eagles games. "It felt like you were right there. He was a talented man who spent years perfecting his craft. He kept you wanting to listen even if the game was a blowout. There was no dead air space. He was as good as anyone on TV now and probably could have gone bigger but he liked our community and we're really glad he stayed."

But there was so much more to Arch than radio and games. His love of kids and acting led him to start Footlights and Grease-paint Theatre Camp over 25 years ago. Each summer, he would gather a group of aspiring actors aged 9 to 15 and spend a week sharing his knowledge. Fifteen year old Liliana Johnson started participating in the theatre camp at age nine and has too many favorite "Arch moments" to pick just one. "Everything about him was special," she said. Her favorite part of camp was the final production. "We would be joking and having fun even though we were nervous. Arch would be really excited and full of energy." She added that Arch taught them the difference between pretending and acting. "If you were pretending, you were still yourself just doing lines. Arch would come over and all of a sudden he wasn't Arch anymore, he WAS the character he was playing."

Liliana enjoyed all the plays but The Baker Street Irregulars was one of her favorites. She played the male lead. "It was interesting to be able to do that. It was a fun murder mystery."

Arch also taught the kids Improv, which stood them in good stead during performances when someone forgot their lines or took longer changing costumes. It's also a life skill those kids will always be able to use.

The camp has had a strong, core group for the past several years, with some of the kids aging out this year. Without Arch the future is uncertain but Liliana said they may decide to get

Michelle (Shellie) Lange, 70 Sidney, MT

A Celebration of Life for Michelle (Shellie) Lange, 70, will be held Thursday, October 11 at 10 a.m. at Pella Lutheran Church in Sidney, MT, with Pastor Audrey Rydbom officiating. Fulkerson-Stevenson Funeral Home of Sidney is entrusted with the arrangements. Remembrances, condolences and pictures may be shared with the family at www.fulkersons.com.

Michelle (Shellie) Lange

Shellie passed away at Sidney Extended Care with her loving family at her side, following a lengthy and courageous battle with cancer. Shellie was born on December 13, 1947 in Glendive, MT to Bano and Lina (Gehmert) Brenner. She was a great lover of animals and the outdoors. Shellie and her siblings spent countless hours on horseback exploring the badlands. She attended school in Dawson County.

On June 1, 1968, she married Richard (Dick) Lange of Savage, MT. The couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary this year. After a year of marriage, Dick was drafted into the Army. During his two years of service, Dick and Shellie embraced a nomadic lifestyle. They lived in Fort Jackson, SC, Fort Benning, GA, and Fort Polk, LA. Their oldest daughter, Deedra, was born during their stay at Fort Polk. Following his honorable discharge, the couple moved back to Glendive, MT where their other four daughters, Brandyn, Karmen, Karen, and Kimberly were born. They moved to Sidney in 1979 where they have lived since.

Shellie was very supportive of her five daughters' activities, swimming, athletics, 4-H and horse shows. She could always be found chauffeuring the girls in the family van or cheering proudly from the stands.

Shellie's other hobbies included caring for animals, especially her beloved quarter horses, gardening, cooking, canning and reading. Dick and Shellie also enjoyed traveling with friends or their girls.

Shellie is survived by her husband Dick, daughters Deedra (Shandon) Erickson of Sidney, Brandyn (Chanon) Romo of Bannock, Karmen (Jason) Schmierer of Sidney, Karen (Sterling) Swigart of Miles City, and Kimberly Lange (fiancé Jason Bright) of Sidney, grandchildren Jade and Shay Erickson, Summer and Colter Romo, Austin Lange, Ashtyn and Karsyn Swigart, and Tayler Lange, mother Lina Brenner, siblings Sandy (Bob) Kiedrowski of Glendive, Candice (Steve) Dempewolf of Lindsay, Midge (Bob) Brilz of Glendive, Sue Brenner of Buffalo, WY, and Blaine Brenner of Glendive, numerous nieces and nephews, and beloved dog Ginger.

Shellie is preceded in death by her father Bano Brenner, who passed on the same date 23 years ago, and her brother Jon Brenner.

Interment was held at Pioneer Cemetery in Sidney, MT. Archer “Arch” Ellwein

Archer “Arch” Dennis Ellwein passed away October 2, 2018 in Billings, MT. Arch was born August 1, 1956 in Sidney, MT to Earl M. and Grace Albert Ellwein. He graduated from Sidney High School and began a career in radio broadcasting, which included a variety of ball games throughout Eastern Montana. He was known as “The voice of the Eagles”. As demanding as broadcasting was, he still found time to help his father do carpentry. In younger years he would create scenes to act out using blankets on clotheslines for curtains, chairs and saw horses for his audiences of neighborhood children, and a dog with a Christmas wreath around his neck representing a lion.

Arch enjoyed teaching school children the fun in creating and acting in a variety of plays, which were held in schools and parks across North Dakota and Montana. He was very involved in the Sidney community and well known for his portrayal of political figures including Theodore Roosevelt, Sgt. John Ordway, buffalo hunter Vic Smith, and Captain Grant Marsh. He performed coast-to-coast in more than 2,400 shows. Arch was also a former member at the MonDak Heritage Center and was always interested in events at the museum.

Arch was preceded in death by his father Earl, a sister Louise, and an infant brother Anthony.

He is survived by his mother, Grace Ellwein and brother, Earl Ellwein both of Sidney, MT.

Boys & Girls Club of Richland County Announces Merger With Dawson County Club

In January 2019, the Boys & Girls Club of Richland County will merge with the Boys & Girls Club of Dawson County, creating the Boys & Girls Club of the MonDak Region with Elaine Stedman as CEO. This follows a nationwide goal of the national organization to strengthen clubs through mergers, rather than create new ones. Brandy Elizaldi will be the unit director in Glendive.

The mission of Boys & Girls Club of Richland County has always been to serve more kids more often. The ability to do just that has increased dramatically with this merger. While the Dawson County Club is older than the Richland County one, it only serves about 30 kids in the former JC Penney building, downtown Glendive. The goal is to increase that to about 100 in the next two years. "This is a really positive thing, to provide great services to the kids," Stedman said.

A press release states that each club will continue to operate as a unit with the centralized administration functions located in Sidney.

This expansion has been part of the strategic plan to develop into the premier youth serving organization in the region. Merging the two clubs together will provide the opportunity to share common expenses such as administration, accounting, staff training, and membership fees and to eliminate duplication of services in many other areas. In addition, the acquisition will allow both units to collaborate on funding sources such as grants. The long-range plans include seeking opportunities to expand their presence throughout the region in areas not served by a Boys & Girls Club.

Each club will maintain a separate budget and resources so that donations raised locally stay local and support local programs. The national organization provides virtually no funding although they do provide many other sources of support. The goal of the local club is to make their services available and reasonable for all families.

The press release goes on to state the club's appreciation for the foresight and community commitment of the Lonsdale leadership and members in providing a new home for the club. In addition, the club is eternally grateful to its founders, past and present board members, Sarah Sifers and Sara Berndt, and to the Sidney School district which has so graciously provided a home for nearly 15 years. It truly takes a village to raise a child, and they are so grateful to all who have made it possible for the club to play an integral role in that village. They also expressed their deep gratitude for the outpouring of support from this community to the club.

The Club asks for the community's continued support as they continue to provide Great Futures for the youth of this region – more kids, more often – to provide them with academic success, specialized education programs, leadership opportunities, character development and the promotion of wise choices and healthy lifestyles.

Extension Master Gardener Program Accepting Applicants

By NDSU Agriculture Communication
If you love gardening and sharing your knowledge with others, you are encouraged to enroll in the Master Gardener course offered in McKenzie County through an online program with North Dakota State University Extension. Application deadline is October 29.

The NDSU Extension Master Gardener Program is a volunteer service organization that beautifies communities, educates the public about gardening, works with youth and encourages conservation of natural resources.

This year's Master Gardener online training program will run for 10 weeks beginning Jan. 18 and ending March 29, 2019. Classes will not be held on March 15.

"Online students can log in on their computers and participate in the live Friday classes from 1 to 4 p.m. (CST)," says Esther McGinnis, NDSU Extension horticulturist and Extension Master Gardener director. "Alternatively, students can watch the recorded lectures at a more convenient time."

Course topics include annual and perennial flowers, tree selection and maintenance, soil health, composting, plant diseases and insects, vegetable and fruit production, and lawn maintenance. NDSU faculty and Extension personnel teach the classes.

Once participants complete the training, they are known as Master Gardener interns. They must volunteer 48 hours of time during a two-year period on horticultural projects in cooperation with NDSU Extension. After that, they will be certified as Master Gardeners.

Potential volunteer projects include answering gardening questions in the Extension office, organizing horticultural workshops, managing school and community gardens, designing and maintaining pollinator gardens, and providing horticultural therapy.

Tuition for the 2019 class is $225 plus an application fee of $35 for those wishing to become a Certified Extension Master Gardener or $400 for the nonvolunteer option. Internet access, computer knowledge and an email account are required.

Twenty-seven North Dakota counties will be accepting a limited number of Master Gardener applications. The application deadline is Oct. 29.

Application forms are available at <http://www.ag.ndsu.edu/mastergardener/>. For more information, contact the NDSU Extension/McKenzie County Office at 701-444-3451 or McGinnis at 701-231-7971 or esther.mcginns@ndsu.edu.
