Sidney Eagles Soar Above The Competition

SHS Wrestlers Bring Home Multiple Wins From State

"Three-peat!" exclaimed Sidney wrestling coach Guy Melby during the team state wrestling after party at the Hampton Inn in Billings on Feb. 15. The Sidney High School wrestling team has once again taken the top Class A spot at the MHSA All-Class State Wrestling tournament in Billings for the third year in a row.

The 2019-2020 season has ended in historic fashion once again for the Eagles. The 15 of the 17 Eagle wrestlers in the tournament placed fourth or higher, a record for the Sidney squad. Going seven for seven in the consolation semi-finals, another record for the team. And finally, the overall team score of 340 points is a MHSA All-Class State Wrestling tournament record. Sidney more than doubled the second place team's points, which was Frenchtown with a score of 156.5. Miles City followed in third with a score of 145.5.

This year's Class A division at the MHSA All-Class State Wrestling tournament was led by Sidney throughout the weekend. At the end of the first day of the tournament Sidney held a commanding lead with 147.5 points. Miles City and Frenchtown were tied for second with 83.5 points each.

The second day of the tournament is where Sidney extended their lead & dominance over the competition. "We take pride in wrestling the second day better than the first," stated Melby. "Our team is built for two days of competition." This philosophy was on full display at this year's tournament as eight wrestlers moved on to the finals and every wrestler in the consolation semis won their matches with six pins and one decision. Every Sidney placer finished at or above their state ranking before the tournament.

Sidney ended the championship finals with seven state champions. Jordan Darby beat Cameron Pleninger, Havre, at 132# by a 7-4 decision. Aden Graves was a two time state champ beating Triston Davis, Corvallis, by fall in 1:38. Graves was also awarded the Jug Beck Quick Fall winner for the state tournament. At 182# Riley Waters won his second state title beating Cameron Younger, Laurel, by decision 12-7. Two time state champion Jett Jones pinned Tate Jones, Frenchtown, in 2:28 at 205#. Sidney heavyweight Brodey Skogen earned first place beating Tyler Harms, Miles City, by decision 4-0. Owen Lonski was state champ at 103# defeating Frenchtown's Landen Stewart by decision 5-4. Kaiden Cline picked up his second state title at 120# besting Eli Warner, Frenchtown by decision 8-2.

Under Coach Melby the Eagles have 11 state championships and 8 second place finishes. "This year was kind of a fairy tale deal. I'm happy for the kids, the coaching staff and the community," said Melby. The team has already begun preparing for next year's season with morning weight training. They will continue training in the off season with tournaments in Denver, Iowa and Virginia Beach.

Athletes And Alcohol

Youth who engage in sports and physical recreational activities enjoy many benefits from their involvement. Athletes who engage in a healthy lifestyle can see improved mental and physical health and have a positive self-image and self esteem. They achieve greater academic success and experience less anxiety and depression. Athletes who make healthy choices are less likely to use alcohol, tobacco or other substances.

As parents, caregivers, friends and family members know, athletes dedicate a large amount of time and both physical and mental effort when they are involved in sports. They want to be the best teammate and best version of themselves in order to win.

Consuming alcohol, tobacco or other drugs contradicts each of those goals these athletes are trying so hard to accomplish.

Alcohol impairs motor skills and decreases strength, power and sprint performance. It slows reaction time and impairs precision, equilibrium, hand-eye coordination, accuracy, balance, judgment, information processing, focus, stamina, strength, power and speed for up to 72 hours (three days). Alcohol also slows recovery of your muscles.

The bottom line is that alcohol, tobacco and other drugs are detrimental to sports performance because of how they affect the body during exercise. Athletes who exercise too soon after drinking alcohol can make dehydration worse; as they sweat the body temperature rises. Combined, sweating and the diuretic effect of exercise make dehy-dration much more likely. With many negative effects of alcohol and other drugs on an athlete's body and brain, the Partnership for Promise Coalition is encouraging parents and caregivers to not only talk to them about these dangerous side effects, but how their student athlete can strive to be the best and healthiest version of themselves. For more information on how to talk to your student athlete about alcohol, tobacco and other drugs, visit Parentingmontana.org. Visit the Richland County Partnership for Promise on Facebook to learn more about our mission to help our local youth.

MT Attorney General Candidate Graybill Visits Sidney

Montana Democratic Attorney General candidate Raph Graybill visited with voters at the Rod Iron Grill, Feb. 16. Graybill is running against fellow democrat Kimberly Dudik in the primary to be held June 2.

Graybill is a 5th generation Montanan from Great Falls and a skilled public attorney who has been at the forefront of some of the most high profile legal actions in the state in recent years. Graybill is Gov. Steve Bullock's Chief Legal Counsel and has led the governor's efforts to fight dark money in politics, protect public lands, defend workers' rights and our Montana Con-

"I want to reimagine what the office is about," stated Graybill. "The constitution framers intended the AG to be an independent voice. The attorney general is a check on power."

to take on many of the issues affecting the lives of every Montana resident. He wants to return the office to the role of being a counterbalance of government power & corporate actions that negatively affect residents. He feels he is uniquely suited to take on this task because of his experience challenging, and winning, high profile cases as Gov. Bullock's Chief Legal Counsel. One example of this is the case involving dark money reporting and the IRS

Graybill's top priorities in office will be addressing healthcare costs, telecom & broadband access & cost and farm & ranch monopolies. "A one man shop with the law on their side can accomplish a lot. I'm someone that's been there," he said. "If officials are not fighting for you, then the people are not getting their money's worth."

For more information on Graybill and his campaign visit his campaign website at raphgraybill.com.

Representative Krautter Returns From Week Of Informative Meetings In Washington, D.C.

Representative Joel Krautter was recently in Washington, D.C., Feb. 3-8 with Class IV of the REAL Montana leadership development program that he is currently participating in. REAL (Resource Education & Agricultural Leadership) Montana is a two-year educational program administered through Montana State University Extension, which has a focus on creating a network of informed rising Montana leaders on the issues of agriculture and natural resources. There are currently 20 participants in the program, from all across Montana.

A highlight of the week included an afternoon of briefings at the White House from various Trump administration policy advisors. Topics covered included the administration's reforms to the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), which will speed up permitting processes. Other items discussed included the administration's work to advance agriculture through better trade agreements and intergovernmental relationships between the White House and state and local government officials, with a focus on ways to further streamline outdated and redundant regulations.

Krautter also met Ambassador Gregg Doud with the US Office of Trade Representative who is the Chief Agricultural Negotiator. The discussion with Ambassador Doud focused on the recently signed U.S.-Mexico-Canada (USMCA) trade agreement, as well as continuing work on trade with China and Japan. These trade agreements directly benefit local farmers and ranchers

The group also held meetings during the week with Montana's Congressional delegation, as well as representatives from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, National Mining Association, American Farm Bureau, and Forest Service.

"When I'm a part of high-profile meetings, like the ones we held in Washington, I'm always proud to be representing Richland County and the concerns of our area in those conversations. While it was unfortunate to miss our local Republican Lincoln-Reagan dinner, those Washington meetings were very informative and it was good to continue to build better relationships with people in the various organizations," said Krautter.

Missoula Children's Theatre Brings "Jack And The Beanstalk" Play To Sidney Youth

The Missoula Children's Theatre was in town for all of last week. Sixty Sidney youth were cast between grades K-12 for their role in "Jack & the Beanstalk." Performances were held Friday evening and Saturday afternoon at Sidney Middle School. Preparing for the shows required coordination, cooperation, and determination from everyone involved. They had to learn the ins and outs of their role in short order, including their script.

There were smiles and laughs from all corners of the auditorium and the students seemed to gain a lot from the experience, to the delight of attendees. Cast member Annette Davis, who played the strong lady, said it was the role she most admired. When asked after Friday's show what she would do differently for Saturday's performance she replied, "I will be funnier." As the students become more comfortable being in the spotlight, everything becomes more natural - valuable experiences for kids as they grow.

The Sidney Public Schools and Missoula Children's Theatre hope to follow up with another play next year.

Rangeland Seeding To Manage Invasive Weeds Focus Of ARS Brownbagger

Submitted by Beth Redlin

Ranchers and rangeland managers fight continual battles with invasive weeds and are always looking for new ways to keep them at bay. USDA Weed Ecologist Matt Rinella has been studying the use of seeding rangeland as a means for managing weeds over the long term.

Dr. Rinella will share his findings this coming Friday, Feb. 21 at the US-DA-ARS Northern Plains Agricultural Research Laboratory (NPARL), Sidney. Rinella is the third speaker in that facility's annual winter BrownBagger Series. His talk runs from noon-1 p.m. at NPARL, 1500 N. Central Ave. Sidney.

He will be discussing the use of rangeland seeding to address invasive weed

The Case Of The Disappearing Snacks

By Lois Stephens

My husband and I enjoy snacks. We like our the responsibility himself. cookies, crackers, nuts of treats. When we have such delightful goodies in the house, we keep them in a specific spot so we both know where to check when the snack monster strikes.

My husband also has a special cupboard in his shop that he reserves for tasty tidbits of all description. He calls his cupboard his 'secret stash', which in my opinion happens to be the worst kept secret on the mountain. The neighbors know about his socalled 'secret' hidey-hole and where to check if they need a fast snack. They will often come over to visit my husband when he is puttering around in the shop, but I figure they come to munch, not to visit.

Of course, the snacks waiting in the house, along with my husband's open secret and the treasure trove of delectable treats found in his little spot leads to difficulties for me. When the treats in the house disappear, yours truly gets the blame for demolishing most of the package of whatever the goodie happens to be, even though I point out that the bag has been open for quite some time, it has been sitting on the counter just waiting for greedy little hands to snake into the package and extract a piece or two, and it isn't my fault if he does not avail himself of this fact. Which of course he does help himself when the mood strikes, but he just conveniently forgets how much he forages and he finds it more convenient to blame me when our little sack of nibbles seems to evaporate into thin air rather than to shoulder some of Accusations get even all shapes and sizes, can- worse when it comes to his dies, and other assorted stash in the shop. Every time he comes home from town, he hauls in bags of foodstuffs to store in his most non-secret of hiding places.

Naturally I have to investigate to see what sorts of tidbits he has purchased, as I feel it is a good practice to know the available food items in his shop. He will buy snacks that are totally unpalatable, such as fake meat (I put salami and bologna in this category), disgusting canned items such as artificial spaghetti, odd kinds of hard candy that will sit for months waiting for some unsuspecting person to eat, but he also does quite a fine job of purchasing treats I DO adore, such as chocolates, crackers, sunflower seeds, and the like.

If I have to enter the shop for any reason, and if the munchies make an appearance at the same time, I have been known to take a handful or two or five of some of his more enticing treats. After all, why did he buy them, if not to eat? We would not want anything to go stale, now would we? Then of course I receive the blame when the cookie jar goes dry.

I get accused of overindulging. Never mind that my husband sits in his shop all day some days watching YouTube on his computer and all the while munching his way through a huge assortment of various food items as he watches. There is no doubt in my mind that he liberally indulges in his choice of snacks, and these tidbits disappear because of his hand in the snack bucket, not mine.

I thought at one point it would be hilarious to doctor some homemade brownies with some sort of purgative to discourage theft and to find out who really eats the treats. However, I'm afraid I'd forget what I'd done and eat the brownies myself. The neighbors are less than helpful in this matter. I do believe they purposely encourage discord in this household as they delight in purchasing treats and doling them out with specific instructions as to whom gets which snack. For example, they will give my husband ginger cookies, Mars bars, and maybe some praline pecans, telling him that those goodies are his. They hand me chocolate oatmeal cookies, a large bar of chocolate, and perhaps a bag back, and casually inquire a few days later as to what snacks remain in the house and what is left in the shop. It doesn't help that when they come visit, as a good hostess I offer them some of the treats they gave us, and since we generally visit with them in the house and not in the shop, my treats are the ones that get consumed. Then naturally I get blamed for demolishing these tidbits.

Life just isn't fair sometimes. At least I can console myself with a cookie.

as to how long a particular brand of cookie, or a last at our house, and who will do the majority of the snacking.

It is a good thing we It has become a joke have a dog. She gets blamed for the bulk of the missing items, and she jar of nuts or some other never denies it. She just of cashews. Then they sit equally delicious treat will looks at us and waits for another bite of cracker to come her way.

Consumer Alerts on Tax Scams

Note that the IRS will never:

- Call to demand immediate payment using a specific payment method such as a prepaid debit card, gift card or wire transfer. Generally, the IRS will first mail you a bill if you owe any taxes.
- Threaten to immediately bring in local police or other lawenforcement groups to have you arrested for not paying.
- Demand that you pay taxes without giving you the opportunity - to question or appeal the amount they say you owe.

 Ask for credit or debit card numbers over the phone.

2020 National Hard Spring Wheat Show

The 2020 National Hard Spring Wheat Show was held Feb. 13 at the Williston ARC. The conference included seminars on weather, wheat production, soil health, weed control and the popular 5th grade bread fair. Jay & Jerry Doan, Black Leg Ranch near McKenzie, ND, spoke at the awards dinner. Their presentation was "Regenerating Soil Health While Improving the Bottom Line" and "Diversifying Ag: Thinking Outside the Fence."

Jerry Doan, Black Leg Ranch, speaks about the importance of soil health in improving the value of the land for and health of crops, livestock and people.

Jay Doan, Black Leg Ranch, talked about diversifying in Ag to turn a profit. The Black Leg Ranch holds weddings, brews beer, rents cabins for agri-tourism and hunting outfitting as well as ranching.

USDA Reminds Producers Of Feb. 28 Deadline For Conservation Reserve Program General Signup

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 14 – The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) reminds agricultural producers interested in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) 2020 general signup to enroll by Feb. 28. This signup is available to farmers and private landowners who are either enrolling for the first time or re-enrolling for another 10-15year term.

"This is the first opportunity for general sign up since 2016, and we want producers and private landowners to know that we have just one month remaining," FSA Administrator Richard Fordyce said. "It is critical that they make their final determinations and submit offers very soon to take advantage of this popular conservation program."

Farmers and ranchers who enroll in CRP receive yearly rental payments for voluntarily establishing long-term, resource-conserving plant species, such as approved grasses or trees (known as "covers"), which can control soil erosion, improve water quality and develop wildlife habitat on marginally productive agricultural lands.

CRP has 22 million acres enrolled, but the 2018 Farm Bill lifted the cap to 27 million acres.

Signed into law in 1985, CRP is one of the largest private-lands conservation programs in the U.S. It was originally intended to primarily control soil erosion and potentially stabilize commodity prices by taking marginal lands out of production. The program has evolved over the years, providing many conservation and economic benefits. Marking its 35th anniversary in 2020, CRP has had many successes, including:

 Preventing more than 9 billion tons of soil from eroding, enough soil to fill 600 million dump trucks;

 Reducing nitrogen and phosphorous runoff relative to annually tilled cropland by 95 and 85% respectively;

• Sequestering an annual average of 49 million tons of greenhouse gases, equal to taking 9 million cars off the road:

• Creating more than 3 million acres of restored wetlands while protecting more than 175,000 stream miles with riparian forest and grass buffers, enough to go around the world seven times; and

• Benefiting bees and other pollinators and increased populations of ducks, pheasants, turkey, bobwhite quail, prairie chickens, grasshopper sparrows and many other birds.

The CRP continuous signup is ongoing, which enables producers to enroll for certain practices. FSA plans to open the Soil Health and Income Protection Program, a CRP pilot program, in early 2020, and the 2020 CRP Grasslands signup runs from March 16-May 15.

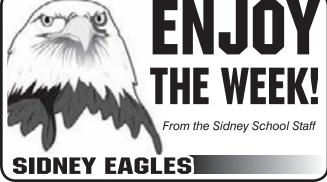

To enroll in CRP, contact your local FSA county office or visit fsa.usda.gov/crp. To locate your local FSA office, visit farmers.gov/service-locator.
