WREC Receives $750,000 For New Seed Plant

By Anna Dragseth

The NDSU Williston Research Extension Center's (WREC) employees and farmers in the MonDak trade area are excited about the good news the WREC received in late April. This good news was that the WREC received $750,000 in funding to build a brand new seed cleaning facility. This facility will benefit not only the WREC and its employees but also MonDak area growers who purchase seeds from the WREC on a regular basis.

Kyle Dragseth, Farm Manager at the WREC, explained that the funding was finally made possible by the progressiveness of Tom Wheeler, the Advisory Board President, and Jerry Bergman, the WREC Director, "They have worked long and hard to get this vision to a near reality," said Dragseth.

The research center has been trying for many years to update its current seed cleaning facility, but with lack of funding, it just wasn't possible. The WREC's current facility was built in 1956, making it the oldest one out of all the Research Centers in the state of North Dakota.

Dragseth explained, "We are still working on fundraising and thus far have raised a little over two-thirds of the money needed to make this happen." Although the WREC still has fundraising to do, $750,000 will go a long way toward the WREC's capital campaign goal of $2.25 million.

In order to obtain the funding, there were many procedures the WREC had to go through. Dragseth explained, "There have been many hoops to jump through in an attempt to raise funds for a new facility: first was to get permission from the Board of Higher Education, NDSU, and the state legislators." Since then, a campaign has been underway to raise the necessary funds for Williston's seed-cleaning facility. One of the most significant contributors was Williston's STAR Fund donation of $250,000.

The WREC is hoping to be done with fundraising by December 2019, and if things go as planned, construction for the new facility will possibly begin in the spring of 2020.

As WREC's Farm Manager, Dragseth conducts and oversees all farming aspects of dryland research projects, farm operations, and seed production, equipment and station care and maintenance. Dragseth has worked at the WREC for 23 years full time, and four years part-time, so he has had a lot of experience with cleaning seed at the WREC's current facility.

Dragseth explained when cleaning seed at the current facility, it is challenging to keep an eye on the seeds when they are on five different levels,

WREC's current seed cleaning facility only produces 35 bushels an hour, which makes it challenging to keep up with regional demand. The new facility is expected to clean seed almost six times faster than that - approximately 200 bushels an hour. The new seed cleaning plant will be all on one level so Dragseth will be able to do several projects at once.

When Dragseth was asked what part of the new facility he was most excited about, he explained, "The seed plant being equipped with an optical sorter with infrared lighting designed for the most complex color sorting." This sorter will deliver seed with the highest genetic purity of new and higher-yielding/value-added crop varieties for MonDak area growers.

Badlands Search And Rescue Poised to Save Lives in McKenzie County

By Jaymi Loobey

In October 2018, an organization was born that could change the McKenzie County area disaster response forever. Fifteen courageous men and women banded together to create Badlands Search and Rescue, a volunteer SAR team serving Western North Dakota and Eastern Montana.

This new team is hoping to fill a large need in the area. According to former McKenzie County sheriff deputy, Travis Bateman, the nearest full-service SAR team is in Rapid City, South Dakota. Rapid City is almost 300 miles and over four hours away. There are other assets that can assist in SAR closer, such as boats, dive teams, SAR dogs, and technical teams in Williston and Dickinson but even the relatively short 50 miles between Williston and Watford City leaves plenty of space for severe weather or multiple incidents to interfere with a team's journey to a site and severely lengthen travel time to the McKenzie County area. Travis said, "The void here for a stand-alone, self-sufficient SAR team is apparent as the population grows, more back country activity occurs, and natural disasters happen more and more often." Badlands Search and Rescue seeks to fill that void by being based centrally, in Watford City, and available regionally over many counties. They are also willing to assist any and all public safety agencies at their request and be available to educate youth and outdoors enthusiasts in back country first aid, survival, and safety.

The current members are all highly trained to conduct responses and activities that are often drawn out over three hours or longer and require specific and dedicated assets to missions such as missing people, lost hunters/fishermen/hikers/mountain bikers; boating incidents, drownings, falls from cliffs, personal aircraft crash, jet ski crash, technical/high-angle rescues in Badlands terrain, and ATV and off-road vehicle incidents. The main challenges locally are the terrain and the availability of capable, trained personnel making them different from the typical fire, rescue or EMS responses that typically don't last beyond two to three hours and require an additional skillset only attained from SAR training. Badlands SAR is a member of the National Association for Search & Rescue. Their training and certifications for SAR are attained through courses provided by the association. The medical training certifications BSAR attain through North Dakota EMS Association. They are currently pursuing additional rescue, rope, extrication training through the North Dakota Firefighters Association, and State of North Dakota.

They are an all-volunteer organization, funded by donations, grants, fundraising, and individual member investments and as of June 25, 2019 they were approved for 501C3 non-profit status so now charitable donors can receive a tax cut. They are currently in need of snow/winter weather equipment to aid in SAR calls as well as augment EMS when ambulances are incapable of traversing due to blizzards or heavy snow events. They are also seeking a base location for the team to store response vehicles, gear, have training and meetings.

Phenomenal assistance has already been provided in starting the team by the McKenzie County Emergency Manager and North Dakota Department of Emergency Services SAR Coordinator and State Radio. They received several donations, including gear and funds.

Currently, BSAR only has fifteen members and has yet to start recruiting but as the organization develops they plan to start recruiting as early as fall, 2019. Those interested in joining the team when recruitment opens can email BSAR to get information on the requirements of membership.

Badlands SAR's responses are entirely free. They stand by the national approach that they will not charge for their services but will gladly accept donations in order to continue to provide help to others that find themselves in duress. The only billing that may come from an incident would be from air and/or ground ambulance services if they transport a patient, hospital if they treat a patient, or law enforcement if they choose to charge for a criminal violation or for the search efforts from their department. People and companies wishing to donate funds or equipment can contact Badlands SAR at www.badlandssarnd@gmail.com or visit and message their Facebook page (Badlands Search & Rescue Group). Also, if anyone knows of or has a suitable location in the Watford City area, the team can use please email BSAR. Donors will be informed of exactly what their contributions to the team were used for. Travis said, "It's important for them to know how they are aiding us."

Severson Pleads Not Guilty

Kyle Severson plead not guilty in district court on July 15 to the charge of deliberate homicide before Judge Katherine Bidegaray. The charge was filed in connection with the shooting death of Tyler Hayden on July 2. An omnibus hearing is scheduled for Sept. 16 at 9:15 a.m. The court set a trial date of Dec. 10-13.

Public defender, Michael Haase, made a motion to reduce bail. Judge Bidegaray set a date of Aug 12 at 8:15 a.m. to hear arguments on the motion. Severson's bail is currently set at $2,000,000.

If convicted, Severson faces a maximum sentence of death or 100 years in prison. The minimum sentence is 10 years in prison.

According to a statement released by authorities, Sidney police responded to a report of a shooting on the night of July 2 to the Loaf-N-Jug convenience store at 706 S. Central Ave., Sidney. Upon arrival the officers located an unresponsive Tyler Anthony Hayden who appeared to be the victim of a gunshot wound. Richland County EMS assessed the victim and determined that he was deceased. Severson turned himself in to police following the incident.

According to court documents, Severson waived his right to an attorney and provided a statement to police. Severson stated to police there was an interaction between the victim and Severson's girlfriend, Karina Orozco inside Loaf-N-Jug. Orozco, Severson and his young daughter were driving away from the convenience store when the victim approached the vehicle. Orozco was driving and stopped the vehicle, then Severson shot Hayden.

Video surveillance from Gem City Motors located directly across the street from Loaf-N-Jug shows Hayden approaching the SUV, stopping, and immediately falling to the ground.

Severson also stated that he had begun carrying a gun for protection after Hayden allegedly assaulted him in April 2018.

The matter remains under investigation by the Sidney

Police Department with the assistance of the Richland County Sheriff's Office.

Richland County to Receive $300,000 for Water Infrastructure Improvement Thanks to Tester

Grant funding will help upgrade the Sidney Water Users Irrigation District Main Canal

(U.S. Senate) — In his ongoing efforts to improve and rebuild Montana's aging water infrastructure, U.S. Senator Jon Tester has made a big splash by helping to procure a $300,000 grant to upgrade water lines in Richland County.

The $300,000 WaterSMART grant—funded by the U.S. Department of Interior Bureau of Reclamation—will help improve the efficiency of the earthen Main Canal in the Sidney Water Users Irrigation District by converting 12,200 feet of canal to a pipeline, reducing seepage and saving more than 1,300 acre feet of water. The $300,000 grant will be matched with $346,116 in non-federal funding for the project.

“Water is the lifeblood of our rural communities,” said Tester. “In many places across our state, waters systems are outdated and wasteful, and investing in critical infrastructure like this is investing in the future of small towns in Montana.”

Through his role on the Senate Appropriations Commit- tee, Tester helped secure funding for the WaterSMART grant program to help communities conserve water and improve in- frastructure. However, the Trump Administration’s FY20 budget proposed cutting the program from $34 million in the last Fiscal Year to just $10 million.

As the only working farmer in the US Senate, Tester con- tinually fights for rural communities. In 2018, Tester worked across the aisle to secure the Water Resources Development Act, which passed the Senate 99-1. Last year, Tester helped pass the 2019 Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, which includes much-needed investments to help deliver clean water to communities across Montana.

Defense to Make Motion to Continue in Hinds Case

The defense for Sasha Hinds indicated it will make a motion to continue during an omnibus hearing on July 15 before District Katherine Bidegaray. The pretrial motions will be heard in court on July 29. Hinds appeared in court via video from the Montana State Hospital in Warm Springs.

Public defender, Cynthia Thornton, also stated to the judge that the defense plans to complete their own evaluation of Hinds’ fitness to stand trial. Documentation of the evaluation from the Montana State Hospital has not been released.

A status hearing on the case is scheduled for Aug. 26.

On April 15, Hinds entered a plea of not guilty to the charges of Deliberate Homicide and Aggravated Assault in connection with the death of her 2-month old daughter, Kylie Ann Hinds, and the stabbing of Brendan James Sheehan.

If convicted Hinds could face death, life imprisonment or a 100-year sentence. The minimum penalty is 10 years impris- onment.

Confluence of Creativity Coming to the MDHC

Invitational Art Exhibition, Now Through July 27

Local artists Trish Stevenson and Afton Ray have gathered a treasure trove of local and regional artists to the "Confluence of Creativity" at the MonDak Heritage

Center in Sidney. The show, which runs through July 27, will feature about 14 different artists including painters, a book illustrator, a glass artist and more, plus musical acts.

The Roundup will be regularly featuring artists from the show.

Linda Conradsen
A lifetime Montanan, Linda uses the rugged countryside and native creatures of her beautiful home state as the theme of many of her paintings. Although she works most often in oil and acrylics she also creates pencil sketches. Linda enjoys a challenge and is very flexible with clients.
"I've loved art since my early school years," says Linda, "but I only began taking a real interest in painting after I got married and started a family." She took classes from area artists and eventually began teaching her own classes. "After my family grew to 10 grandchildren, I haven't had time to teach, but I'm always willing to give helpful advice if anyone asks.

One of Linda's favorite commissions is a series of five paintings – "Clark on the Yellowstone." Each painting in the series depicts an event that occurred in the region during the Lewis & Clark Expedition. "Interestingly, all of the events were encounters Clark and his crew had in one single day – August 2, 1806," explained Linda.
Linda has done original paintings for the local chapters of Ducks Unlimited and Pheasants Forever. She does a 2-hour quick draw/painting for the Foundation for Community Care in Sidney as a fundraiser during their annual Wine and Food Festival. Proceeds benefit those with health care needs in the local area.
Linda primarily does com-

mission work and is happy to do "remarks" (original drawing or painting) on matting or paintings, in conjunction with her prints. "I feel very fortunate to have been given this talent by God, and to live in this great country." That sums up how Linda approaches her art.

Fairview will host its 73rd annual Old Timers Reunion and Summer Festival this weekend, July 19 to 21. Lots of old favorite activities are back, combined with some new events, to make the weekend fun for everyone. Unless otherwise noted, all events take place in Sharbono Park.

Meet your friends and family Friday night for tasty hamburgers in the park from 5-7 p.m., hosted by the Class of 65, with proceeds going towards festival expenses. Registration of Old Timers will take place at that time, while Ally Cayko Schriver entertains under the gazebo.

NEW!! Kids can register Friday night to win one of four bicycles to be given away at the beginning of the program on Saturday. You must be present to win.

One-man band, Josh Kehr, will be livening up main street from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. with some great dancing and listening music, sponsored by Hotel Albert, Double Barrel Saloon and Waterhole #3.

Plan to spend your whole Saturday in Fairview, beginning with the annual 5K run/walk at 7 a.m. Call Bert Olson at 406-480-6162 to pre-register. The Fairview Firemen's free-will pancake and sausage breakfast takes place from 7 to 10 a.m. at the fire hall. Tours will be available.

Old Timers can register from 9:30 a.m. until noon.

Vendors will be set up all day and the Classic Car Show will be held at the North end of the park.

Beginning at 10 a.m., Fairview's history from the MonDak Heritage Center, including items from the Brodhead Maternity Home, and digital copies of the Fairview Newspapers, will be on display in the Other Room at the Hotel Albert. Other displays are welcome, contact the Festival Committee.

Catch all the little "Hometown Heroes" during the Kiddy Parade at 11:30 a.m. Line up is at the MonDak Clinic.

FREE LUNCH!! The Festival Committee extends a special invitation to everyone to come and enjoy lunch, courtesy of the committee. Prepared by Tim Neu and his staff at Super Valu, the delicious lunch will be served by the Zion Lutheran Church congregation. Festival committee member Dennis Trudell said they are really encouraging a great turnout of people to enjoy the food prepared. NO BUTTON NEEDED.

Grand Parade entrants need to line up on State Street at noon. The parade, which is always full of floats, horses, equipment and vintage vehicles, will take place at 1p.m. There's always plenty of candy and maybe a water balloon or two.

At 2 p.m., the program will begin with the raising of the flags by the American Legion.

This year's honoree, Eddie Buxbaum will be saluted, followed by entertainment.

Immediately after the program, teams will compete in the Tug-of-War which is a revival from years ago when Montana and North Dakota teams used to vie for the championship. Class reunions, families, businesses and friends can register their team by calling Lyle Carlson at 406-480-5815.

The Fairview Community Foundation is sponsoring bouncy houses, laser tag, mini golf, swing cars, fun castle, foam pit and lots more from 2 to 6 p.m., all for only $20 per wrist band.

Take in the Ice Cream social from 3:30 to 5 p.m. at the High School. Tours of the new addition will be available. Explore America will host the popular Duck Race at the canal bridge at 4 p.m.

CASH PRIZES!! Make sure you're in the park at 5:30 p.m. when the festival committee draws for (5) $100 prizes, by button numbers. You must be present to win.

Be a part of history in the 3rd annual Town Photo at 8 p.m. in the street outside Waterhole #3. Stay for the street dance with live music by Sidney's "Stone Yellow" Band from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Wrap up the weekend with church in the park Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m.

Eddie Buxbaum This Year's Honoree For Fairview's 73rd Annual Old Timers Reunion & Summer Festival

By Jaymi Loobey

Every year since 1946, on the third weekend of July the people of Fairview, Montana have come together to reminisce and honor the people who have made a difference in the community. This year, 2019, Eddie Buxbaum will get his face on the Fairview Old Timer's Reunion and Summer Festival button.

Eddie was not born here. His family moved from Nebraska to Crane, Montana way back in 1930. He spent most of his childhood there until, in 1943, his father bought a farm north of Fairview. There, the family farmed sugar beets, wheat and alfalfa and raised cattle. In 1945, Eddie married Frances Gardner and they raised four children together. While farming and caring for his family, Eddie often reached out to participate in the community of Fairview. He was President of the Montana-Dakota Beet Growers Association, a member of the Fairview School board, the 1st United Bank (now Yellowstone Bank) board, Zion Lutheran Church council and a State Senator in Montana Jaycees. He also helped build Fairview's first pool. Eddie's wife, Frances opened her own dress shop in 1987 called The Modern Lady, which Eddie would help out in occasionally. Eddie and his family have known hardship as well. They lost their oldest child, Larry, to a tragic car crash and Frances went on to be with the Lord in 2008. One of his sons, Scott, stayed in the area but his daughter, Barbara, and son, Doug, left the area to start families of their own and bring up children and grandchildren to the Buxbaum line. According to Scott, his siblings stayed in Montana and a few of the grandchildren moved out of state. All but one or two of Eddie's descendants are planning to come back for the festival to celebrate. Eddie has spent most of his life in Fairview and called it home until 2017 when he moved to Sidney for health reasons.

Every year the festival's board members choose the honoree for the festival. Board Member Renee Sundheim said "Every year the festival committee comes up with names of community members that we feel are well deserved of the honor. Eddie has been very involved in many things throughout the years for Fairview. It was a hard choice as there are always many deserving people!!" The button will be sold before and during the Fairview Old Timer's Festival at businesses in Fairview such as Neu's Super Valu, Merchants Bank, Cherry's, Water Hole #3, Double Barrel, MonKota, Fairview City Hall, Hotel Albert, Fairview's Loaf and Jug, Auto Glass Pro, and Powder Keg. In Sidney, buttons can be purchased at Richland Federal Credit Union and Advanced Communications. They are numbered for a cash drawing and proceeds go towards the lunch served Saturday, July 20 in Sharbono Park. The festival will be Friday, July 19 through Sunday, July 21, in Fairview with lots of different contests, a parade, music, food, and games.

More information about the Fairview Old Timer's Festival can be found on flyers in the businesses selling the buttons and elsewhere around Sidney and Fairview as well as the event page for "73rd Annual Fairview Festival" on Facebook.

Cape Air Officials Visit Sidney Upcoming Programs Presented At Missouri-Yellowstone Confluence Interpretive Center

Andrew Bonny, vice-president of planning for Cape Air, addresses the crowd at last Wednesday’s meeting.

By Dianne Swanson
Cape Air officials met with community members July 10 to outline their plans for continuing air service to northeastern Montana. The Essential Air Service contract is up for renewal, with a meeting in Billings July 12 during which representatives from each area submitted recommendations to Washington. Walt McNutt is the representative for the Sidney area.
The biggest news from Cape Air was the addition of new twin engine Tecnam P2012 Traveller airplanes to their fleet. The planes will offer one additional seat, a luxurious cabin with Italian leather seats, improved heating, air conditioning, and noise control. Cape Air will take delivery of the first eight planes by the end of 2019, then one per month in 2020. The planes will be phased in to the market once pilots have completed training at their headquarters in Hyannis, MA. The company is currently awaiting certification of the Tecnam from the FAA. Cape Air is the world’s first airline to place the P2012 into commercial service.

The current low fares will be maintained according to company officials.
Andrew Bonny, senior vice-president of planning for Cape Air also spoke on Cape Air’s partnership with Rocky Mountain College where their aviation grads gain flight time in the co-pilot seat, then are able to advance to major airlines, providing a well-paid career.

Questions were asked about possible service to Helena, especially during the legislative session. However, EAS only allows flights within it’s designated area. Bonny did raise the possibility of charter flights out of Billings in time for the next session.

ONEOK Donates to ROI

Crestwood Announces The Opening Of The Crestwood Maagarishda Center, A Head Start Facility, In Mandaree, North Dakota

Houston, TX – Crestwood Equity Partners (NYSE: CEQP or “Crestwood”) today announced the opening of the Crestwood Maagarishda Center, the new home of the Mandaree Head Start Program. Located in the community of Mandaree on the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation, the Maagarishda Center is a state-of-the-art educational facility for children of the Mandan, Hidatsa and Arikara (MHA) Nation to grow, learn, and receive comprehensive health, nutrition and parent involvement services. Crestwood, a leader in the MLP midstream industry through its ESG and sustainability initiative, donated approximately $2 million to build the facility and partnered with the MHA Nation to raise additional funds for on-going programs at the Center. On July 17, the Center will open its doors with a public ribbon cutting ceremony and community celebration.
“This state-of-the-art-facility marks a new era for the Mandaree Head Start program and Crestwood is excited to have the opportunity to contribute to the MHA community and the development of its children,” said Robert G. Phillips, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer. “The Maagarishda Center will allow more children in the community to benefit from Head Start programming, as well as give them the education, health and nutrition needed to thrive during the critical early development years and on into adulthood.”
Crestwood has significant midstream energy operations on the Fort Berthold Indian Reservation and is committed to building resilient relationships in the communities where its employees live and work. This project gives Crestwood the opportunity to make an impactful contribution to the MHA Nation and its people.
History of Head Start Program and the MHA Nation
Head Start was founded in 1965 with the mission to promote the development and school readiness of pre-kindergarten aged children. The MHA Nation was an early provider of Head Start programing in North Dakota. Since the 1970s, the Mandaree Head Start Program had been housed in a modular building. The Maagarishda Center will allow more children to attend the Program, and strive to eliminate the wait list for additional students who were previously unable to participate due to the modular building’s limited capacity.

Kiwanis Pie Social

The Kiwanis Club of Sidney held a pie social and BBQ in Veteran's Memorial Park Friday July 12. Loren Kutzler, Rick Norby, Bill Vander Weele, and Alan Seigfreid served up the baked beans and other BBQ essentials. (Photo by Jaymi Loobey)

Seitz Insurance teamed up with Foundation Community Care to allow a few kids to participate in the Junior Volunteer Lemonade Stand during the Kiwanis Pie Social last Friday. It was a chance to give the kids a taste of entrepreneurship and philanthropy. They plan on having another one July 19th from noon to 1 pm outside of the Meadowlark Brewery and again July 26th from noon to 1 pm at the Sidney Health Center Hospital's west entrance. All proceeds go to the Cancer Coalition Aid Fund to help out Sidney Health Center Cancer Care patients with the expense of their cancer care. Tobacco Compliance Check, Watford City

Recently the Watford City Police Department in partnership with Upper Missouri Health District, North Dakota Department of Health and McKenzie County School District completed their first ever Tobacco Compliance Check at the 16 different tobacco sale locations within the City of Watford City. With the sharp increase of youth tobacco and nicotine use, WCPD has partnered with community stakeholders to prevent tobacco and nicotine access to our younger generation. WCPD would like to thank the following businesses for checking the IDs of our minors and refusing to sell Tobacco or Nicotine products.

- American Legion Bar
- Holiday Gas Station
- Cash Wise Foods
- Cash Wise Liquor
- Corner Post Gas Station
- Family Dollar (Main Street)
- Family Dollar (4th Ave Ne)
- Cenex
- One Stop Gas Station
- Jack and Jill Grocery Store
- Tobacco Depot
- Fox Hills Golf Course
- City Bar
- Twist Convenience Store

The two establishments that sold tobacco or a nicotine product to a minor were Long X Bottle Shop and Kum and Go Gas Station. These businesses were warned instead of being cited and trained on North Dakota Tobacco Laws. WCPD will continue with these Tobacco Compliance Checks in the future, using grant funding provided by the Upper Missouri Health District and North Dakota Department of Health.

All media inquiries can be directed to WCPD Public Information Officer Sgt. Jeffrey Jensen by calling 701-842-2280 or via email at JGJEN-SEN@nd.gov.

Pet Peeves

By Lois Stephens

We all encounter inanities in life. Pet peeves, gripes, and complaints differ greatly among people. What drives me totally mad does not seem to bother others at all. Each one of us experiences minor life encounters and occurrences that annoy us as an individual immensely while others around us don't seem to find the same happenings nearly as irritating as we do. Thank goodness tolerance levels differ from person to person.

I thought I would share some of the occurrences in my life that vex me. I've listed several, in no particular order of annoyance.

First on the list of irksome happenings involve 'free gifts' that arrive in the mail. My first thought when I receive one of these numerous free gifts is that ALL gifts are free, or they are supposed to be. So, when someone calls something a free gift I wonder who they think they are fooling. Webster defines 'gift' as 'something given willingly' which again means it is already free, so why call it a free gift? If it isn't free, it isn't a gift, in my books. Just go ahead and send me something I didn't ask for and most likely don't even want, and then if you want to hit me up for money, go ahead, but really, I do not feel obligated to reimburse you in any way when I receive an unsolicited 'gift' of any sort.

Second, new items that do not work. This seems to be a problem that grows worse each year. Examples of this include a new cell phone that I can't register because there is a glitch in the SIM card, or a new weather station, bought for a Christmas gift, that took two hours on the phone talking to a technician and three days of live chat with a representative of the company who knew no more about the product than I do, and the end result? The brand-new weather station still does not work. Oh well, I really do like the old weather station that has served us well for the past decade, I just wanted to upgrade a little bit when I bought the non-functioning new one.

Another irritant of mine involves jeans. For some reason, it seems that jean sizing never runs true. I will try on two pairs of the same make, model, and size. One will fit, one will not. The manufacturers of jeans also advertise slim fit, low rise waist, and that often turns out incorrect as well. Low rise, slim fit jeans may be anything but, as some of the jeans I own that are supposedly 'slim fit, low waist' have a higher waist and are a lot baggier than 'normal' jeans. I really hesitate to buy pants of any sort on line as if I cannot try them on for size first, they often do not fit properly. Am I just old and grumpy, or do other people have this same issue when buying jeans?

Another one of my pet peeves that truly does discourage me involves information on food packages. Manufacturers list calorie and nutrition facts on everything from recipes to prepackaged products. I think we worry too much about calorie content, as obviously it does not work. Just look around at heavy America and that tells me that the people who ought to heed calorie information don't do so, while those of us who don't have to worry quite so much get totally turned off by this information. Eat less, eat well, exercise, and calories take care of themselves.

I will notice a recipe that looks fabulous. I read the ingredients only to see at the end of the instructions that one little sliver of this delicious-looking dessert contains 570 calories per one half ounce serving. A half ounce really is not very much. It would not satisfy anyone that I know. This information really is not knowledge I want, and it serves as a terrific way to spoil the desire to actually create and then eat this particular food item.

Another happening that really upsets me is noticing a vehicle that the driver has left idling while he or she runs to the store or the post office. The environment has enough problems thanks to our thoughtlessness without people starting their vehicles and letting them run for twenty minutes to warm up the interior. We truly have become a nation of softies. Idling vehicles serve as an excellent way to add to our already polluted atmosphere and offer a great way to use up gasoline without moving two feet.

I am showing my age here, but another pet peeve involves our increasing dependence upon technology. Technology of course has served womankind well, but we have become overly dependent on it. Technology has a habit of breaking down when we need it most. I am thinking here of power outages, equipment that develops glitches that take a week to fix, and other little problems that arise when a person or business relies solely on technology and cannot function when technology fails. I also think of computer crashes, computer updates that I have no idea what gets updated or why it takes twenty minutes to complete, tablets that quit when I am trying to take an order at the Virginia City café, WIFI that won't connect for any discernable reason, and the list goes on.

The very obvious lack of spelling and grammar on the Internet also drives me crazy. I would love to land a job as a proofreader for stories on the Internet. I have no idea how to find such a job, but the Internet badly needs someone who can still spell and who knows grammar so that person or persons can fix all the horrendous mistakes. The misspellings and outrageous grammar, or lack of grammar, set my teeth on edge. I often lose interest in the story because the atrocious errors outweigh the story itself. If whoever wrote the story has no proper grasp of grammar and spelling, then I distrust anything that writer has to say anyway, so why finish the story?

So, there you have it, the top pet peeves in my life. I remind myself if these annoyances are all I have to worry about, then I do have a really good life after all.
