'Unite A City' Events in Watford City Feb. 10-11

By Meredith Brose

There will be two entertaining events for the whole community of Watford City and beyond. The first night is an all-night adventure that will take place on Friday, February 10th at the Rough Rider Center in Watford City from 10:00 p.m. until 6:15 a.m. It is designed for participants twelve years of age and older. Tickets are currently being sold for $20 each before February 8th and those bought after that will be $25. Call Kelby at (701) 339-5471 to make your reservations and the tickets will be distributed on the night of the event.

On this first night there will be a wide variety of activities including musical artists from Christian Pop to Hip Hop, add BMX teams and a professional skateboarder demonstrating jumps and flips that will make hearts race, listen to inspirational speakers, try swimming and ice skating, and play games such as basketball, volleyball, lazer tag, and dodgeball. Don't forget the pizza, and you have an all-night excursion that will "unite a city" according to Josh Brewer, the program director.

The second event will be held on Saturday, February 11th at 7:00 p.m. at the Watford City Assembly of God. It is a free concert with athletic performances. It will be a way to "reach into your heart and hit a reset button bringing people back to the Father to find true love and hope" said Kelby Timmons, host. Musical artists Cade Thompson, Soleil Bashale, Remedy Drive, and Bobby Bugattii will perform along with the BMX team, Dirt Bros. A professional skateboarder will also perform with his risking-it-all ramps. The variety will have an appeal for everyone. "We're trying to change the world with top quality entertainment."

Watford City Mayoral Special Election Feb. 21

By Meredith Brose

It's time for a special Mayoral Election in Watford City: Tuesday, February 21st. Brent Sanford was selected to be Governor Doug Burgum's running mate as Lieutenant Governor of North Dakota and has resigning as Mayor of Watford City. Therefore two candidates are in the running to be the city's next leader.

Greg Schuetze, an electrical contractor in Watford City said of the city, "It's better than any other place I have worked." He described the city as vibrant and welcoming to everybody and attributes this accomplishment to the "historically good leadership." He wants to continue on this path by establishing a team with the staff, community, and neighboring communities. As a member of the general public he has noticed a low response from them and would like to increase their involvement.

His plan of action is to be ready with an Active Emergency Response Plan in place in order to react in a timely and effective manner to natural disasters such as high winds, blizzards, tornadoes, snow storms, and flooding. He would also like to improve City Council meetings to better implement Robert's Rules of Order so that a motion is made first and then a discussion will take place. He thinks this will help the meetings to run smoothly and will enhance the public's involvement in the meetings.

Schuetze says, "I have spent a great deal of time educating myself about how government works." He has focused on rural leadership and has met with legislators in Washington, D.C. and Bismarck. He enjoys discussing challenges with people to find a solution.

Justin Voll, president of First International Bank and Trust in Watford City graduated from Watford High School, attended North Dakota State University and has lived in Watford City for fifteen years. During the past ten years he has been active in the City Council which he thinks is going in the right direction. He said, "There is a lot of infrastructure and it is set up better for handling growth of roads and meeting the need of water and sewer improvements".

Voll has a working knowledge of the issues at hand and the history of why things were done in certain manners. He said there will be more continuity with him. He is very impressed with the two "awesome" former mayors and, "If I can do half as good a job as them, I will feel good about myself." He has a team in place with whom he has an excellent working relationship.

The Watford City Chamber is holding a Meet the Candidates forum in conjunction with their network luncheon on Wednesday, February 1 at Teddy's Residential Suites Lounge located at 113 9th Ave. SE at 11:30 am. Lunch is $11 per person or free for Watford City Chamber Silver and above members.

Progressive Agriculture Safety Day at Lambert School

By Wendy Becker-MSU Extension

According to the National Children's Center for Rural and Agriculture Health and Safety, about every 3 days a child dies in an ag-related accident. Every day 38 children are injured in an ag related accident, yet 80% of those injuries were not from working when the injury occurred.

For the past 22 years the Progressive Agriculture Foundation has trained hundreds of volunteers about agriculture safety and how to hold a Progressive Agriculture Safety Day in your community. Lambert School was the community that got to learn about ag safety this past Wednesday.

Participants included the K-12 and faculty. The curriculum provided by the foundation encourages hands-on activities so that everyone can learn and participate. The sections held in Lambert were ATV Safety with Ken Nelson from MSU Extension. He discussed how to properly fit to the ATV, wearing the right helmet, and how the machines work. Tim Fine from the Richland County Extension Office taught about chemical safety with a chemical look-a-like station. He quizzed the students to guess which were household and farm chemicals vs. poisonous ones. Also from the Richland County Extension Office was Josie Evenson talking about Fire Safety. The students practiced what to do in a fire emergency and how to stop-drop-and-roll away from a fire and if your clothes or yourself are caught on fire. In the first aid station, Andy Carda from the Richland County Ambulance Service spoke about what to do if you have an accident and need to take care of a wound. Then they practiced bandaging a wound. Julie Goss from the Richland County Soil Conservation District brought an erosion and water trailer that is set up to show how water can erode soils away from banks. The students were taught where homes should be constructed, how grass and shrubs can help with streambank erosion, and how flowing water can erode roadways and bridges if not properly constructed. Linda Bengochea presented what to do if you are stuck in a blizzard and how to prepare for winter by wearing the proper winter gear and putting together a winter survival kit. Shane Keller from Nortana Grain demonstrated how grain moves causing someone to become immobile which can only take 5 seconds, and ultimately "drown." Students tried to lift a submerged object, showing the powerful weight grain can have.

After the classes went through the small scale rotations, they were broken up into two large groups to view the demonstration from the Lower Yellowstone REA. A trailer held a powerline display that was able to portray what can actually happen if you touch power lines. They discussed what to do if you come across downed power lines, or if you run into one with your vehicle. They also showed us why it is important to stay in your car if this happens.

Julie Goss from the Richland County Soil Conservation District brought an erosion and water trailer that is set up to show how water can erode soils away from banks.

Don Smies from the Richland County Health Department Injury Prevention Program, spoke to the older students about roadway safety and had them try an obstacle course with goggles that assimilated being intoxicated. He also spoke to the younger classes about bike safety and hand signals to use. They were properly fitted with bike helmets.

The final speakers came from the Richland County Sheriff's office. Sidney Police Officer Keller, and MHP Obergfell came to talk about gun safety and the dangers of texting and driving. Not only texting and driving but distracted driving in general. Obergfell stressed heavily about the consequences an accident can be, not only for you, but for your family and friends.

At the beginning of the program, all of the students, volunteers, staff, and speakers were given t-shirts provided by the Progressive Agriculture Foundation. The foundation also provided insurance for the safety day and take-home bags that were filled with donated items from local business: Nortana, The Lions Den, LYREA, Stockman Bank, Seitz Insurance, Lambert FFA, the Lambert school, MSU Extension, Richland County Health Department, and the Fort Peck Youth and Family Activities Committee. The Lambert FFA held a supper fundraiser at one of the basketball games to raise money for each student to have a first-aid kit and bike helmet.

The Progressive Agriculture Safety Day program is the largest rural safety and health education program for children in North America. Their mission is to provide education and training to make farm, ranch and rural life safer and healthier for children and their communities.

Importance of private lands to conservation focus of ARS BrownBagger talk

By Beth Redlin

More than two-thirds of the land area in the United States is privately owned, with 914 million acres in farms or ranches. These working lands include much of the country's remaining open space and habitat, making them vitally important to the conservation of soil, water, and fish and wildlife resources.

But, while private lands provide society with valuable benefits and aid in conservation of natural resources, maintaining these private working lands is not easy, particularly in this part of the country, according to Michelle Downey, a "Farm Bill Biologist" with Pheasants Forever, Inc.. Eastern Montana landowners wanting to institute conservation projects on their lands face a multitude of challenges, she notes, including harsh climates, market fluctuations and lack of skilled laborers.

But help is available, Downey says, through a unique partnership between conservation-oriented groups like Pheasants Forever, government conservation programs and administering agencies, and private landowners.

Downey will be sharing information on that partnership and the importance of private lands to conservation efforts on Friday, Feb. 3, as the second speaker in the 2017 winter BrownBagger Series sponsored by the USDA-Agricultural Research Service's Northern Plains Agricultural Research Laboratory (NPARL) in Sidney.

Downey's presentation, entitled "The Value of Private Lands to Society and Conservation," will be held Friday from Noon to 1 pm at the Sidney research lab, 1500 N. Central Avenue.

In an effort to support Montana private lands, Downey says her job is to connect farmers, ranchers, and landowners with voluntary conservation programs and provide technical assistance and best management practices to aid them in meeting their land use goals while at the same time maintaining or bolstering wildlife habitat. To accomplish that goal, farm bill biologists like Downey get to know the ins and outs of federal, state, and local conservation programs in order to assist farmers and ranchers in finding the right program to meet their goals.

Downey is housed at the USDA Service Center in Scobey and works cooperatively with the Farm Service Agency and the Natural Resources Conservation Service as one of three Pheasants Forever "farm bill biologists" in Montana. Funding for her position is shared between NRCS, Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks, Duck Unlimited, and local Pheasants Forever Chapter.

Please join us Friday, Feb. 3, to learn more. Bring your lunch; we'll provide dessert!

For questions or more information on NPARRL's 2017 Brown-bagger Series, contact Beth Redlin at 406-433-9427 or beth.redlin@ars.usda.gov.

Montana Department of Transportation Proposes Construction of Multi-Use Path and Sidewalk in Sidney

The Montana Department of Transportation (MDT) would like to notify the public and seek comments on a proposal to design and build Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)-compliant multi-use path and sidewalk along approximately 0.37 miles of the north side of 14th Street SE and the west side of 9th Ave SE in Sidney. The project begins at the intersection of 14th Street SE and 4th Avenue SE at reference post (RP) 0.37 and extends east along 14th Street SE for 0.28 miles to 9th Avenue SE at RP 0.65. The project then runs northeast for 0.09 miles along 9th Avenue SE from the intersection with 14th Street SE at RP 0.00 to 10th Ave SE at RP 0.09.

Proposed work includes construction of ADA-compliant multi-use path along 14th Street SE and ADA-complaint sidewalk along 9th Avenue SE. The purpose of the project is to extend the existing multi-use path to allow additional residents in the southeast end of Sidney as well as Sidney High School students to realize the full benefits of the multi-use path.

An additional safety element of the multi-use path along 14th Street SE will include piping of the Lower Yellowstone Irrigation District Lateral D that is currently run as an open ditch.

Senator Tester Holds Listening Session in Sidney

Senator Jon Tester held a listening session with health care professionals from the region in Sidney last Friday, one of fifteen in the state so far, to hear their concerns about the existing Affordable Care Act (ACA), and what could be done to improve it. CEOs and representatives from area hospitals, mental health, Action For Eastern Montana, public health, and nursing homes expressed their frustration and praise with the existing system.

All agreed that coverage for pre-existing conditions and preventative services, with no caps should be kept as part of any new system.

Mental health officials stated that their outcomes had improved significantly with the expansion of Medicaid, including dental and vision, stating that mental health needs physical health. They commented that the ACA needs to be tweaked, not replaced.

With the possibility that federal dollars may not cover Medicaid in its current form, attendees worried that programs now covered, such as vision and dental, may be eliminated. Trying to care for a patient who can't eat because of bad teeth is difficult.

While some hospitals saw a higher number of insured patients, high deductibles mean much of the co-pays may not be collectible. Reporting requirements were also seen as time consuming and ineffective by some. Another issue was unequal reimbursement by federal programs, with the desire expressed that all agencies should pay the same for procedures.

The lack of tort reform with the ACA was also discussed with the comment that doctors and hospitals are forced to practice 'defensive medicine', possibly ordering more tests than necessary, to prevent a potential lawsuit. Senator Tester agreed that more transparency is needed in all areas.

Public health expressed frustration with the lack of prevention funds they receive, stating that the dollars go from the feds to the state, but very little comes to Richland County even though their services are more cost effective than those through the hospitals.

Senator Tester thanked everyone for their input, and was headed to Plentywood to continue his listening sessions.

McWalter New President at Merchants Bank

Neil McWalter

Neil McWalter is the new president of Merchants Bank in Fairview. He has been with Merchants Bank since September, starting in Rugby, NC and transferring to Fairview in mid-December. Originally from Grand Forks, he has 24 years experience in the banking industry.

"I am happy to be here," McWalter stated. "We're here to serve the community with what ever needs they may have, whether it's ag related commercial or personal." He is also very pleased with the staff at Merchants Bank. "We have an established staff that I feel really good about. They know the community and the customers and are more than willing to help in any way they can."

McWalter has two grown, married children who live in Fargo and Grand Forks. His hobbies include fishing and riding his Harley. He is looking forward to getting acquainted with the area and becoming more involved in the community.

Judy Lapan, public health director for Richland County, and Theresa Livers, continuum of care coordinator for Sidney Health Center join Senator Jon Tester in listening to a comment regarding local health care.
