Light a Life Campaign

Submitted by Staci Miller

This Christmas holiday will be very special for Klay and Stephanie Carroll's family. Tristam, Abel and Aiden will celebrate their first Christmas at home. Last year at this time, the triplets had just survived a complicated birth, and the babies spent the holiday in the neonatal intensive care unit in Denver. That uncertain time, although stressful and scary, was a miracle in itself. Without the emergency surgery in Houston a few months prior, they may not have survived at all. There were many heroes in this story, including each of you. The Foundation for Community Care Angel Fund provided part of the family's travel costs to Texas.

The Angel Fund helps local families with medical emergency assistance when they suffer from an illness or medical condition our local doctors feel would be best treated outside of the area. These families face worry, stress, and extreme financial burdens. The Angel Fund presents a tangible gift that represents the community's support and helps to ease the financial burden during a family's very serious health-care crisis.

The true greatness of giving to the Foundation for Community Care's Angel Fund isn't necessarily your monetary donation; it's your ability to get involved in the story of someone who needs your help. At one point or another in our own lives, we are all in need of a little help.

The Angel Fund brightened 28 families lives last year. With your help we can do more. When you make a gift to the Angel Fund, either a memorial gift or an honorary gift, we'll send a special Light A Life card to whomever you request. For every gift, an angel will be put on display at Sidney Health Center, and a colored light will be hung on the tree outside the Foundation for Community Care. In addition, every Light A Life gift will be entered into a monthly drawing for a floral arrangement generously donated by Reese & Ray's IGA.

Grandparents Colin & Teresa Livers asked that we send this message:

"We would like to extend a sincere thank you to each of you and remind you that what you do does make a difference in people's lives."

If you'd like to Light a Life this year, please stop by the Foundation for Community Care's office or call us at 488-2273.

Webinar to Protect Your Business When Using Background, Credit Report and Criminal History Information

A webinar to Protect your Business when using Background, Credit Report and Criminal History Information in Employment Decisions and General Business Operations will take place on Tuesday, January 7th 12:00 pm – 1:00 pm.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) released updated guidelines for employers that use information on criminal convictions or arrests in their hiring process. The use of background and credit reports in the hiring process requires employers to adhere to numerous requirements contained in the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) and Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act (FACTA) from disclosures to applicants to storage, destruction and security of the information. Failure to stay informed and in compliance can be a costly mistake.

The webinar, conducted by Steve Cape of Genius HR in Great Falls, will analyze and explain the EEOC guidance on the use of criminal records in the hiring process and the employer's responsibility to properly disclose that a background or credit report is going to be used in the hiring process. The goal of the webinar is to give attendees practical insights into how to protect their company.

The webinar will:

Discuss the requirements for justifying an adverse hiring decision based on criminal history.

Review the basics of the use of criminal history in the hiring process.

Reveal best practices for requiring background checks and credit reports.

Discuss when to ask applicants about criminal history.

Outline what information if any can be considered.

Examine what steps are strongly suggested by the EEOC to keep in compliance.

Cover what disclosures are required before asking for authorization to request a report.

Cover notices and steps must be taken prior to taking an adverse action based on information report. Cost $40, discounted to $25 for Montana Chamber members. For more information, contact the Montana Chamber office: 888-442-MONT (6668)

Assistance with Filling Out State Tax Returns Keeps Getting Better

By Shari Hegengruber

The Montana Department of Revenue provides assistance on individual income tax matters through its Internet website, call center, and statewide local offices. But did you know that they also have an income tax specialist who will offer state side training for the volunteers that enter tax returns? Brian Olsen has been travelling the great state of Montana for nine years, meeting with the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) folks and the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) to train the volunteers that assist the primarily elderly and/or lower income citizens of Montana with their tax returns. In addition to training the volunteers on tax preparation, Brian also meets with paid tax preparers and accountants to go over law changes, rule changes, and any recent legal decisions. He typically trains in Helena, Billings, Butte, Missoula, Great Falls, Kalispell, and Bozeman, but has been known to make a side trip to a smaller area if he happens to be nearby, such as stopping in Stevensville after providing training in Missoula. When asked why he performs this onsite training, Brian said "I like that it brings questions to us that the tax preparers see. The face-to-face interaction is great!" For questions, or to discuss these training sessions with Brian Olsen, please contact him at 406-444-2994 or email

Pertussis in Richland County

Submitted by Julie Brodhead

Richland County has another confirmed pertussis case (whooping cough) in an adult as of 12/19/13 which makes 10 for the year. The Richland County Public Health Department is working with health care providers, and other partners to identify close contacts and ensure that they are evaluated and treated as needed.

Pertussis is a contagious respiratory disease that in almost all cases can be effectively treated by a health care professional if identified early. Pertussis is spread through the air by coughing, and transmission is dependent on the closeness and length of contact. The disease is most serious in very young infants – especially those under the age of six months. Infants should be kept away from anyone diagnosed with pertussis or identified as a close contact of someone who has been diagnosed. Infants with any coughing illness should be promptly evaluated by their health care provider.

The Richland County Public Health Department's number one priority is to contain the spread of the disease. Health Department staff will identify close contacts of those who have been diagnosed with pertussis in order to lessen further spread of this disease. Mass treatment is not recommended or indicated at this time.

Pertussis begins with cold symptoms (runny nose, sneezing) and a cough. The cough continues which becomes much worse over one to two weeks and can last up to 6 weeks or more. Symptoms usually include a long series of coughs (coughing fits) followed by a whooping noise. However, older children, adults and very young infants may not develop the whoop. Coughing fits may also be followed by vomiting or turning blue. Immunized adults may have an irritating cough that does not go away even after using over the counter cough/cold medication. There is generally no fever. The cough is more often worse at night or with activity and may cause fatigue. Anyone experiencing these symptoms or a cough that has lasted two weeks or longer should contact their health care provider.

The most effective way to prevent pertussis is through vaccination. Pertussis vaccine is available for persons over the age of six weeks. It is included in the Center for Disease Control and Prevention's recommended routine childhood immunizations schedule. It is also very important for adults to receive the vaccination as well. No vaccine is 100 percent effective and no community is 100 percent vaccinated. However, we do know that vaccines are the most effective tool we have to reduce transmission of pertussis and that even immunized children who get sick tend to have less severe symptoms than children who are not immunized.

Additional information related to pertussis can be found on the Richland County Public Health Department's website on <http://www.richland.org/health> or the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention website at <http://www.cdc.gov/pertussis>.

Pertussis (Whooping Cough)

What is pertussis?

Pertussis, also called "whooping cough," is a disease caused by bacteria. Pertussis is usually mild in older children and adults, but it often causes serious problems in babies.

Who gets pertussis?

Pertussis is most common among babies, but anyone can get it. Pertussis can be hard to diagnose in babies, teens, and adults because their symptoms often look like a cold with a nagging cough. Babies often get pertussis from older children and adults.

What are the symptoms of pertussis?

Pertussis begins like a cold, with a runny nose, sneezing, mild fever, and cough that slowly gets worse. After one to two weeks, the cough gets worse and usually starts to occur in strong "coughing fits." This type of coughing may last for six or more weeks. There is generally no fever during this time. In young children, coughing fits are often followed by a whooping sound as they try to catch their breath. After coughing, a person may have difficulty catching their breath, vomit, or become blue in the face from lack of air. The coughing spells may be so bad that it is hard for babies to eat, drink, or breathe. The cough is often worse at night, and cough medicines usually do not help reduce the cough. Between coughing spells, the person often appears to be well. Some babies may only have apnea (failure to breathe) and can die from this. Adults, teens, and vaccinated children often have milder symptoms that mimic bronchitis and asthma.

How is pertussis spread?

The pertussis bacteria live in the nose, mouth, and throat, and are sprayed into the air when an infected person sneezes, coughs, or talks. Other people nearby can then inhale the bacteria. Touching a tissue or sharing a cup used by someone with pertussis can spread the disease. The first symptoms usually appear within 5 days to 21 days after a person is infected.

Is pertussis dangerous?

It can be, especially for babies. Pertussis can cause breathing problems (apnea), pneumonia, and swelling of the brain (encephalopathy), which can lead to seizures and brain damage. Pertussis can also cause death (rarely), especially in babies.

How is pertussis diagnosed?

A doctor may diagnose a patient with pertussis because of their symptoms. To confirm the diagnosis, the doctor will swab the back of the nose for laboratory testing.

How is pertussis treated?

Antibiotics are used to treat the infected person and their close contacts. In addition, it is helpful to get plenty of rest and fluids. A person hospitalized with severe pertussis may need special treatments to help them through prolonged periods of coughing.

Can pertussis be prevented?

Yes. Pertussis may be prevented in household members and close contacts of a person with pertussis by treating them with antibiotics, even if they have been vaccinated. Vaccination of children in early infancy as well as adults may also prevent pertussis. Pertussis vaccine is given along with diphtheria and tetanus vaccines in the same shot. When possible, babies should be kept away from people who are coughing since most hospitalizations and deaths occur in children less than three months of age. Babies with any coughing illness should be seen by a doctor.

Is The Pertussis Vaccine Safe?

Yes, it is safe for most people. Pertussis causes about 10 deaths to 20 deaths each year in the United States. That is why experts recommend that all babies and children should be given a full series of DTaP vaccine. Children 11 years and older and adults should receive a single booster dose of Tdap unless there is a medical reason not to receive the vaccine.

Mid-Rivers Donation Provides a Holiday Meal, CoBank Matches Gift

Mid-Rivers Communications recently made a $1000 donation to Action for Eastern Montana. This donation will be used to assist families in the Mid-Rivers and Action for Eastern Montana service areas in purchasing a holiday meal.

“Mid-Rivers feels it is important that families have an opportunity to enjoy a meal for the Holiday season, and we are happy to contribute to that cause,” stated Bill Wade, Mid-Rivers’ General Manager.

Mid-Rivers makes this donation using money that would otherwise be used to send Holiday greeting cards. Several years ago, Mid-Rivers decided that this money would be better used to assist area families with purchasing a Holiday meal. Action for Eastern Montana distributes the money to needy families as a gift certificate, which the families may use to shop at local grocery stores for ingredients needed to make a Holiday meal.

“The families are always so grateful for this donation, to have the opportunity to provide a nice meal for their family,” said Action for Eastern Montana Executive Director Brian Steffen. “We always receive several cards of gratitude.”

The Mid-Rivers donation to Action for Eastern Montana will also be matched with another $1000 from CoBank, a nationwide cooperative bank, through their Sharing Success Grant Program. This is the second year that CoBank has offered this grant opportunity. Mid-Rivers applied for the matching grant on behalf of Action for Eastern Montana.

“CoBank is very pleased to assist Mid-Rivers and Action for Eastern Montana in providing holiday meals for disadvantaged families throughout Mid-Rivers service area,” stated Lennie Blakeslee, a CoBank Vice President.

3rd Annual Cowboy Christmas was “The Best So Far”

By Tie Shank
This year's 3rd annual Cowboy Christmas Event was held in “The Well” on the campus of Williston State College (WSC) on Saturday December 7th. The event was put on by the WSC Agriculture Department. Vendors were set up to sell goods from 3pm-9pm in the Well, where the general public could go shopping. Those vendors in attendance were Rodan + Field Skin Care, Sophia Ann, Rusty Nail Creations, Glass Fusion Art, TERRA Certified Pure Therapeutic Grade Essential Oils, Veema Nutrition, Courtney Jacob Designs, It Works, Sweet Pea Baby Designs, Damsel in Defense, Scentsy, Tupperware, Kristi's Homemade Candy, Mary Kay, Thirty One and The Traveling Vinards.

The evening festivities started at 6pm with a cash bar social by the Legion Club. R. Rooster BBQ catered a delicious prime rib dinner and then Kim Murphy, Assistant Professor of Agriculture and Program Coordinator at Williston State College announced the Agriculture Ambassadors, the livestock producers that had either donated in the past or will be donating this coming year and then she gave out the awards for the 2013 Carcass Challenge.

The 2013-2014 WSC Agriculture Ambassadors are Melissa Clark, Brady Berntson, Bailey Berntson and Whitney Anderson all of Medicine Lake, Lauren Hekkel of Culberson, Tillie Alvershire and Brittany Jevne of Watford City and Katie Sperling of Williston. The Agriculture Ambassadors visit different schools to tell students how important agriculture is to EVERYONE!

The Carcass Challenge involves taking calves donated by livestock producers to the Hovde Feedlot in Arnegard. The calves are then fed the same rations, are weighed and processed monthly and the data is studied. When the calves are ready to be processed they are brought to Prairie Packing and are sold as quarters, halves or wholes. The money made from this is used to fund the Ag Ambassadors program at the college.

The producers that donated calves to the Carcass Challenge Program last year were: Mark & Shelley Ellis of Williston, Hovde Ranch (Lynn & Patti & Nathan & Kristi) of Arnegard, Aaron &Shelbey Jacobson of Noonan, Gary and Lori Tande of Battleview, Bradley Rosenquist of McGregor, Curt & Nancy Severson of Cartwright, Jonathan and Liz Enget of Stanley, Helen Glasoe of Wildrose, Brandon and Susan Erickson of Powers Lake, Lee & Kim Murphy of Williston, and Emmet O'Neil of Columbus.

The producers who have donated so far to the 2014 Carcass Challenge are: Mark & Shelley Ellis, Aaron &Shelbey Jacobson, Curt & Nancy Severson, Bradley Rosenquist, Gerald Rosenquist, Larry & Val Axelson, Helen Glasoe, Brent & Lee Svangstu, Dennis Jacobson, Shane Clark and Dave & Kristi Clark.

The awards were given to the producer that donated the calf with the highest average daily gain (Curt & Nancy Severson of Cartwright) and the calf with the carcass traits that would sell the highest if selling on the grid (Jon & Li Enget of Stanley).

Trent Loos, a 6th generation agriculturalist from Nebraska, spoke after all announcements and awards were distributed. Trent is a well-known agricultural advocate who travels worldwide talking to people and organizations about agriculture. He works hard to make sure the true facts are spread and works at eliminating the myths. After Loos spoke, the silent auction was wrapped up and the NFR played on the big screen for all to watch.

“This was the third year we've had the Cowboy Christmas and it was the best so far. We hope each year will continue to grow and be better than the previous one,” stated Kim Murphy. “We'd like to give a big thank you to the sponsors of the Carcass Challenge and Cowboy Christmas event; Northern Satellite, Northern Pulse Growers Association, ND Farm & Ranch Management Educators and Williston API.”

Montana's 2014-2015 Hunting Regulation Proposals Up For Review

Montanans will have a number of opportunities to review and comment on 2014-2015 hunting regulation proposals by going on online now or by attending one of 43 public meetings beginning in January. Last summer, FWP held seven meetings across the state and received nearly 1,200 comments that led to several new hunting season proposals. At the meetings in January, FWP will present proposals to aid the recovery of Montana's declining deer populations by reducing hunting pressure on antlerless mule deer and white-tailed deer. Wildlife managers surmise Montana's deer numbers are in decline statewide due to a number of unique circumstances—from the cyclical nature of mule deer populations to predation and disease and from drought to tough winter conditions. For the next two hunting seasons, with a few exceptions to address game damage issues, FWP proposes to: 1) convert general mule deer seasons to antlered-only; 2) eliminate most mule deer B, or antlerless, licenses; 3) eliminate white-tailed deer B licenses in Regions 4 and 6 and in most of Region 5. Details on the proposed hunting regulations are available on FWP's website at fwp.mt.gov. Click "2014-2015 Hunting Proposals," where one can find a complete calendar of meeting times and locations, and additional information on each proposal.

The proposals encompass hunting season dates and nearly every huntable species in the state, including antelope, black bear, big-horn sheep, bison, deer, elk, moose, mountain goat, mountain lion, and a variety of upland game birds. Comments may be submitted at the local meetings, which are set for Jan 4-23, 2014 statewide, or online at fwp.mt.gov. Written comments may be sent to: FWP—Wildlife Bureau, Attn: Public Comment, P.O. Box 200701, Helena, MT 59620-0701. For questions not covered on the website, call 406-444-2612. Comments are due by 5 PM on Jan. 24, 2014. The Fish & Wildlife Commission will adopt final regulations in February.

COOPERATIVE

The Lineman's Christmas Eve

*'Twas the night before Christmas
And all through the house
Not a creature was stirring
Cause the power was out.
How could this happen?
How could it be?
The house is all dark,
Even lights on the tree.
The lineman's asleep
all cozy and warm,
His power apparently
Spared by the storm.
Deep into slumber
But soon to awake,
Cause a tree on the line
Has caused it to break.
The calls swamp the office.
"MY POWER IS OUT!"*

*Get them here quickly,
cause I carry clout."
The dispatcher calls
With a hint of despair
to tell the lineman
The need for repair.
In three or four hours
The trouble is found:
The road didn't pass
Where the tree went down.
Out in the snow
They carry their tools
And fix the fault
As they learned in the schools
They leave the scene
and drive back in the dawn.
The line is now clear
And all power is on.*

*And now it's the morning
The kids shout with glee,
Their eyes shining bright
As the lights on the tree.
The lineman is home now
As tired as can be.
The storm has ignored
His Christmas Eve.
He's not asking for praise
Or for you to applaud,
Cause according to him
It's just part of the job.
But please just remember
As you pick up the horn
And you call to the office
He may be out in the storm.*

The Sidney branch of Pacific Steel & Recycling, an employee owned company, fulfilled the wishes of kindergarten students at Central Elementary last week. USDA Designates 31 Counties in North Dakota as Primary Natural Disaster Areas with Assistance to Farmers and Ranchers in Adjacent States

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has designated 31 counties in North Dakota as primary natural disaster areas due to losses caused by multiple disasters that include spring snowstorms, significant rainfall, unseasonably cool spring, frosts and freeze damage, flooding, ground saturation, severe thunderstorms, hail damage, high winds, weather-related insects and diseases, and mid-summer drought conditions that began Jan. 1, 2013, and continues. Those counties are: Benson, Grand Forks, McLean, Pembina, Bottineau, Grant, Mercer, Pierce, Burke, Kidder, Morton, Ramsey,

Burleigh, Logan, Mountrail, Renville, Cavalier, McHenry, Nelson, Rolette, Divide, McIntosh, Oliver, Sioux, Emons, Stutsman, Towner, Traill, Walsh, Ward, Wells. Our hearts go out to those North Dakota farmers and ranchers affected by recent natural disasters,” said Agriculture Secretary Tom

Vilsack. “President Obama and I are committed to ensuring that agriculture remains a bright spot in our nation’s economy by sustaining the successes of America’s farmers, ranchers, and rural communities through these difficult times. We’re also telling North Dakota producers that USDA stands with you and your communities when severe weather and natural disasters threaten to disrupt your livelihood.”

Farmers and ranchers in the following counties in North Dakota also qualify for natural disaster assistance because their counties are contiguous. Those counties are:

Adams, Dunn, Hettinger, Stark, Barnes, Eddy, LaMoure, Steele, Cass, Foster, McKenzie, Williams, Dickey, Griggs, Sheridan.

Farmers and ranchers in the following counties in Minnesota, Montana, and South Dakota also qualify for natural disaster assistance because their counties are contiguous. Those counties are:

Minnesota, Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Polk, Montana, Sheridan, South Dakota Campbell.

All counties and parishes listed above were designated natural disaster areas on Dec. 18, 2013, making all qualified farm operators in the designated areas eligible for low interest emergency (EM) loans from USDA’s Farm Service Agency (FSA), provided eligibility requirements are met. Farmers in eligible counties have eight months from the date of the declaration to apply for loans to help cover part of their actual losses. FSA will consider each loan application on its own merits, taking into account the extent of losses, security available and repayment ability. FSA has a variety of programs, in addition to the EM loan program, to help eligible farmers recover from adversity.

The Obama Administration remains committed to helping the thousands of farm families and businesses struggling with natural disasters. Actions taken by Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack in 2012 to provide assistance to producers impacted by the drought included:

Extended emergency grazing on Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acres, freeing up a record 2.8 million acres and as much as $200 million in forage and feed for ranchers during a challenging time. Purchased $170 million of pork, lamb, chicken, and catfish for federal food nutrition assistance programs, including food banks, to help relieve pressure on American livestock producers and bring the nation’s meat supply in line with demand. Reduced the emergency loan rate, from 3.75 percent to 2.875 percent, as well as making emergency loans available earlier in the season. Allowing haying or grazing of cover crops without impacting the insurability of planted 2013 spring crops. USDA worked with crop insurance companies to provide flexibility to farmers, and one-third of all policyholders took advantage of the extended payment period. Authorized $16 million in existing funds from the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program (WHIP) and Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) to target states experiencing exceptional and extreme drought. Transferred $14 million in unobligated program funds into the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) to help farmers and ranchers rehabilitate farmland damaged by natural disasters and for carrying out emergency water conservation measures in periods of severe drought. Authorized haying and grazing of Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP) easement areas in drought-affected areas where haying and grazing is consistent with conservation of wildlife habitat and wetlands. Lowered the penalty on CRP acres used for emergency haying or grazing, from 25 percent to 10 percent in 2012. Simplified the Secretarial disaster designation process and reduced the time it takes to designate counties affected by disasters by 40 percent.

Additional programs available to assist farmers and ranchers include the Emergency Conservation Program, Federal Crop Insurance, and the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program. Interested farmers may contact their local USDA Service Centers for further information on eligibility requirements and application procedures for these and other programs. Additional information is also available online at <http://disaster.fsa.usda.gov>.

Secretary Vilsack also reminds producers that Congress has not funded the five disaster assistance programs authorized by the 2008 Farm Bill. These are SURE; the Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP); the Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honey Bees, and Farm-Raised Fish (ELAP); the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP); and the Tree Assistance Program (TAP). Production losses due to disasters occurring after Sept. 30, 2011, are not eligible for disaster program coverage.

FSA news releases are available on FSA’s website at www.fsa.usda.gov via the “Newsroom” link.

Kendra Iversen Places In Top Three In State Competition

Submitted by Michelle Pawelski

Kendra Iversen, a Vocal Music Education from Sidney, Mont., was one of three Black Hills State University students to place in the top three in the collegiate composition category of the South Dakota Music Teachers Association (SDMTA) competition.

"I'm very proud of the work they've done," said Dr. Symeon Waseen, assistant professor of music. "I feel that this is the beginning of a strong tradition of composition here at BHSU. Composition is my passion, and I am very excited to share it with willing students in the region."

According to Waseen, composition students submit a work they have written to the composition chair who sends it to a judge. The judge then reviews the submissions and chooses the top in each age category.

Raquel Sweat placed first. Sweat's piece was titled "Frive" and was a piano piece using the 20th century technique of quartal and quintal harmonies--harmonies that are based on the intervals of fourths and fifths.

"We all wrote our own pieces using a 20th century technique we learned in Advanced Music Theory II. We didn't have any rules and could use any instrument we wanted. I wrote for piano, so I could play it myself," Sweat said. "I named my piece 'Frive,' which is like if the words four and five had a baby."

Jesse Dunaway placed second, and Kendra Iversen got an honorable mention.

Dunaway's piece "Messaggio de Dio," which is Italian for "The Message of God," started with two vocals and later was revised to four vocals for a full men's choir. Like Sweat, Dunaway also performed his piece himself along with some fellow students. Iversen chose BHSU students Matt Adair, music major from Sheridan, Wyo., and Kortney Brunner, music education major from Nisland, to perform her composition.

"My piece was a piano and vocal piece," Iversen said. "I used the 20th century theme, with a lot of tone rose, serialism, and word paintings in my piece."

The collegiate composition category of SDMTA is a competition that provides opportunities for instructors and music students to gain recognition of their musical growth as an undergraduate or high school student. SDMTA holds student competitions every year. The competitions are for instrumental/vocal performance and composition.

"I am very thrilled that BHSU students received all of the top places for the competition," Sweat said. "Dr. Waseen is such an inspiration to all of us and is a wonderful instructor. When I came to BHSU, I was completely against composition and improvisation, but he helped us learn enough to feel confident in composing our own pieces. He has taught me so much about piano and theory, and it is because of him that I want to pursue my master's degree in music theory after graduation."

Founded in 1883, Black Hills State University is a master's level University that promotes excellence in teaching and learning; supports research, creative and scholarly activities and provides service to the state, region, nation and global community. The University enrolls 4,464 students from each of the 66 counties in South Dakota, 44 states, and 29 different countries. BHSU is the third largest University in South Dakota and is the only comprehensive University in western South Dakota.
