Foundation For Community Care Helps Cultivate The Next Generation Of Givers

By Meagan Dotson

Stop by the Foundation for Community Care on Fridays from 2-3 p.m. and support their Foundation Friday Lemonade Stand. Approximately twenty kids have volunteered their time to work at the lemonade stand this summer, with all money raised going into the Endowment Fund.

The inspiration came when families started reaching out to them, looking for ways to get their kids involved. The lemonade stand is a fun way for kids to give their time without getting anything in return.

"It's important to cultivate philanthropy from a young age," said Executive Director Gina Heckey. "We want kids to think about the Foundation for Community Care as a fun place where they can give back to their community."

The kids work in pairs or groups, and just two Fridays in, they have already received a lot of support. The Foundation Friday Lemonade Stand will also be at the 23rd Annual Benefit Golf Tournament, August 27.

The Foundation for Community Care would like to thank all the kids who are selling lemonade this year, as well as A-Z Construction who supplied all of the lemonade and cups.

Landon Stedman, left, and Ariana Stedman volunteered their time at the lemonade stand, saying that they just wanted to help out.

"We want this to be the first of many cool opportunities kids will have to get involved with giving back," added Heather Cotter, Community Engagement Coordinator.

Kids will be selling lemonade July 22 and 29, and August 12, and 19 so be sure to stop by and get a cold drink during these hot summer days.

Watford Market to Debut Thursday, July 21

Submitted by Daniel Stenberg

Watford City has had a farmers market for many years, but this year they are looking to expand it with more vendors, live music, grilled foods for sale, and demonstrations. Over 20 vendors have submitted applications to sell their homegrown and/or hand made products. It starts this Thursday, July 21, and will run every Thursday from 5-7pm until sometime in September at the McKenzie County Heritage Park.

"We've had a pretty good buzz of excitement about this expanded market idea" says Daniel Stenberg "I think people have been looking for something fun and unique like this, so I'm hoping now that it is about to become a reality folks will come out to support it." In addition to baked goods, canned items, eggs, and garden produce, folks have signed up to sell their pottery, glasswork and other handmade items. Further, each week the Watford City Lions Club will be grilling food for sale, demonstrations will be conducted (anything from learning activities about soil to Ft Union fur traders) and different local musicians will be featured to keep the atmosphere fun and inviting.

"This is an exciting opportunity. I hope both the vendors and the customers realize that we will likely encounter a few hiccups as we get this running, and as everyone starts to figure out how this whole thing will work" says Stenberg.

In addition to being the Watford Market Manager, Stenberg is the director of the McKenzie County Heritage Park. He said the idea to move the market to the Heritage Park came when brainstorming ways to get more people to come experience the park. "We have a lot of great buildings and artifacts from our county's past, but sometimes it takes an event happening here to get people to actually come onto our park grounds. Once they get here, they are excited and a little bit surprised at how much history and cool things there are to see. So we are excited to be able to share our park in this unique way."

A whole team of folks has been working to make this a reality. Jessie Veeder and Rick Lyon are in charge of the live music; Sandy Rieker and Marcia Hellandsaas are in charge of demonstrations; Amanda Buchmann is in charge of the grounds; and Laura Sanford is in charge of marketing.

The Heritage Park board committed funds to help Watford Market get kicked off this year, and since then funds have been received from the Northwest North Dakota Community Foundation, Watford City Lodging Tax, the Roughrider Fund Community Enhancement Grant, McKenzie Electric Operation Roundup Grant and the North Dakota Farmers Market & Growers Association.

Revolving Loan Fund Awarded to Pizza House

Richland Economic Development Corp. is please to announce that the Revolving Loan Fund (RLF) committee has awarded its fourteenth loan for the opening of a business in Sidney. Jennifer and Terri Moore were approved for a loan to re-open the Pizza House.

Jennifer completed an application in partnership with her lead lender, Donald Garsjo, of Yellowstone Bank of Sidney, and presented this project to the RLF committee for review. The funding request was to purchase the business, equipment and supplies.

The Pizza House has been in the community for over 40+ years and people have come to rely on the great pizza that they get there. Jennifer plans to carry on that amazing recipe, along with some additional menu items as well. Jennifer has some exciting new ideas that she'd like to try to enhance her menu.

The RLF committee is please to assist Jennifer and Terri in this business venture. The intent of the RLF is to offer an additional tool to support new business and businesss expansion projects. Donald Garsjo states, "We are so pleased to work with the Moores to keep the Pizza House in our community. The use of the RFL funds enabled Yellowstone Bank to partner with REDC to leverage our traditional lending programs."

Richland Economic Development Corp. encourages existing businesses and new business startup projects to consider the RFL as a resource. The RFL loan pool of $1,000,000 is not free money, but an investment made by the Richland County Commissioners, to assist in the development of business in our economy. The application and review process is achievable and done in conjunction with the area financial institutions in Richland County.

If you or someone you know is thinking of expanding or launching a new business in Richland County, contact any of the local financial institutions or Richland Economic Development Corp. today for an application!

Symphony in the Park

Submitted on behalf of the TBID Board
Written by Meagan Dotson

For the first time, the Billings Symphony Orchestra performed in Sidney at the Anderson Pavilion in Veteran's Memorial Park. On Friday, July 8 it's estimated that between 500 and 700 people were in attendance for the free concert and approximately 30 to 40 hotel rooms were rented to over-night guests.

Performing Symphony in the Park, which has drawn crowds to Billings, MT for 44 years, the concert was an expansion of the Sunrise Festival of the Arts. The symphony got kids involved by inviting high school band students to play a side-by-side rehearsal earlier in the day, and brought the Instrument Petting Zoo, which gave kids a chance to play a variety of real instruments. They also held a Kids Conducting Contest during the concert and had high school band students open for them.

Symphony in the Park was sponsored in part by the Tourism Business Improvement District; TBID supports events that help to further develop the community as a visitor center by partially sponsoring projects that will bring over-night guests. Projects can be an addition to existing events, such as Symphony in the Park being an addition to the Sunrise Arts Festival. They can also be completely new and original events that are being organized. It is estimated that every overnight guest generates about $150 for the community and TBID could help make that great event idea into a reality. To apply for TBID funding, visit sidneymt.com, click on the TBID tab, and select Grant Application.

Letter to the Editor

Where are your dollars going every month? More specifically, where are your food dollars are going?

Montanans spend more than $3 billion dollars per year on food. Up until 2010, the value of all the livestock and crops produced by farms and ranches in Montana was $3 billion. Of all the food consumed in Montana, only about 10% of what Montanans eat is produced in the state.

Again, Montanans only eat 10% of food produced locally. Therefore, Montana businesses are losing about $2.7 billion dollars to out of state businesses to produce food that, for the most part, could be produced here.

The US Department of Labor estimates that it costs about $58,000 to create a new job. That means about 46,000 good paying jobs could be created if we only ate food made in Montana!

Maybe that's a pretty tall order, so imagine just a 10% increase in consumption of foods made in Montana; we would create 4,600 new jobs.

Do yourself and all of us a favor, eat healthy – eat smart – eat Montana-made foods. Take the Montana Local Food Challenge at mtlocalfoodchallenge.org.

The Alexander Settlers Museum Showcases Summer Events

Submitted by Alexander Settlers Museum
The Alexander Settlers Museum on the Lewis and Clark Trail, formerly known as the Lewis and Clark Trail Museum, is excited to announce programming at the museum every weekend through Labor Day.

Melissa Teel-Hartman will be offering readings in North Dakota for the first time ever on July 22 and 23. Melissa, who works out of Spearfish, South Dakota, will provide guideposts for soul-inspired healing during her sessions. Private sessions are available both Friday, July 22 and Saturday, July 23 for those interested in meeting with Melissa one-on-one. A group session is also available on Friday, July 22 at 7:30pm. Private sessions are available for $60 per person, and tickets to the group session are $45 per person.

On Saturday, July 30, Williston musician Keesha Renna will perform from 7-9 p.m. on the front lawn of the museum. Everyone is welcome, and freewill donations will be accepted at the concert. Keesha believes that North Dakota, and especially the Bakken region, has a sound of its own, a sound she is inspired by. She is part of an anthology of musicians whose CD was recently released, titled, "Dakota Tales."

The following week, on Saturday Aug. 6, the museum will host a wine glass painting class at 4 p.m. Each participant will create two unique glasses that they can take home that night. The class costs $20 per person, and registration is necessary.

On August 14, 20 and 27, rangers from Fort Union Trading Post National Historic Site will provide Ranger Talks at the museum. Topics will range from the creation of the national historic site to public history to interpretation. Each talk will take place at 2 p.m., and will be free and open to the public.

Also on August 20, the museum will host a canvas painting class at 4 p.m. Participants will learn how to create a "Starry Night Deer." The class costs $25 per person, and registration is necessary.

North Dakota favorite, Jessie Veeder, will perform on the front lawn of the museum on Friday, August 26 at 7 p.m. This special event allows members of the museum to receive free admission to hear Jessie sing. Those who are not members can become members the night of the event to gain admission into the concert. Jessie recently received the "Favorite Folk Artist" award at the North Dakota Music awards, and her fourth album, "Northern Lights," is on sale now!

During our final open weekend, the Alexander Settlers Museum will sell ice cream sundaes and hotdogs during the Alexander Old Settlers' Day celebration on Saturday, September 3. Ice cream will be available at the museum from 1-3 p.m., and hotdogs will be available from 5-6 p.m.

More information on each of the events can be found on the museum's Facebook page: Alexander Settlers Museum on the Lewis and Clark Trail. Dates, times and admission varies per event. For additional information, or to register for our programs, please contact the museum at 701-828-3595 or email us at lewisandclark-nd@gmail.com.

County Agent Update

Rain and Warm Weather

With the rain and sunshine come many benefits, lush green lawns and potential high yields. But along with good there is always some bad such as mowing your lawn every few days and harmful diseases, fungus and pests. In Williams County, and a few surrounding areas, there have been reports of Wheat Midge and Fusarium Head Blight (FHB). Fusarium Head Blight, also known as scab, is a disease that thrives in warm and moist conditions. Scab is a fungi that is commonly seen on spring and winter wheat, durum and barley. Symptoms of scab are where any part or all of the head may appear bleached, but it may also infect the stem immediately below the head, causing brown/purplish discoloration to the stem tissue. Additional indications of scab infections are pink to salmon-orange spore masses which are often seen on the infected spikelets and glumes

By Danielle Steinhoff
during prolonged wet weather. Scab causes the infected kernels to shrivel, become lightweight and turn color to a dull grayish or pinkish color. Scab appears differently in barley, the spikelets may be bleached or show a browning or water soaked appearance. Severely infected barley kernels at harvest will show pinkish discoloration. Scab is a fungus that has the crop lose yield because of floret sterility, quality reductions may occur if fungal toxins (mycotoxins) are produced in infected seed. Those toxins are unacceptable for certain end uses, so toxin-containing grain is downgraded at the elevator. When scab is present in your field, some recommendations for fungicide application techniques are the following; produce a fine- to medium-sized drop (300 to 350 microns) with an 80-degree flat-fan nozzle. Angle all (flat-fan) nozzles forward to 30 to 45 degrees down from horizontal, 30 degrees is preferred. Apply fungicide at a 10 gallon per acre for controlling FHB. Position angled spray nozzles 8 to 10 inches above the grain heads.

This information and more can be found in NDSU Extension Service publications PP-804 and AE1314.

Project Safe Send

This is a program for farmers, ranchers, homeowners, pesticide dealers and applicators and government agencies to get rid of their old pesticides, herbicides, insecticides, rodenticides, and fungicides. If the containers are deteriorating or leaking, pack them in a larger container with absorbent material. This event requires no pre-registration, but you are encouraged to check the ND Department of Agriculture website prior to bringing in products to make sure they are still collecting. <https://www.nd.gov/ndda/program/proect-safe-send>. For more information contact Jeremiah at (800) 242-7535. The local collection dates are Tuesday July 19th at the North Dakota Department of Transportation facility in Williston and Wed., July 20th at 8250 62nd St. NW, Stanley.

Senator Tester Announces Western Wildfire Initiative

By Meagan Dotson
On July 13, Senator Jon Tester addressed several issues, the first being the fire season in Montana that has expanded earlier into the spring and later into the fall. Fighting fires consumed more than 50% of the Forest Service's budget last year vs 16% 20 years ago, and the cost is only expected to rise.

"We need to change the way we pay for firefighting," Tester stated.

The Senator announced his Western Wildlife Initiative, which is three bills designed to aid Montana during fire seasons. The first bill is the Wildlife Disaster Funding Act, which would give the Forest Service access to emergency funding that is available for other types of natural disasters, rather than using funds from the general Forest Service budget. This would mean that more time and money could be spent doing maintenance work such as cutting trees and maintaining trails.

The second bill is the bipartisan Wildfire Mitigation Assistance Act, providing Hazard Mitigation Assistance to communities that have been affected by wildfire. These FEMA funds will assist with building erosion barriers, improve drainage to prevent flooding, and restore burned land, helping to prevent future disaster.

The third bill is the Land Management Workforce Flexibility Act, allowing part-time seasonal employees an opportunity to advance their career with full-time positions in the federal workforce.

"These brave men and women routinely run into harm's way to protect our communities and we need to ensure they get a fair shake at career advancement," Tester said.

However, the Senate will be going to recess for seven weeks, with this being the least amount of time that the Senate has been in session in 60 years, and firefighting isn't the only issue that will be left unresolved over the recess.

"This isn't because of a lack of solutions, it's because some folks are refusing to roll up their sleeves and get things done," he said.

For example, the bipartisan Veteran's First Act is currently being blocked by one Senator, meaning that Montana Veterans will continue to have obstacles accessing care.

Additionally, the fact that Judge Merrick Garland was nominated four months ago, and the Judiciary Committee hasn't had a hearing, has left the Supreme Court with only eight Justices rather than the needed nine.

"Washington is broken but that shouldn't stop us from working hard and trying to make progress," Tester encouraged.

The Senator has plans to travel throughout the state over the next few weeks, saying, "Between harvesting and meeting the good people of Montana, it should be a good July, August, and early September."

Daines' Rural Water Bill Clears Energy Committee

Submitted by Marcie Kinzel
U.S. SENATE — U.S. Senator Steve Daines' bill that moves Montana rural water projects forward and ensures the completion of authorized projects across Montana today cleared the U.S. Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

The Western Water Supply and Planning Enhancement Act is a bill that would help improve the efficiency of existing water supply infrastructure, ease the regulatory burden on new projects and protect water rights that are critical to the prosperity of the western United States.

The bill also accelerates implementation of Montana driven forest management projects that enhance watersheds and reduce the risk of wildfires. This is critical for Montana as there are approximately 1,393 watersheds encompassed by at least 25 percent of National Forest lands in the state.

"If I told you that today, over 22,000 Montanans lack access to a steady supply of water, you'd be shocked," Daines stated. "That's why it was important to me to include measures that will improve the efficiency of existing water supply infrastructures and protect water rights in this bill."

"Through the impeccable leadership of Senator Daines, Dry-Redwater is proud to announce we have made significant strides toward authorization to bring clean drinking water to Eastern Montana," Jerry Meissner, Chairman, Dry-Redwater Regional Water Authority stated.

Daines introduced this bill on May 9, 2016 and subsequently requested a legislative hearing that occurred on May 16, 2016.

The legislation includes Daines' bill S. 1552, the Clean Water for Rural Communities Act. It authorizes two Bureau of Reclamation rural water projects—the Dry-Redwater Rural Water System and the Musselshell-Judith Rural Water System. Daines' bill received its first Senate hearing on June 18, 2015.

Daines' bill will collectively facilitate water treatment and delivery to 22,500 residents in Dawson, Garfield, McCone, Prairie, Richland, Judith Basin, Wheatland, Golden Valley, Fergus, Yellowstone, and Musselshell Counties in Montana and McKenzie County, North Dakota.

The Western Water Supply and Planning Enhancement Act also includes the IRRIGATE Act, which Daines introduced last year. The IRRIGATE Act would create an Indian Irrigation Fund that would help facilitate irrigation projects, particularly those with deferred maintenance, throughout Indian Country.

McKenzie County Healthcare Systems to Expand Services with Participation in National Pilot Project

Submitted by Lynn Welker
McKenzie County Healthcare Systems has announced their participation in the Frontier Community Health Integration Project (FCHIP), a CMS (Centers for Medicare/Medicaid Services) pilot project, scheduled to begin August 1st. McKenzie County Healthcare Systems (MCHS), the only healthcare facility in McKenzie County, will be able to provide enhanced Telehealth services for various medical consultations and interventions to patients accessing healthcare services.

The FCHIP Demonstration Project will allow for enhanced 'cost-based' reimbursement for eligible Critical Access Hospitals by offering waivers in three healthcare areas: Telehealth, Swing Bed and Ambulance Services. Telehealth uses digital information and communication technologies, such as computers and mobile devices, to allow for face-to-face interaction for rural patients with specialists located in large hospital systems hundreds of miles from rural hospitals. Digital images can also be forwarded to specialists for diagnostic evaluation and determination of treatment.

MCHS currently uses Telehealth to allow our emergency room physicians to access the expanded expertise of the emergency room physicians associated with Sanford Health. MCHS will implement Telehealth services in phases. Initially, services of a Registered Dietician will be utilized to provide counseling and guidance in association with the Diabetes Education program. Once that program is operating smoothly, MCHS will transition into offering adolescent psychiatric services. Beyond the above, the expectation is to continually add additional physician specialty services through our Telehealth offerings.

Daniel Kelly, CEO at MCHS, said, "The FCHIP Demonstration is slated for a three year period and will include hospitals in Montana, North Dakota and Nevada. With the proposed increase in payment, rural hospitals can enhance the services they provide to their community members. Having access to specialty services with Telehealth has the potential to prevent avoidable transfers to larger facilities, while keeping patients in their hometown healthcare facility, and ultimately, reducing medical costs."

Jerry Jurena, President of the North Dakota Hospital Association, reports, "This federal project will strengthen the healthcare delivery model in North Dakota by increasing access to care. The project will create increased funding opportunities for hospitals so services and healthcare professionals remain in rural areas. Without federal projects like FCHIP, rural hospitals may need to limit the services they provide to a community. The North Dakota Hospital Association supports this project because it helps enhance the healthcare infrastructure in rural North Dakota."

The population of McKenzie County may preclude the healthcare systems' ability to attract full-time specialists such as a cardiologist or neurologist. When MCHS can, they will attempt to attract those specialists to come to Watford City on a part-time basis. "When it is not practical to have a specialist physically present in Watford City, Telehealth can allow us to offer the services of those providers to our community," comments Daniel Kelly, CEO of MCHS. "Once again I applaud the Board of Trustees and leadership in having the vision to continually strive to provide the most comprehensive medical care we can based on our geography and population."

Sidney Tiger Sharks Take 1st Place in Glendive

The Tiger Sharks had a great showing of 75 athletes in Glendive. They had many race for the first time and a large majority of the athletes made it to Sunday which allowed their team to score over 1300 points!!! They took home 1st in the meet and in overall relays. High point winners this meet were 1st timer Ryan Unruh for the boys 8 and under division. For the 13-14 girls division, Ashlynn Kessel brought home the high point trophy. The Sidney Tiger Sharks are gearing up for their home meet. The team is in hopes that the community will come to watch and support these talented young men and women who labor through many cold mornings, hot days, and long sets of swimming to represent the town of Sidney.

The Sherry Arnold Walking/Bike Path Valuable Asset to the Community

By Meagan Dotson

One of my favorite things to do during the summer is to take family bike rides. Really this has included mostly pushing a stroller or walking a dog for me, but that's perfectly fine because the convenience of our local Sherry Arnold walking/bike path lends itself to all of the above.

About five years ago our family was looking for something to replace our winter-time game night and so we began taking our kids and dog to the walking path. We had recently moved alongside Hwy 16 and no longer had the luxury of sidewalks, so this walking path would be where my two oldest children would learn to ride their bikes. And so it goes... load up the bikes, the stroller, the kids, the dog and we're off! I've always felt that our unloading of all this warranted circus music, but maybe that's part of the fun.

The path that begins at the National Guard Armory, 2190 W Holly St, and ends at Sidney High School, 1012 4th Ave SE, offered my kids a chance to ride at their own pace, knowing they were to turn around once they couldn't see mom and dad. As a parent it is nice to know that they have a safe place to ride away from the streets, so my husband and I could push the stroller and walk our aging black lab.

There are stretching posts, mile markers, and benches to stop and rest along the way. My personal recommendation is to stop and enjoy Fox Creek from Peterson Park, and be sure to venture across the old county bridge which was put to good use over the little creek.

In addition to being a free family outing and good exercise, the walking/bike path offers access to West Side Elementary, Svarre Municipal Pool, the Richland Rangers Hockey Arena, the baseball field at Moose Park, Veterans Memorial Park, Sidney Middle School, the tennis courts at Arboretum

Park, and Niehenke Skate Park.

Now there are plans to extend the Sherry Arnold walking/ bike path, recently named in honor of the late Sherry Arnold who was an avid runner in the community. The path will be extended an additional 1,200 to 1,500 feet, to 9th Ave, 6th Ave SE, and 14th St, which is a testament to how a single good idea can be added to and enhanced over the years and as it sees change, so do we. This year is the first in many that I've found myself back on a bike! With that, our youngest will be able to enjoy a parent-powered bike ride, and what his brother and sister already love... going faster!

As our two oldest kids wait to cross 9th Ave, we are pleased to see three different cars stop to let them cross.

Tiger Sharks Earn 1st at Sidney Invitational

The Sidney Sharks entered the Shark Tank for our 2016 meet and the sharks were fierce in the water. We had around 84 swimmers swim, some for the very first time this season. They took first in the relays and first overall for the meet. Over 95% of the swimmers swimming got personal records. We had a few high point winners, Ryan Unruh in the boys 8 and over, Aren Larson in boys 9-10 year olds, Hadley Garsjo, and Ashlynn Kessell tied for high point in the 13-14 age group.

Our meet could not have happened without all the help from the Sidney Swim Team parents and board. We also have many businesses and people that helped to make this meet happen. Margene Rambur for her exceptional caramel rolls. Elkhorn/Mitchell's for the use of their crane to put our docks into the pool. Cenex Harvest States for their numerous donations. Candy Markwald and the Sidney swimming pool lifeguards for their time and professionalism. Pam and Richard Dahl and Becky Reidle for their abundant donations to our program. MFCP crew for their help with blocks and dock prep. Wellpro Inc. for the use of the bbq grill. Reynolds, Reese and Ray's IGA and Cattle-ac for the donation of fruit for smoothies. LYREA for the use of their tables and chairs. Blue Rock for the use of their trailers. We hope we have not missed anyone and really appreciate all the support from the community.
