Quilts and More To Give Away Sewing Machine In Honor of National 4-H Week

By Brenda Mehling

This fall is a very exciting time for sewers to go check out Quilts and More with their new sewing machines, and fun, fall fabrics! Also, in conjunction with 4-H week, the store is offering a drawing for a chance to win a 520 sewing machine to any 4-H member in the surrounding area who purchases fabric from their store.

Quilts and More, a local fabric store on the outskirts of Sidney, was opened in 1999 by owner Laura Van Hook and is now the largest fabric store in the area. The store is huge and every sewer's dream, with wall-to-wall fabrics of every variety from western style, to seasonal, and beyond. In addition, they carry around 3500 bolts of cotton, flannel, wide backs, and minkee fabric, as well as many books, patterns, and notions.

And now for the first time, the store has expanded to make room for sewing machines. The machines are long lasting, quality machines, that are Necchi and Elna brand. They are carrying a wide variety of options for all budgets and sewing levels.

Also for the fall, the store is offering four different Adult Education classes in conjunction with the school at different times Tuesday through Thursday. Three of these classes are quilting classes and one is for purses, bags, and totes.

The drawing for the lucky 4-H winner will take place next summer at the Richland County Fair. However, it is not limited to Richland County members but to all members in the surrounding areas. The ladies at Quilts and More have a big heart for young sewers and have even had some 4-H clubs in the surrounding areas come out for some lessons. Vonnie Van Hook, employee at Quilts and More says, "We love to encourage kids to participate in 4-H, and this is one way to get them to look forward to their project."

Quilts and More is located at 12653, County Road 352, Sidney. Their winter hours are 10:00am-5:00pm Tuesday through Thursday and 10:00am-3:00pm on Saturdays. They can be reached at 406-482-3366.

Livestock Judging Contest Saturday

This year there will be a Livestock Judging contest in conjunction with National 4-H Week. Livestock judging is a process where youth evaluate a class of either market or breeding animals based on the desired traits of that species. The contest will be held on October 12, at the Richland County Fairgrounds. The contest is open to all 4-H and FFA members who wish to participate. The registration will begin at 8:00 a.m. and the contest at 9:00 a.m. If there are any questions please contact the Richland County Extension Office at 406-433-1206.

Quilts & More employees (L-R) Sara McMillen, Nancy Van Hook, owner; Vonnie Van Hook and Deb Bradley are excited to announce they have expanded their store to sell sewing machines.

American Red Cross Urges Citizens to Get Serious About Home Fire Prevention

By Anna Fernández-Gevaert
Communications Director
American Red Cross of Montana

The biggest disaster threat to American families isn't floods, hurricanes or tornadoes; it's fire. The American Red Cross responds to a disaster every eight minutes and nearly all of these are home fires.

"Home fires are a common and deadly threat because they happen so quickly," said Rod Kop, CEO of Montana Red Cross. "We urge everyone to become aware of what they should do to prevent a fire in their home."

According to the U.S. Fire Administration (USFA), there are almost 365,000 residential fires reported in the U.S. every year. These fires cause more than $6 billion in property loss. While the frequency of fire deaths has steadily decreased over the past ten years due to increased awareness and safety measures, more than 2,400 Americans still die every year in home fires.

"Here in Montana, the Red Cross responds to all kinds of disasters, says Kopp. "But our most common response, bar none, is house fires. The truth is that most home fires can be prevented." Homeowners should check for items that can be hazardous such as candles and space heaters – common items that can turn dangerous very quickly.

TO HELP AVOID A FIRE IN THE HOME, TAKE THESE PRECAUTIONS:

- Keep items that can catch on fire at least three feet away from anything that gets hot, such as sources of heat or stoves.
- Never smoke in bed.
- Turn portable heaters off when leaving the room or going to sleep.

SMOKE ALARMS SAVE LIVES

- Install smoke alarms on every level of the home and outside each sleeping area. Put a smoke alarm inside every bedroom. Because smoke rises, put the alarms on the ceiling or high on the wall.
- Test the smoke alarms regularly. Install new batteries every year.
- Get new smoke alarms every ten years.

MAKE A PLAN

The Red Cross recommends that households develop a fire escape plan and practice it at least twice a year with everyone who lives in the home. People should know two ways to escape from every room and designate a safe place to meet outside the home in case of a fire.

OTHER SAFETY TIPS

- Follow the escape plan in case of fire. Get out, stay out, and call 9-1-1 or the local emergency number.
- Install smoke alarms on every level of the house and inside bedrooms.
- Replace batteries in smoke alarms at least once a year. Test each alarm monthly by pushing the test button.

- Download the Red Cross First Aid App to get access to life-saving information on what to do for common, everyday first aid emergencies including burns. The app is available in the Apple App Store and on Google Play for Android.

People can visit www.redcross.org/montana for more steps they can take to lessen the chance of a fire in their home.

You can help people affected by home fires, as well as countless other disasters at home and around the world, by making a donation to support American Red Cross Disaster Relief. Your gift enables the Red Cross to prepare for and provide shelter, food, emotional support and other assistance in response to disasters. Visit www.redcross.org/montana or call 1-800-ARC-MONT (1-800-272-6668). Contributions may also be sent to American Red Cross of Montana, 1300 28th Street South, Great Falls, MT 59405.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Montana Cancer Control Programs begins month-long Breast Cancer Awareness Campaign

Submitted by Jon Ebelt

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. In Montana, more than 700 women develop breast cancer every year. Treatment for breast cancer is most effective if the cancer is caught at an early stage, so it is important for women to talk to their doctors about breast cancer screenings.

To ensure Montana women have every tool available, the Montana Cancer Control Programs (MCCP) will spend the month of October educating women about getting regular breast cancer screenings, the current national recommendations for breast cancer screening, and about making healthy lifestyle choices to help lower the likelihood of breast cancer. Throughout the month, local cancer control programs across Montana will conduct community education and outreach activities focused on breast cancer.

"Getting screened is one of the best ways for women to beat breast cancer," said DPHHS Director Richard Oppen. "Furthermore, engaging in healthy activities, like not using tobacco and getting regular exercise, are also significant. MCCP works in conjunction with local governments, medical providers, other health care organizations, and local businesses to ensure that the best information and resources are available for Montanans."

MCCP will be using Facebook to expand awareness and educate Montana women about breast cancer prevention and screening. You can "like" DPHHS on their Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/MTDPHHS>

Richey Wreath Fundraiser

Submitted by Jodi Williams

The Richey High School Juniors class will be selling wreaths from mid-October through the first part of November. The wreaths will arrive in time for your Christmas decorating. Don't know what to get someone for Christmas, you can buy a wreath and have it sent directly to them. The wreaths are "green"- the greenery is harvested from the forests of the Pacific Northwest, no trees are cut down, the plant material can be composted and the metal wreath rings can be recycled. The different products available are: 12" candle wreath, 20" wreath, 22" wreath, 26" wreath, 26" rustic wreath, 28" cross wreath, 28" door swag and 15 ft. Cedar garland (all wreaths come with a bow). If you're interested in purchasing a wreath for yourself or as a gift, you can contact Jodi at the school (406) 773-5523. The wreaths will be arriving around Thanksgiving. Thanks for your support.

R.E.A.C.H. Camp

Submitted by Rita Steinbeisser

The RiverStone Health Eastern Montana Area Health Education Center (AHEC), in conjunction with Sidney Health Center, will hold a Research and Explore Awesome Careers in Healthcare (R.E.A.C.H.) Camp at Sidney Health Center in Sidney on Tuesday, October 22 starting at 8:00 AM. R.E.A.C.H. Camp provides an opportunity for students in grades 9-12 from Richland County to learn about the healthcare field. The Camp includes presentations from healthcare professionals, hands-on activities, and peer interaction. Students will get the opportunity to gain an understanding of the following areas: ambulance, lab, nursing, pharmacy, surgery, radiology, rehab, and respiratory therapy.

R.E.A.C.H. Camps were developed in an effort to ease the healthcare workforce shortage across Montana and the United States by exposing students to professional opportunities in healthcare. Consider...

The Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) estimates that there will be a shortage of 124,000 physicians by 2025- 37percent of which will be Primary Care physicians.

Estimates show that by 2014, there will be 2.4 million new healthcare jobs nationwide.

Of Montana's 56 counties, 40 are designated Health Professional Shortage Areas (HPSA) in primary care.

Cassandra Staton, AHEC Outreach Coordinator with RiverStone Health says, "R.E.A.C.H. Camps are an opportunity, not only for the students, but for healthcare facilities to invest in their future workforce."

Public Meeting On Proposed Ordinance Revisions

Williston to Develop Unified Development Code (UDC)

Submitted by Donald Kress

The Williston City Planning Department will host a public meeting on Tuesday, October 15, 2013 from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the Williston Public Library meeting room to discuss proposed revisions to the city's zoning and subdivision ordinances.

The revisions of the zoning and subdivision ordinances are proposed to address changes in planning and development practices since those ordinances were originally adopted in the 1980s. The format of the ordinances will also be updated. The revised zoning and subdivision ordinances will be combined into a single document known as the Unified Development Code, or UDC.

The UDC project is being managed by the Williston City Planning Department, working with its consultants, RDG Planning and Design. The October 15 public meeting is to provide more detailed information about the UDC process and proposed revisions as well as to provide an opportunity for community recommendations or comments regarding the zoning and subdivision ordinances. The October 15 public meeting is the first of three scheduled public meetings in the approximately 14-month long time period scheduled to complete the UDC. Future public meetings are planned for February and August, 2014. The UDC is scheduled to begin the public hearing process in September, 2014 and be completed later in the fall of 2014.

For more information, please contact Donald Kress, principal planner, Williston City Planning Department, at 701-577-8104 or donaldk@ci.williston.nd.us.

Natural Gas & Oil = Wealth For The Economy

Submitted by Tie Shank
While many states are turtle crawling, states that are fortunate enough to have a shale play such as North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana are hotfooting it. North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana are three states seeing the accelerated pace as their states' economies are among the best in the nation. At the end of 2012, the unemployment rate in the Bakken was an utter 1.8%. The unemployment rate across the rest of North Dakota was just 3.2%, while South Dakota averaged 3.8% and Montana averaged approximately 5%. States further east such as Rhode Island and Illinois came in above 9%. Referring to the shale plays, Interior Secretary Sally Jewell stated "These world-class formations contain even more energy resource potential than previously understood, which is important information as we continue to reduce our nation's dependence on foreign sources of oil." The U.S. energy demand is expected to grow at least 12% between now and the year 2040. This is all good news for the Bakken. North Dakota is expected to double their $1 billion in tax revenues from natural gas and oil in the next year. Republican Senator John Hoeven from North Dakota believes the numbers from the most recent U.S. Geological Survey will bring more developers to the area. He told FoxNews.com, "This will mean a lot of jobs. Financially we are already very strong, we have no debt, but this will mean a lot more stores, restaurants, movie theaters – we'll have to build and we'll have to hire workers." According to a state study, the western half of North Dakota is expected to see its population climb another 50% over the next twenty years. Numbers to look at:

- Over 9.8 million people are employed either directly or indirectly by the U.S. natural gas and oil industry.
- $300 billion is paid annually to workers in jobs supported by the natural gas and oil industry.
- $2 trillion has been invested by the natural gas and oil industry in U.S. capital projects since 2000 to advance all forms of energy, including energy alternatives.
- The Bakken area is responsible for 53% of the total growth of North Dakota business establishments.

Blue Buffalo Artists Reception This Saturday at MDHC

By Dianne Swanson
“What would life be without art?” Trish Stevenson asks.

The center gallery at the MonDak Heritage Center in Sidney is alive this month with amazing art by the Blue Buffalo Artists. This diverse community of talented artists banded together to share their artistic visions through exhibits across the country. The core group started in Cody, WY and hosts its signature art show annually at the historic Irma Hotel. The group now includes artists from throughout the west, including Crane, MT.

Trish Stevenson has been creating art for as long as she can remember. “My Mom always tells the story of when I was three and brought her circles on paper. What are those she asked? Apples, I told her.” Stevenson has been a member of the Blue Buffalo Artists for three years and is proud that her fellow members’ work is on display at the MonDak. She has three pieces in the show, one oil and two pastels, all framed by Afton Ray-Rossol of Galle-Ray in Sidney. Stevenson is inspired by western themes. She loves rodeo, loves the dust which helps create an atmosphere. “Rodeo is colorful,” she said. “And I love horses.” Stevenson likes to spend time with family, go to rodeos and explore the countryside she loves, all the while gathering inspiration for her next piece. Stevenson cannot be away from her art for long. “It’s the best getaway sometimes. Time just flies,” she said. “It’s part of my makeup and identity.”

Two local artists are also guest displayers at the exhibit.

Afton Ray-Rossol has also been an artist her whole life. She works out of her GalleRay studio in Sidney, where she also does expert framing. Rossol has three watercolors in the exhibit, all of which she framed herself. She uses vibrant colors to portray what she sees in nature and the MonDak region. The studio is open by appointment by calling 406-488-CRE8. Rossol loves to spend quality time with her 6 1/2 year old daughter, going fishing and enjoying the outdoors, and being involved with her church.

Rhonda Whited finds her best art comes out when the worst happens, and she has created three exciting new pieces for the show, one of which will be offered at the Wine and Food Festival. “I’m really tickled to be in the show,” she said.

“It spurred me to do more.” All her pieces were framed by Kelly at Ribbon & Rail, Sidney. Whited spends most of her time painting houses with Carmen Latka, enjoying her niece Holly and the rest of her family and drawing as time permits. While she truly appreciates all of those things, she said, “Fellow artists are a different family. I need to be around art. It’s our job to spice up the drab.”

An artists’ reception will be held Saturday, October 12 from 7 to 9 p.m. Come and meet these three talented local artists as well as several of the Blue Buffalo Artists. Enjoy some refreshments and take in all the beautiful artwork.

From left, local artists Afton Ray Rossol, Trish Stevenson and Rhonda Whited each show one of their pieces which are on display now at the MonDak Heritage Center in Sidney.

Farmer’s Market Season 2013 Closed

Submitted by Ludmila Keller

The Richland County Farmer’s Market has finished another successful season. With temperatures outside falling, the Farmer’s Market held its last day on Saturday, October 5.

Both vendors and customers saw many changes this season. This was the first time Richland County Extension was hosting the market. To attract both more vendors and buyers, the Farmer’s Market was moved to Peterson Park by Reynolds Market. With more space available, the market has grown to up to 17 vendors this year. A variety of items were sold, including fresh garden produce, delicious jams and baked goods, and craftwork.

The agents from Richland County Extension are happy to have been part of the Farmer’s Market this year, and to have helped local vendors to sell high-quality products to our community. Many thanks are given to all the vendors who participated in the market this year, and to the Richland Federal Credit Union which has financed all advertisements. For any questions regarding the Richland County Farmer’s Market, contact the local Extension office at 406-433-1206.

Corn Maze Tons of Fun

Kids love the barrel train rides.

What started out as “Let’s cut a corn maze just for the fun of it and see if anyone will come,” has turned into old-fashioned family fun for the entire family. The Vida Corn maze is Located 2 miles east of Vida. It was designed and cut by Jamison, Janessa and Sherry Haynie and seeded by a wonderful husband/dad (who really wasn’t too sure about letting his family cut into his corn crop). No GPS was used to cut the design-just a lot of counting rows and eyeing a pole held up in the distance. Believe it or not, it looked like a barn and a tractor when completed. It wouldn’t be the success it is without the help and support from a great community. The maze has been open for two Sundays now and has had over 650 visitors. It’s not just a maze. There is barnyard golf, barrel rides, a race track, a corn box, a hay pyramid, face painting and concession. There will be 4 more maze days. The schedule includes October 13th, 17th (flashlight night) and the 20th all running from 1 to dusk. October 27th will be the last maze day, and it will be a haunted maze from 4 o’clock to 7:30. The cost is $8/person. Preschool is free with a paying adult. A group of 10 or more paying customers is $6/per person. Call and inquire about booking a party (youth group, Scouts, 4-H, Birthdays, School groups).

Head out to Vida and enjoy the fun. For more information call Sherry at (406) 525-3220.

A bouncy castle is part of the fun at the corn maze.

Local Lifelong Pheasant Hunter Looks Forward to New Season

By Brenda Mehling

Pheasant season in Montana is upon us, and local Sidney hunter Doug Hill is gearing up with his hunting dog, Sonny, for a season of fun adventures. Hill started pheasant hunting at a young age where he grew up in Nashua, Montana and has been doing it ever since.

The season in Montana lasts from October 12th to January 1st and Hill will be going out every weekend during this time. "I probably wouldn't go every weekend if my dog didn't make me," Hill said laughing. Doug has a pointing dog named Sonny, who is a Brittany breed and is his buddy. In fact, one of Doug's greatest experiences hunting was taking his dog out for the very first time and having him retrieve a bird from 200-300 yards away. "It was exciting to see it happen," Hill said grinning, "but I wish it would happen all the time."

This year is especially exciting for Hill as his daughter, Tessa, has recently passed her hunter's safety course and will for sure be joining him on some hunts. For Hill, the best part of hunting is just being in the outdoors watching his dog work. Therefore, after being inside his office all week, he will look forward to just getting out and spending some quality time with his daughter and his dog.

Hill uses a 12 gauge, double barrel, over and under shotgun and prefers to hunt out in the hills around the Sidney area. "I like to stay off the river bottoms," Hill says. "You can't always see your dog on the river bottoms and you lose track of where they're at." Hill added, "When they go on point and you can't see them, you need a beeper collar." Beeper collars are location devices some bird hunters use to find their dogs while they are hunting.

Doug is very hopeful that this is going to be a great year for pheasant hunting. "It's difficult to tell until you get out there," he says. Regardless of whether He shoots a lot of birds or not, he is just looking forward to getting out there.

Donations Sought For ‘Hunters Against Hunger’ Game Processing

Anyone purchasing a Montana hunting license will now have an opportunity to also make an on-the-spot donation to Hunters Against Hunger.

“A new Montana law allows individuals to make a contribution that will help nonprofit groups process donated wild game for free distribution by Montana food banks to help feed people in need,” said Ron Aasheim, spokesman for Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks in Helena.

When one purchases or applies for a deer, elk, antelope, or bison license or permit the license provider will ask if he or she wishes to donate to Hunters Against Hunger, Aasheim said. FWP will begin to dispense the contributions next year to authorized nonprofit groups, like food banks, to help pay for butchering and distribution of processed game.

The minimum donation is $1. Donations can also be made along with online hunting licenses purchases. Visit FWP on line at fwp.mt.gov. Click “Buy a License.”

Most Activities on BLM-Montana/Dakotas Managed Lands to be Suspended due to Federal Government Shutdown

Submitted by Melodie Lloyd

As a result of the Federal government shutdown, essentially all services provided by the Bureau of Land Management will be suspended, with the exception of law enforcement and emergency response functions. Approximately 4,000 recreation facilities, including visitor centers, facilities, campgrounds, boat ramps and other recreation sites will be closed.

With an estimated $4.8 billion in revenues in 2012, the BLM nationally returns more than four dollars for every budget dollar it receives. The BLM manages 245 million acres – more than any of the nation's major natural resource agencies, with the smallest budget, the fewest employees, and the lowest cost.

While the BLM will maintain the minimum staffing levels required to ensure continued safe management of the nation's energy resources, issuing new oil and gas leases and permits will cease. Limited work will continue to ensure safe operations of domestic energy supplies, including very limited inspection activities and emergency response for more than 5,730 oil and gas wells for federal and Indian Trust minerals in Montana, North Dakota, and South Dakota.

Recreation activities on BLM-managed lands will be similarly impacted. Public lands receive more than 57 million visitors every year, contributing more than $7 billion to local economies. In FY2012, the Montana/Dakotas organization received more than 4.3 million visitors contributing more than $317.5 million total funds to local economies.

In the Montana/Dakotas, BLM closures include the Garnet Ghost Town visitors' center, Shepherd Ah Nei Recreation Area, and the Chain-of-Lakes Complex. All BLM facilities are either closed or will not be maintained for the duration of the shutdown.

The BLM-Montana/Dakotas will furlough 712 of its approximate 730 employees during the funding lapse. After the initial shutdown procedures are completed, the BLM-Montana/Dakotas will maintain a total of 18 excepted employees with an additional 80 employees on call.

Suspended activities and services will include:

- non-emergency Abandoned Mine Land and hazardous-materials mitigation
- processing of oil and gas drilling permits
- processing of lease sales, permits and other non-emergency authorizations of onshore oil and gas, coal and other minerals
- permits and approvals for renewable energy and other rights-of-way issuances
- Endangered Species Act and cultural clearances
- range management restoration
- wild horse and burro adoptions
- sand and gravel permits
- timber sales
- work on resource management plans, including those driven by court deadlines

Suspended activities will resume once Congress approves a budget for Fiscal Year 2014.

Because the BLM website will not be maintained for the duration of the shutdown, the BLM will be re-directing to Interior's site, where additional information will be available at www.DOI.gov/shutdown as well as at OPM.gov.

The BLM manages more than 245 million acres of public land, the most of any Federal agency. This land, known as the National System of Public Lands, is primarily located in 12 Western states, including Alaska. The BLM also administers 700 million acres of sub-surface mineral estate throughout the nation. The BLM's multiple-use mission is to sustain the health, diversity, and productivity of the public lands for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. In Fiscal Year 2012, activities on public lands generated $4.6 billion in revenue, much of which was shared with the States where the activities occurred. In addition, public lands contributed more than $112 billion to the U.S. economy and helped support more than 500,000 jobs.

Pheasant Release Applications For 2014 Available

It's not too soon for landowners to submit an application for 2014 pheasant releases through Montana's Upland Game Bird Enhancement Program.

Under Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks' pheasant release program, landowners who attempt to establish pheasant populations in suitable habitat can be reimbursed for raising and releasing ring-necked pheasants.

Landowners interested in raising and releasing pheasants have until Jan. 15, 2014 to submit an application. Landowners can apply annually for up to five consecutive years to establish pheasants.

Projects must comprise at least 100 contiguous acres of land and contain a combination of habitat components that include the types of cover and food upland game birds need to survive. Lands enrolled in the pheasant release program must allow free public access to hunt upland game birds during the season the releases take place.

Applications need to be mailed to FWP in Helena no later than Jan.15, 2014. Pheasants will be scheduled for release between Aug. 1 and Sept. 15, 2014.

Hunting preserves, lands that host a commercial hunting enterprise, and lands where hunting rights are leased or paid for are not eligible.

For more information, and an on-line application form, visit FWP's website at fwp.mt.gov—search "Upland Game Bird Enhancement Program," or contact Debbie Hohler at: 406-444-5674, or by e-mail: dhohler@mt.gov.

Deer Hunting Outlook

This season deer hunters in Montana will find another mix of hunting opportunities across the state when the general season opens Oct. 26.

On the upside, FWP wildlife biologists are reporting better fawn production and survival in many areas. Like other big game hunting, a nice cold front with plenty of snow should lead to some good hunting this season. On the downside, reports of another spotty outbreak of epizootic hemorrhagic disease, a fatal virus in deer that's caused by biting insects, are coming in from across Montana.

Antelope Hunting Outlook

Even as populations begin a slow rebound, hunters in Montana will have to work hard to bag an antelope again this season in many areas.

Montana's antelope archery season will close Oct. 11 and the general rifle season for antelope will run Oct. 12-Nov. 10.

Motorists Warned to Watch for Deer

Motorists are reminded to watch for deer along roadways, especially this time of year, because juvenile animals are dispersing from their home ranges.

October through early December is the peak period for deer-vehicle accidents. Motorists are advised to slow down and exercise caution after dark to reduce the likelihood of encounters with deer along roadways. Most deer-vehicle accidents occur primarily at dawn and dusk when deer are most often moving around.

Motorists should be aware of warning signs signaling deer are in the area. When you see one deer cross the road, look for a second or third deer to follow. Also, pay attention on roadways posted with Deer Crossing Area caution signs.

Deer-vehicle accidents are at times unavoidable. If an accident does happen, a new law passed by the 2013 state legislature eliminates the need for the driver involved in an accident to notify law enforcement authorities, if only the vehicle is damaged. Deer-vehicle accidents that involve injury or other property damage still must be reported.

In addition, a permit is still required to take parts or the whole carcass of a road-killed deer. Permits are free and available from game wardens and local law enforcement offices.

A few precautions can minimize chances of injury or property damage in a deer-vehicle crash.

Always wear your seat belt.

Don't swerve or take the ditch to avoid hitting a deer. Try to brake as much as possible and stay on the roadway. Don't lose control of your vehicle or slam into something else to miss the deer. You risk less injury by hitting the deer.

If you spot deer ahead, slow down immediately and honk your horn.

LOOK BEFORE YOU SHOOT

One of the rules for any hunter is "be sure of your target and beyond." This is certainly true when power lines are in the area, or using an insulator as a target. The effects are far reaching if an insulator is broken. A homeowner's life may be at risk, a person's life support equipment may fail and several families over a large area may be without power.

So look before you shoot.

Hunters: Know Your WMA Rules!

Montana’s Wildlife Management Areas (WMAs) provide for the protection of wildlife habitat and great opportunities for hunting this time of year. In order to manage for these goals, the Fish and Wildlife Commission has implemented important rules for public use on WMAs ranging from seasonal closures, to food storage orders, camping stay limits and more.

While hunters and other recreationists are required to abide by all the rules for public use, here are some of the key rules to remember (starting with the newest):

1. (*NEW) Food Storage – Bear resistant food storage is required on the following WMAs: Mount Haggin, Bear Creek, Canyon Creek, Wall Creek, Blacktail, Robb-Ledford, Gallatin, Fleecer Mountain, and Dome Mountain.
2. (*NEW) Camping – Stays are limited to 16 days in any 30 day period.
3. Winter Closures – Most Region 3 WMAs are closed from Dec. 2 to May 15 at noon each year (exceptions include Canyon Ferry, Lake Helena, Silver Gate, and a portion of Mount Haggin).
4. Hunting & Trapping – Hunting and trapping are allowed unless the WMA is closed for the winter or the season is closed as per Hunting or Trapping Regulations. Trappers must also receive written permission by FWP to trap on WMAs.

5. Vehicle Use –Vehicles are allowed only on designated open roads. Off road travel with a motorized vehicle is prohibited. Snowmobiles are allowed on established roads (except for portions of Mount Haggin which allow cross country snowmobile use).
6. Weed Free Feed – Only pelletized or certified weed free feed can be used on WMAs.
7. Firewood – Cutting down trees and shrubs is prohibited unless specifically authorized by FWP (i.e. Mount Haggin often allows the cutting of standing dead trees by permit when the WMA is open to the public). Downed trees may be used onsite only.
8. Animal Carcasses – Dumping of animal carcasses is prohibited (not including boned-out big game animal remains legally taken on site).
9. Littering – Littering is prohibited (including dumping of sewage waste from trailers, etc.).

Visit our website for more information on visiting specific WMAs.

Youth-Only Deer Hunt Comes Week Early • Oct. 17-18

Montana’s annual youth-only deer hunt—set for Oct 17-18—will come a week earlier this year.

The two-day special season is open to youngsters ages 12 to 15 who’ve passed a hunter safety course. Additionally, 11-year-olds who passed hunter safety may hunt if they’ll be 12 by Jan. 16, 2014.

“There’s been some confusion this year due to the scheduling of the statewide teachers’ convention,” said Ron Aasheim, Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks spokesman in Helena.

The youth hunt is always scheduled during the public schools’ two-day vacation in October, which is scheduled for Oct. 17-18 this year.

“The teachers’ convention usually falls on the Thursday and Friday just before the general season opener, but this year it’s a full week before the big game season opens on Oct. 26,” Aasheim said.

That also puts youth rifle hunters in the field during the final days of Montana’s archery season.

“Archers and our young hunters need to be aware of the overlapping seasons and plan accordingly,” Aasheim said.

Young hunters must wear hunter orange and follow all hunting district regulations, which may limit them to certain species or require a special permit.

To participate, youth hunters must be accompanied by an adult who must also wear hunter orange. The adult is not allowed to hunt during the youth-only deer hunt and should not carry a hunting rifle.

“This is the fourth year for the youth-only deer hunt,” Aasheim said. “It has proven to be a good opportunity to introduce kids to hunting. This year, remember the hunt is set for Oct. 17-18 and remember that archers may also be in the area looking for deer, so be extra careful.”

Hunters Reminded to Get Horses Inspected Before Traveling

The Montana Department of Livestock is reminding hunters that horses are required to have a brand inspection before crossing county lines.

According to Montana Code 81-3-211 (2), it is “unlawful to remove or cause to be removed...any livestock...unless the livestock have been inspected for brands by a state stock inspector or deputy state stock inspector and a certificate of the inspection has been issued...for the purpose of the transportation.”

“It’s a pretty common violation during hunting season,” said Paul Johnson, Montana Department of Livestock district inspector for Cascade, Lewis & Clark and Teton counties. “Producers move livestock all the time and are generally pretty familiar with transportation requirements, but sometimes hunters just don’t know.”

Not knowing could cost you $135, Johnson said, adding that he wouldn’t be surprised to see MDOL inspectors at popular trailheads, check stations and other places where hunters congregate.

Johnson recommends that hunters get their horses inspected in advance of their planned departure.

“The inspection is good for a year of movement, or you can get a lifetime, so there’s no good reason to wait until the last minute,” he said. “If you hunt on horses, just add getting a brand inspection to your check list.”

An annual inspection costs $6, and a lifetime is $25.

A map of brand inspectors by county can be found on the department’s web site; annual and lifetime inspections can also be issued at livestock markets (marked in blue on the map). If you need an inspector but don’t have access to the web, call (406) 444-9431 and we’ll track one down for you.

As Insurance Exchange Launches, State’s Consumer Protection Office Offers Tips to Avoid Scams

Submitted by Anastasia Burton

With the launch of Montana’s health insurance exchange this week, the Office of Consumer Protection at the state Department of Justice is offering tips to help Montanans avoid identity theft scams related to medical services and health insurance products.

“Montanans need to be aware that scammers may take advantage of the insurance exchange launch and attempt to trick people into revealing confidential information or into signing up for bogus product and services,” said Office of Consumer Protection Director Matt Dale. “When a large program launches or when a natural disaster strikes that increases charitable activities, we tend to see a rise in scam complaints.”

“Scammers need to know we take these problems very seriously in Montana,” Attorney General Tim Fox said. “One of my priorities during the 2013 Legislative Session was a bill to strengthen Montana’s consumer protection laws by increasing penalties for people or organizations that scam the elderly and mentally disabled. The evidence across the country is clear that scammers tend to target these groups particularly. While this new law took effect on Tuesday, awareness and attentiveness are still our best tools for combatting scams.”

The Office of Consumer Protection offers the following tips for avoiding scams:

Educate yourself. Go to www.healthcare.gov. You can learn more about protecting yourself from scams here.

Be cautious of sharing personal information such as your social security number or any bank account numbers.

Do not give your Social Security number, or any bank account or credit card information, to any company that you did not contact. Do not offer this information to companies you heard about through unsolicited advertisements.

Do not give out personal health history or share current health conditions or treatments you are or ever have received. No one should ask you for this.

You do not have to pay application or “sign-up” fees. The new health care exchange has trained assistants that will help you for free.

If you are on Medicare, you do not need a new card. If you are told you do, it could be a scam. Do not share your Medicare number with anyone who contacts you telling you need a new Medicare card.

If information is not being clearly explained to you, ask questions until you get a clear answer. Do not sign up for something you do not understand.

Do not respond to callers, emails, text messages, or advertisements that ask for your personal or financial information. If you get a message and are concerned about your account status, call the number on the back of your credit or debit card.

Never send or wire money to someone you do not know. It is best to do business with companies or websites that you know and trust. When buying items try to use payment options that offer protection such as credit cards. Avoid cash and wire transfer services.

To report a scam or to file a complaint with the Office of Consumer Protection, call 1-800-481-6896 or email contactocp@mt.gov. You can also file a consumer complaint online.
